Handsomely illustrated. 12mo. Cloth, 90 cents net.

POSTAGE 10 CENTS EXTRA

THIS is the first volume of The Harbor Hill Romances, a series of the sweetest love stories any reader can desire. Jess was the waif of a storm, picked up by an honest old lighthouse keeper who, having lost his own child, brings up Jess as his daughter. Everyone loves Jess, but her acknowledged sweetheart is a young doctor who has loved her since childhood. There is an automobile accident, a young fellow from the city is hurt and is brought to the lighthouse. This city chap, with rather a shadowy past, makes violent love to Jess, and tries to solve the mystery of her identity. Then, from the city, comes a dashing young lady, who stays at the doctor's house and further complicates matters. Later, a tremendous storm sweeps the coast and the young doctor finds himself in great peril. It is brave, noble-hearted Jess who goes to the rescue, and then the two find out the wonderful depth of their love.

THE PRICE OF A HEART

BY RAMIE A. SHERIDAN

Handsomely illustrated. 12mo. Cloth, 90 cents net.

POSTAGE 10 CENTS EXTRA

ONCE again we are taken to quaint old Harbor Hill, down into the town where the same genial characters congregate at the general store, and up to the lighthouse where the old keeper still holds forth. Jess is preparing for her wedding when a report is circulated that calls for a halt in the proceedings. Poor, trusting Jess is nearly heartbroken. But just as the skies are darkest, like a lightning flash, the truth is made known, and the reader realizes "the price of a heart." Indeed, the book has its tears, but they are more than relieved by the quaint humor which sparkles through the story. To know Jess is to love her, and to want to know more about her.

Gypsy begins by playing fair, only to discover that Society plus a mother are opponents. Trickery takes the place of honor. The field of sport becomes a scene of battle. Events stumble over one another. Victory beckons, then mocks, while the world applauds. One participant finds the game too swift and slips quietly into peace and obscurity. Gypsy is about to follow suit, when—but read for yourself and you'll say that the game has been well worth the candle.

BOOKS FOR BOYS

A NEW HISTORICAL LINE

THE REVOLUTIONARY SERIES

BY GEORGE A. WARREN

HISTORICAL stories are dear to the hearts of all American lads, and here is a line that is not only new, but of the best. Professor Warren has historical data on his finger tips, and he knows how to tell a story so it will grip the reader from start to finish.

12mo. Cloth. Handsomely Illustrated

Price, per volume, $1.00

THE MUSKET BOYS OF OLD BOSTON

Or, THE FIRST BLOW FOR LIBERTY

THIS initial volume takes in the struggle from Lexington and Concord to Bunker Hill and the evacuation of Boston by General Gage. The Musket Boys are three chums who go into the army, two serving as soldiers and one as a spy, and they have many adventures both with the British and with the unfriendly Tories. A dashing war tale, based on the best historical authorities.

THE MUSKET BOYS UNDER WASHINGTON

Or, THE TORIES OF OLD NEW YORK

FROM Boston the scene is shifted to Long Island, with its fierce fighting, and then to New York City and to Harlem Heights. The Musket Boys aid a girl to escape from a distant relative, a miserly Tory, who wanted to take her to England, and restore the maiden to another relative, an officer in the American army. The true situation in New York City during the Revolution is well described.

THE MUSKET BOYS ON THE DELAWARE

Or, A STIRRING VICTORY AT TRENTON

THIS volume relates the particulars of some fighting along the Hudson River, and of the retreat of Washington's army across New Jersey. It also relates the famous crossing of the Delaware on Christmas night and the consequent rout of the Hessians. As before, the Musket Boys are to the front, doing their duty well. A strange disappearance and a timely rescue add to the interest of the book.

THE COLLEGE SPORTS SERIES

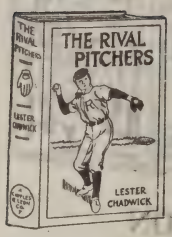
BY LESTER CHADWICK

Mr. Chadwick has played on the diamond and on the gridiron himself, and has proved himself a coach of no mean ability.

12mo. Cloth, Handsomely Illustrated.
Price per volume, $1.00

THE RIVAL PITCHERS

A STORY OF COLLEGE BASEBALL



WHEN Tom Parsons came to Randall College he was looked upon by some as a mere country boy, a "hayseed." But Tom had played baseball at home and was a good pitcher, and soon he proved his ability and was put on the scrub team. Another pitcher was jealous of him and did his best to keep Tom off the leading nine. But Tom proved his worth, and helped the college to win the pennant. The volume gives a faithful picture of college life, with its hazings, its class dinners, its rushes for colors, its "grinds," its pretty girls, and all.

BATTING TO WIN

A STORY OF COLLEGE BASEBALL

ONCE more we are on the baseball field with the dauntless nine of Randall College. As before, Tom, Phil and Sid are to the front. Sid, in particular, has developed into a heavy hitter, and the nine depends upon him to bring in the needed runs. And then something happens, and poor, misjudged Sid is debarred from playing. The nine wonders what it is going to do without Sid. Then, at the last moment, Sid clears himself and is reinstated and helps to pound out a victory that will make every reader feel like cheering.

A QUARTERBACK'S PLUCK

A STORY OF COLLEGE FOOTBALL

IS there anything more intensely thrilling than a close college football game, in which twenty-two husky fellows are doing their best to win immortal fame on the gridiron? Of all college and university sports football is undoubtedly king, and in this story Mr. Chadwick has risen to the occasion and told a story straight out of his own heart and one that is bound to grip the reader from the first chapter to the last.

THE WINNING TOUCHDOWN

A STORY OF COLLEGE FOOTBALL

FOOTBALL was a serious proposition at Randall that year. There had been the loss of several old players, and then, almost at the last moment, another good player had to be dropped. And they wanted so much to win the championship! How they went to work, and what they did practically to reorganize the eleven, and how they stood up after a particularly galling defeat, and how, in the end, they made that glorious touchdown that won the big game, is told in a way that must be read to be appreciated. Beyond a doubt, one of the greatest college football stories ever penned.

YOUNG HUNTERS OF THE LAKE

Or, OUT WITH ROD AND GUN

They fall in with an old hermit, and are occasionally molested by some rivals. They also follow up two bears and fall into a den from which at first there appears to be no outlet. One night they are badly scared by what appears to be a ghost, and the next night they investigate with amusing results.

OUT WITH GUN AND CAMERA

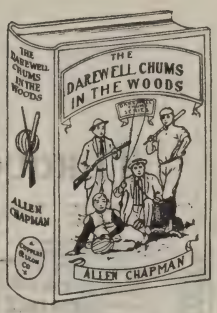
Or, THE BOY HUNTERS IN THE MOUNTAINS

Illustrated, 12mo. Cloth, 60 cents

HUNTING with a camera is fast becoming as popular as hunting with a gun. and in this volume Captain Bonehill has shown what the lads of Fairview were able to do in the way of snap-shotting wild beasts. The mystery of an escaped circus chimpanzee and an escaped lion adds to the interest of the tale. Full of good times in camp and in the woods and the mountains.

THE DAREWELL CHUMS SERIES

BY ALLEN CHAPMAN



ALLEN CHAPMAN is already well-known to thousands of boy readers through his "Boys of Pluck Series" and numerous other popular works. The lad who reads one volume of this series will surely want them all.

Cloth. Illustrated
Price, per Volume, 60 cents

THE DAREWELL CHUMS

Or, THE HEROES OF THE SCHOOL

A BRIGHT, lively story for boys, telling of the doings of four chums, at school and elsewhere. There is a strong holding plot, and several characters who are highly amusing. The volume points a strong moral, and for that reason is especially to be commended.

THE DAREWELL CHUMS IN THE CITY

Or, THE DISAPPEARANCE OF NED WILDING

FROM a country town the scene is changed to a great city. One of the chums has disappeared in an extraordinary manner, and the others institute a hunt for him. This hunt leads to some unexpected discoveries, and the chums have hard work to keep out of trouble. The youths befriend a city waif, who in turn makes a revelation which clears up the mystery.

THE DAREWELL CHUMS IN THE WOODS

Or, FRANK ROSCOE'S SECRET

THE boys had planned for a grand outing when something happened of which none of them had dreamed. They thought one of their number had done a great wrong—at least, it looked so. But they could not really believe the accusations made, so they set to work to help Frank all they could. All went camping some miles from home, and when not hunting and finishing spent their time in learning the truth of what had occurred.

THE DAREWELL CHUMS ON A CRUISE

Or, FENN MASTERSON'S ODD DISCOVERY

A SPIRITED tale of the Great Lakes. How the boys got a chance to go, what they did on the steamer and on shore, and how they solved the mystery of a valuable mine, is told in a fascinating style. There is a thrilling picture of an accident in a canal lock, and another of a great grain elevator fire.

THE DAREWELL CHUMS IN A WINTER CAMP

Or, BART KEENE'S BEST SHOT

HERE is a lively tale of ice and snow, of jolly good times in a winter camp, hunting and trapping, and of taking it easy around a roaring camp-fire. And then there is much more—a mystery, starting at the school which the Darewell Chums attended—the mystery of a mud turtle and the loss of something of great value. The mystery grows so deep that the boys finally despair of ever solving it, but in the end all is made plain in a most unexpected fashion.

THE GREAT MARVEL SERIES

BY ROY ROCKWOOD

Cloth, Illustrated

Price per volume, 60 cents

THROUGH THE AIR TO THE NORTH POLE

Or, THE WONDERFUL CRUISE OF THE ELECTRIC MONARCH

SINCE the days of Jules Verne, tales of flying machines and submarine boats have enjoyed increasing popularity. Now that airships and submarines are in actual existence, this story seems perfectly natural. Full of adventures in strange places, with strange people and strange animals.

UNDER THE OCEAN TO THE SOUTH POLE

Or, THE STRANGE CRUISE OF THE SUBMARINE WONDER

THE record of a wonderful trip from Maine to the boiling sea of the South Pole. The adventurers visit the bottom of the ocean—the graveyard of many ships—have stirring adventures with deep sea-monsters, and once their vessel is captured by savages.

FIVE THOUSAND MILES UNDERGROUND

Or, THE MYSTERY OF THE CENTER OF THE EARTH

A CRAFT is built which will sail in the air and also under the water, and in this the adventurers descend to the interior of the earth, through an immense hole found at an island in the ocean. Full of absorbing and wonderful adventures with the inhabitants of the inside world.

THROUGH SPACE TO MARS

Or, THE MOST WONDERFUL TRIP ON RECORD

A REMARKABLE piece of imaginative writing, telling how the wonderful projectile was built, how the journey was made and what happened when the planet Mars was at last reached. Perhaps the best of all the books Roy Rockwood has written.

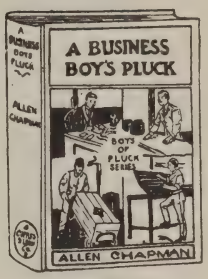
LOST ON THE MOON

Or, IN QUEST OF THE FIELD OF DIAMONDS

IN a like manner to their visit to Mars, the heroes visit the Moon. They search for a field of diamonds and find the Moon to be a land of desolation and silence. They almost perish from cold and hunger. A weird romance that will hold and charm every reader.

BOYS OF PLUCK SERIES

BY ALLEN CHAPMAN



ALLEN CHAPMAN is already favorably known to young people, and they are bound to hail this new series by him with immense satisfaction. The stories are bright and true to life, and make the best of reading for boys getting ready to enter business.

Cloth, Illustrated.
Price, per volume, 60 cents.

THE YOUNG EXPRESS AGENT

Or, BART STIRLING'S ROAD TO SUCCESS

BART'S father was the express agent in a country town. When an explosion of fireworks rendered him unfit for work, the boy took it upon himself to run the express office. Another person was jealous of the lad and tried to make trouble for him, and when some goods were missing from the office the young express agent was very much worried. The tale gives a good idea of the express business in general.

TWO BOY PUBLISHERS

Or, FROM TYPECASE TO EDITOR'S CHAIR

THIS tale will appeal strongly to all lads who wish to know how a newspaper is printed and published. The two boy publishers work their way step by step, from a tiny printing office to the ownership of a town paper. There are some keen rivalries in the town, which makes the story a lively one from beginning to end.

MAIL ORDER FRANK

Or, A SMART BOY AND HIS CHANCES

HERE we have a story covering an absolutely new field—that of the mail-order business. How Frank started in a small way and gradually worked his way up to a business figure of considerable importance is told in a fascinating manner. A volume many grown folks will like to peruse fully as well as the young folks.

A BUSINESS BOY'S PLUCK

Or, WINNING SUCCESS

ANOTHER clean-cut story of business life. It relates the doings of a youth who at first was somewhat wild, but later "settled down to business" and made a man of himself in the best sense of that term. All of the old characters of this series are introduced, and the plot revolves around the rivalry between two general stores in Pleasantville. A clear insight into business as conducted today is given, written in a charming manner, which has made Mr. Chapman such a favorite with boys.

THE YOUNG LAND AGENT

Or, THE SECRET OF THE BORDEN ESTATE

THE young land agent had several rivals, and they did all possible to bring his schemes of selling town lots to naught. But Nat persevered, showed up his rivals in their true light, and not only made a success of his business but likewise cleared up his mother's claim to some valuable real estate. A story all boys who want to make something of themselves should read.

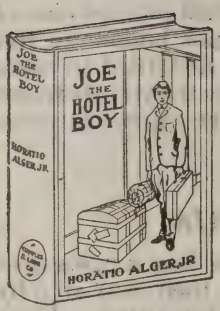
NEW ALGER BOOKS

JOE, THE HOTEL BOY

Or, WINNING OUT BY PLUCK

BY HORATIO ALGER, JR.

Illustrated, 12mo. Cloth, 60 cents



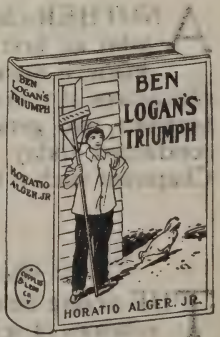
THIS is one of the last stories penned by that prince of all juvenile writers, Horatio Alger, Jr., and is one of his best. It describes the adventures of a youth brought up in the country by an old hermit. When the hermit dies the boy obtains work at a nearby hotel and later on drifts to the city and obtains a position in another hotel. There is a mystery concerning the lad's identity and likewise the disappearance of a certain blue box, but in the end all terminates satisfactorily.

BEN LOGAN'S TRIUMPH

Or, THE BOYS OF BOXWOOD ACADEMY

BY HORATIO ALGER, JR.

Illustrated, 12mo. Cloth, 60 cents



THIS story was penned by Mr. Alger some years before his death, but has never appeared in book form. Ben was a city newsboy, rather rough, but with a heart of gold. He did a great service for a good-hearted farmer and the latter took Ben home with him. The lad had never been in the country before, and his eyes were opened to a new world. Then the youth was sent to a boarding school where he made his way to the front amid many difficulties. Mr. Alger's charm as a juvenile writer is so well known, it is needless to mention it here. This story is in his best vein.

A tale that will bring Dorothy closer to the hearts of those who love her than she has ever been brought before.

THE MOTOR GIRLS SERIES

BY MARGARET PENROSE

Author of "The Dorothy Dale Series"

EVER since the enormous success of our "Motor Boys Series," by Clarence Young, we have been asked why we did not get out a similar series for girls. No one is better equipped to furnish these tales than Mrs. Penrose, who, besides being an able writer, is an expert automobilist.

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Price, per volume, 60 cents

THE MOTOR GIRLS

THE MOTOR GIRLS AT LOOKOUT BEACH

Or, IN QUEST OF THE RUNAWAYS

THERE was great excitement when the Motor Girls decided to go to Lookout Beach for the summer. Just previous to departing, they visited a strawberry farm, and there fell in with two poor little girls who were accused by a rich boarder of stealing a diamond ring. The little girls ran away, and the Motor Girls decided if possible to trace them and also solve the mystery of the missing ring. At the beach the girls had a jolly time with their young men friends, and also aided in a rescue from the surf.

THE MOTOR GIRLS THROUGH NEW ENGLAND

Or, HELD BY THE GYPSIES

THERE is a robbery at the cottage where the Motor Girls are staying and one of them sees the burglar, who escapes. Later the man, who is a gypsy, is captured. A searching party is organized, and the gypsies are followed to their camp in the mountains.

ILLUSTRATED PANTOMIMES

MY COUNTRY, 'TIS OF THEE. 50 cents. A pantomime for 1 female, by ANNA D. COOPER, illustrating by a succession of emotional and patriotic poses, the progress of the American Anthem, while it is read, or sung with musical accompaniment. It consists of over 25 graceful and effective changes of gesture, 10 of which are photographed from life, the poser being draped in the American flag. It occupies about 8 minutes and is specially adapted for schools, churches and patriotic societies.

HARK, HARK, MY SOUL. 50 cents. A beautiful rendering of the hymn in pantomime for 1 female, by ANNA D. COOPER. The sentiments of the hymn are illustrated by a lady in a continuous change of gestures, 10 of which are portrayed by photographs taken from life, while the verses are sung by a solo singer and chorus concealed from the audience. It requires about 6 or 7 minutes for performance and is strikingly effective.

GYPSY'S WARNING, The. 50 cents. A pantomime for 1 male and 2 female performers, arranged and posed by ANNA D. COOPER. The actions of the posers are illustrative of the text of the song as sung with piano accompaniment behind the scene. An old Gypsy discovers a Cavalier ardently wooing a maiden. The Gypsy recognizes him as the one who has wooed and deserted her own daughter, and warns the maiden of his perfidy. The climax, when the maiden at last convinced recoils in horror from the Cavalier, is powerfully dramatic. It is illustrated with 6 tableaux photographed from life, and occupies 8 to 10 minutes.

MISS HULDAH'S OFFER. 50 cents. A pantomime for 1 female, arranged by ANNA D. COOPER. Fully described and illustrated by 6 photographs from life. Miss Huldah, a sentimental maiden of 40, receives an offer of marriage in a letter which is read behind the scenes. (The text may also be recited as a monologue in action.) The manner in which the offer affects her is faithfully and humorously portrayed by her actions and demeanor. The struggle between jubilant satisfaction and maidenly modesty at the offer, almost past her hoping for, is very funny. The action covers about 8 minutes.

DO THE DEAD DEPART?

A most interesting research into the unseen by the author of "Seen and Unseen."

5 x 7½. Cloth, $1.50 Net

BATES, E. K.

PSYCHICAL SCIENCE AND CHRISTIANITY

It is written primarily for that large and increasing class of intelligent readers, who may not air their opinions in the Hibbert Journal or other organs of advanced Theological Thought, but who have, nevertheless, given many hours of anxious reflection to the present imminent and critical times of readjustment and reconstruction. The old garments of hard and fast Theological creeds are outgrown, having served their necessary purpose in the past. Modern freedom of thought proves this beyond question.

BATES, E. K.

SEEN AND UNSEEN

W. T. Stead says: "'Seen and Unseen' is a wonderful book. If any one desires to read something that will at once amaze and thrill him, arouse an angry spirit of contemptuous disbelief, and then compel him to admit that after all these things which he hates and despises may be true, this is the book to buy."

5 x 7½. Cloth, $1.50 Net

HOME FUN

This is a serious effort to present in practical shape almost every kind of home diversion. One of the most admirable qualities of the book is the simple style in which the subjects are explained, and the clear and perfectly comprehensible directions. No less clear and illuminating are the copious illustrations, supplementing the text on almost every page.

On the other hand, each year we have improved without raising the price. The bindings are the finest ooze goat skin obtainable, especially imported for our large trade. The title is stamped in gold. Linings are imported from France. Each volume boxed.

MARCHMONT, ARTHUR W.

AN IMPERIAL MARRIAGE

If you should happen to fall in love with the charming daughter of a proscribed Polish conspirator, and if an Imperial favorite, for whom the Kaiser had selected a very different bride, should fall in love with an opera-singer and allow it to be supposed that he was in pursuit of the Polish lady, greatly to the Kaiser's disgust—and if the unscrupulous son of a high police official should be really in love with the beautiful Polish lady, using his knowledge of her father's political crimes as a weapon to compel her to accept him—and if you should happen to be a rather obstinate and pugnacious Englishman, you would be apt to run into various interesting kinds of trouble, don't you think?

All these things and more happen to the hero of "An Imperial Marriage." How he fights his way through his difficulties one by one to a happy consummation makes a most exciting and absorbing romance of love and imperial politics.

FOR MY MUSICAL FRIEND

"The author, with rare clarity and admirable power of statement, covers a wide field. MOTHER GOOSE'S NURSERY RHYMES

In this handsome volume Walter Jerrold, who is the best living authority on this interesting branch of literature, has gathered together and carefully edited over four hundred of these favorites of our early childhood. Never before have so many different nursery rhymes been given in a single volume. A special feature of the book is the large number of illustrations by John Hassall. Brilliant as all the work of John Hassall undoubtedly is, probably the most lasting of his drawings will be the wonderful pictures which he has made to illustrate the good old nursery rhymes. It is safe to say, therefore, that this is the most complete and the most lavishly and attractively illustrated Mother Goose on the market.

Since the foundation of the Society for Psychical Research a great mass of material has been published on such subjects as Thought Transference, Crystal Gazing, Ghosts, Mediumship, Physical Phenomena and other so-called "occult" manifestations. This new volume by Professor Thomas is of intense interest, dealing sympathetically with the evidence, and shows what any man without bias in either direction may regard as proved.

THE IDYLLS OF THE KING. By Alfred Tennyson. Illustrated in color by Eleanor F. Brickdale. Handsomely bound in cloth. Boxed. Quarto. Net $5.00

Special limited edition containing proof, bound in Crushed Levant Net $25.00

THE IDYLLS OF THE KING afford a more romantic field for illustration than any other literary work that could be named. They are full of colour. They are a series of tableaux—a pageant of mental pictures.

Miss Brickdale has depicted their heroic spirit with a large interpretativeness of imagination. Her pictures have movement, lyric quality and passion. They are tapestry effects and seem to arrest in paint epic moments of scenes which actually happened. She gives us a brave and strenuous, windy world; we look out on the Arthurian land through her eyes from the window of the present.

THE SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL. By Richard Brinsley Sheridan. Illustrated by Hugh Thomson in thirty plates in color and many line decorations in black and white. Handsomely bound in cloth. Boxed. Net $5.00

Special limited edition containing special proof prints, bound in Crushed Levant Net $25.00

The delicate comedy of Hugh Thomson's work has especially adapted him to illustrate the silken fineness of THE SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL.

The piquancy of his women, their shy maidenliness, the old-world air of modesty, make the old comedy of Sheridan a new story in his picture telling.

The present edition of the great classic of Sheridan's is much more than a gift book. It is a wonderful staging of a great comedy affording the best opportunity for thorough appreciation of the art of the playwright and his interpreter.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL. By Charles Dickens. Illustrated in color by A. C. Michael. Handsomely bound. Quarto. Boxed. Net $2.50

Crushed Leather. Boxed Net $5.00

Far and away the most beautiful edition of Dickens's great Christmas masterpiece that has ever been published. The spirit of good cheer and Christmas jollity breathe through every illustration. Mr. Michael has succeeded admirably in making his paintings characteristic of the story and of the good old-times which they depict. It seems impossible that the work could have been done more exquisitely. The subdued tones and dreamlike effects of some of the illustrations carry out to perfection the faëry element in the story. In this centennial year of Dickens no better Christmas gift could be given than Mr. Michael's rendering of this famous classic.

This edition of "The fisherman's encyclopaedia of happiness" bids fair to become the standard exquisite edition of Walton's great classic. THE COMPLEAT ANGLER is a book specially requiring illustration, for it has no story to tell—it is simply a mood of lazy happiness. In this edition Mr. Thorpe has caught the atmosphere of contented ease, and his restful landscapes furnish the essential quiet and repose that give the book its exquisite charm and delight.

Croxton Smith, well known as an authority on dogs.
The edition of this book is strictly limited and the demand is so great that it bids fair to be exhausted at an early date. Early application for prospectus is urged.

Fiction

BY RALPH CONNOR.

CORPORAL CAMERON: A Tale of the MacLeod Trail. Specially drawn cover, end-papers and jacket. 12mo. Net, $1.20

A fascinating story of a Corporal in the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. The romance of the life of this marvelous body of men and their achievements have long been the wonder of the world. Over an almost limitless area they patrol and do police service; but, in addition to this, they are the comfort and the solace of the lonely settlers. This story deals with the days of Fort Macleod, one of the most prominent of the headquarters of the Mounted Police. In none of his other books has Ralph Connor had the same opportunity for the display of his remarkable talent of description and romance. This is the most attractive subject yet touched upon by him, and there is every promise that this book will be his master work.

BY MARIE CORELLI.

THE LIFE EVERLASTING: A Romance of Reality. 12mo. Net, $1.35

THE LIFE EVERLASTING, Marie Corelli's latest novel, is in her most characteristic vein. Its sub-title, a A ROMANCE OF REALITY, calls to mind an earlier volume, THE ROMANCE OF TWO WORLDS, for which there is still a steady demand. THE LIFE EVERLASTING is along the same lines of psychic thought and narrates the strange occult love-story of a mortal and immortal passion. It is a story of the unseen world which engulfs and interpenetrates ours. It contains, as we might expect, many original and advanced ideas, and several startlingly bold suggestions as to the causes of life and death.

Marie Corelli has a genius for story-telling—she writes with passion. But she has in addition a faculty more rare—the power to interpret the most complex of psychic perceptions in a language which is simple and direct.

BY HORACE ANNESLEY VACHELL.

JOHN VERNEY: A Novel of Political Life. 12mo. Net, $1.20

In this novel Mr. Vachell again presents the principal character of his very popular book, THE HILL. While the background of this story is English political life, the action and the types are Anglo-Saxon, their parallels being found wherever English is spoken and wherever the struggle lies between progress and the Old Guard. While the book is definitely in Vachell's most acceptable style, American readers cannot fail to be reminded of PETER STIRLING and of our own political struggles. To be complete there must be the real romance of the emotions of a man and a maid—and Vachells' heroine is by no means his weakest creation in an entirely satisfying story.

BY BARONESS ORCZY.

THE HEART OF A WOMAN: The Mystery of a Taxicab. 12mo. Net, $1.20
In this novel Baroness Orczy has done an exceedingly clever mystery story, the narrative of which is compellingly sustained, the plot cleverly worked out, and the secret cunningly concealed until very near the close of the book. It is frankly a book to entertain and this mission it performs with admirable skill. In its analysis of aristocracy, police-methods, love and crime will be found much of amazing sensation and interest.

BY MRS. BAILLIE-REYNOLDS.

THE NOTORIOUS MISS LISLE: A Modern Novel. 12mo. Net, $1.20
THE NOTORIOUS MISS LISLE is far and away the best creation of Mrs. Baillie-Reynolds. Through the maze of intrigue and suspicion and doubt and love Miss Lisle emerges a genuinely fresh and unhackneyed heroine. Difficult and delicate situations are handled with consummate skill and ingenuity, and such episodes as the marooning of a man and a woman, the scandal of co-respondency, are depicted with freshness and delicate tact. In its essence the book is the wholesome story of the present struggle of woman toward freedom. In her picturing of locality Mrs. Baillie-Reynolds has the rare faculty of making her readers citizens of the country of her imagining, thereby adding vivacity and thrill to her narrative.

BY MAX PEMBERTON.

CAPTAIN BLACK: A Romance of the Nameless Ship. 12mo. Net, $1.20
A novel of great vigor and imagination by that past-master of romancers, Max Pemberton, who holds the readers of Fenimore Cooper and Jules Verne, and appeals to the ever-present adventurous spirit of men and young men. This is a modern pirate-story. The Captain is outlawed by every nation and comes into possession of a submarine which is quarter of a century ahead of any similar invention. The navies of the world start in pursuit and much wealth of nations is squandered in idle search, but Captain Black escapes to his cave beneath the seas. Fantastic, adventurous, and absorbingly interesting is the story of Captain Black's unwilling guest.

BY CHARLES MORICE.

THE RE-APPEARING (Il Est Ressuscite): A Vision of the Return of Christ to Paris. 12mo. Net, $1.20
This is the translation by John Raphael of the novel which has created such stir and discussion in Paris and London. It is a bold yet very reverent book, depicting the return of Christ to the seat of the highest western world culture. It is not the novel one would expect from either its talented author or from the gay city of Paris. It has aptly been termed "a bombshell dropped upon the boulevards."—And to New York it is no less surprising than to Paris and to London. THE RE-APPEARING is a dramatic application of the New Testament to contemporary society. It is a novel and reverent rendering of the Oberammergau, wherein Christ is re-crucified in the world to-day, not upon the cross of skepticism, but upon the cross of modern intellectuality. It is a book to ponder and to cause serious thought to both individual and nation.

BY J. J. BELL.

JIM: A Scotch Lad. 16mo. Net, $ .60

When J. J. Bell gave to the world WEE MACGREGOR he added a really new character to the world of books. To many Macgregor was rather too truly depicted to be thoroughly understood. JIM is an equally fresh creation, but rather more understandable, for his speech is plainer. Then, too, JIM is a kindlier boy, yet full of ingenuous fresh humor, and reveals himself as the wisest, most lovable, and tenderest of all his author's childhood studies. How Jim broke through the crusted life of the soured old man of Clure Bay, bringing illusion and affection and sweetness back to the old man's heart, is as sweet a story as has been told in many a day. It is dainty as a sprig of white heather.

BY HAROLD BEGBIE.

THE CAGE: A Story of Marriage. 12mo. Net, $1.20

The talented author of THE VIGIL, THE PRIEST, and other notable books found the inspiration for this book in Montaigne's paragraph, "Marriage may be compared to a cage: the birds without despair to get in; and those within despair to get out." As may readily be inferred, the book deals with the problems of getting married and getting unmarried. These problems the author solves upon planes of the broadest vision of conscience, and in terms most vigorous defends the sanctity of marriage with convincing and well-nigh unanswerable argument. The book is a wholesome antidote to the divorce-court pleas of incompatibility and to the very late modern views of the marriage vow. It is a dignified yet passionate recital of the struggling and fluttering heart of a woman who ultimately finds peace and happiness.

BY ROSAMOND NAPIER.

THE FAITHFUL FAILURE: A Study of Urban Nature. 12mo. Net, $1.20

Rosamond Napier in this very striking and original novel creates a lover's world full of poignancy, color, humor and tenderness; few novelists have equalled her depiction of the wayward melancholy splendour of Nature. It is not the Nature of Hardy or Wordsworth, but Nature as seen by the city-dweller—passionate, moody, stealthy, and torturingly exquisite. Each page is jewelled by a flashing phrase, and, like Arnold Bennett, the authoress coins literature out of the trifling oddities of daily domestic life.

LETTERS TO PATTY: A Whisper from the Land of Memory. 12mo. Decorated. Net, $1.20

This series of letters form a really remarkable book. It is a gay, brave and altogether delightful record of how a child's soul awakens to the glory of the world. It makes one long and crave for the simple pleasures of the early unspoiled years of life. Every page has its own peculiar beauty,—whimsical, pathetic, and kindly. Hawthorne wrote fancifully of THE FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH, by drinking of whose waters man might become young again. LETTERS TO PATTY is no fancy. It is a breath from our childhood—a call to the loves and the simplicities of our first years.

BY G. A. BIRMINGHAM.

The novels of George A. Birmingham have found an appreciative and eager public in Great Britain and Ireland. Yet so far he has not been discovered to American readers. There have been no novels written in recent years of Ireland and the Irish which in any way compare with these by Mr. Birmingham. We offer these books with the full confidence that they will make a strong appeal to American readers, for they are big, large-hearted, and genial stories, filled with vivacity and ease of narrative, which make them stand out in flattering contrast to the general output of modern fiction. They have the flavor of that leisurely age when pleasure came daily without effort and not as a pursuit.

THE SEARCH PARTY: A humorous and clever story of homely people. 12mo. Net, $1.20

THE SIMPKINS PLOT: An amazingly clever story—a cross between Anthony Hope's DOLLY DIALOGUES and Stevenson's WRONG BOX—filled with subtle humor. 12mo. Net, $1.20

SPANISH GOLD: While reminding one of the peasant stories of James Barrie and the rollicking humor of Charles Lever, this story has its own fresh and striking individuality which gives it a first place in novel creations of character. 12mo. Net, $1.20

LALAGE'S LOVERS: The story of an Irish minx of a girl with all her flirtations and contrarinesses, yet with all her good-hearted humor. 12mo. Net, $1.20

BY ARNOLD BENNETT.

Two volumes are added to the new uniform edition of this popular author's works.

WHOM GOD HATH JOINED. 12mo. Net, $1.20

This is an intense story of the divorce question which analyzes causes, and exposes the inefficiency and inadequacy of laws governing separation and divorce.

THE MAN FROM THE NORTH. 12mo. Net, $1.20

The story of the coming to London of the author. It is interesting as a record of impressions keenly related, and in addition is a capital story of London life as contrasted with life in Five Towns.

BY H. A. CODY.

THE FOURTH WATCH: The Story of Parson John. 12mo. Net, $1.20

In his very successful first novel, THE FRONTIERSMAN, Mr. Cody dealt with a curate's work in the pioneer line in the West. In THE FOURTH WATCH the scene shifts to an Eastern and long-settled community (presumably New Brunswick) where "Parson John," as the rector is termed by his parishioners, works among a people for thirty-five years. The setting and the incident are extremely well done, and in this new story Mr. Cody shows marked development of dramatic and story-telling power.

BY ANNA C. RUDDY.

THE TENDERFOOT (Title Tentative): The Story of a Boy's Camp in Northern Ontario. Fully illustrated. 12mo. Net, $1.20

The development of Boys' Summer Camps, The Boy Scout Movement and other organizations, has made a demand for a literature of the subject that would stimulate interest upon the part of the boys and their elders. A great deal has been done for The Boy Scouts, but until this present book there has been no attractive or adequate story of Boys' Camp-life.

In an exceedingly interesting narative the author deals authoritatively and completely with all the phases of boy life in camp. It is a guide-book for boys and parents, presenting life in its most attractive and beautiful phases.

BY CHARLES M. SHELDON.

THE HIGH CALLING: The Story of an American Family. 12mo. Net, $1.20

Not since his famous book, IN HIS STEPS, has Dr. Sheldon produced a book of the power and vitality of THE HIGH CALLING. Pursuing his usual practice Dr. Sheldon reads his stories to his Sunday evening congregations. Following the reading of THE HIGH CALLING there was greater enthusiasm and more demands for instant publication than on any other similar occasion. The book deals intimately and interestingly with the lives of ordinary men and women at all points of their family and social relations.

BY ADELINE M. TESKEY.

THE YELLOW PEARL: A Story of the West and the East. 12mo. Net, $1.00

This story represents the clash of the West with the Orient. It has the keen insight into Eastern social problems of THE LETTERS OF A CHINESE OFFICIAL, and the quick sympathy and narrative interest of THE LADY OF THE DECORATION. The young lady of this story is the daughter of a Chinese mother and an Orientalized American. She came to her father's native land, and in a diary record tells the story of her observations. Her mistakes are pathetic and whimsical, her criticisms naively humorous and unconventional. That she gives us something of an idea of the Chinese view of ourselves and that this view is not entirely flattering to our pride of race, is a very important factor in the story.

ROUND ABOUT THE BLACK SEA: By William E. Curtis. With map and illustrations. Octavo. Net, $2.50

This interesting book is the account of the travels of that experienced traveller and journalist, William Eleroy Curtis, through one of the most ancient and most interesting of countries.

It has the great charm of the vision of the latest of the great civilizations reviewing in perspective one of the earliest civilizations.

As in all his work, Mr. Curtis makes much of the personal element, dealing instinctively with the important personalities in the countries visited.

His passports and his influence provided him the necessary entree enabling him to secure much fugitive material denied to many travellers.

The countries touched upon bordering the Black Sea are: Asia Minor, Armenia, Caucasus, Circassia, Daghestan, The Crimea, Roumania.

THE GOLDEN LAND: The Story and Experiences of Settlers in Canada. By Arthur E. Copping. Illustrated in colour by Harold Copping. With a Preface by the Right Hon. John Burns, M.P. Net, $1.50

The writer and his brother, the artist, in order to make themselves absolutely familiar with conditions in the Canadian Northwest, crossed the ocean as steerage passengers, travelled in colonist cars, and lodged in Immigration Hall in Winnipeg—in short did everything in their power to come to an absolutely intimate knowledge of that of which they wrote or painted. Mr. Arthur Copping reproduces with terseness and vivacity his varied information, and Mr. Harold Copping's sketches reveal the actual Canada of blue sky and sunshine, broad prairies and great mountains, stalwart men and courageous women. It is a great story of a great country.

AUSTRALIAN IMPRESSIONS: By Archibald Marshall. With a preface by Sir George Reid, K.M., G.M. Net, $1.50

A year ago Mr. Marshall went through the five states of the Australian Commonwealth, and wrote a series of articles on what he saw there. Some of these were published in "The London Daily Mail," and he has since added to them for publication in book form, several more articles and a long narrative of his various travels in the form of an Introduction. The book deals in a picturesque way with the great pastoral and agricultural and other industries carried on in Australia, with life in the great cities and in the bush, and with the Australians themselves.

EXPOSITIONS ON DANTE

BY JOHN S. CARROLL, M.A., D.D.

In three volumes, each. Octavo. Net, $3.00

IN PATRIA: An Exposition of Paradise.

PRISONERS OF HOPE: An Exposition of Purgatorio.

EXILES OF ETERNITY: An Exposition of Inferno.

Dr. Carroll is generally conceded to be the greatest living English commentator on Dante. He brings to his work not only exactitude of scholarship, but a wealth of imagination which kindles the medieval allegories into a modern significance. He makes the old world live again by laying stress on the essential unity of human spiritual needs throughout the ages. It takes a man who is a poet to interpret a poet. These expositions are of value not only to students, but also to a wider public. They are so masterly in their interpretations that they take rank as works of original thinking. They abound in delicate suggestive touches which add to the poem's meaning. They form in themselves a compendium of medieval scholarship and superstition. No more illuminative books have appeared on the subject. They comprise the labour of a life-time—a labour of love—and reveal a wise and delightful personality.

A collection of essays by a writer who, in spite of a career which has given him a large acquaintance with men and things, has found in books the main occupation of his life. There is nothing of pedantry in his charming essays, in which he says what he wishes to with geniality and humour.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF THE CHRISTIAN SOUL: By the Rev. George Steven (The Cunningham Lectures). Octavo. Cloth. Net, $2.50

CONTENTS:—THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE SOUL THROUGH EDUCATION—THE PLACE OF THE SUB-CONSCIOUS IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE SOUL—THE ENSLAVING OF THE SOUL THROUGH SIN—THE LIBERATING OF THE SOUL THROUGH CONVERSION—THE SOUL IN A MASS MOVEMENT OF A REVIVAL—PSYCHOLOGY AND THE WORK OF GRACE IN THE SOUL—THE SOUL ALONE WITH GOD.
A work as important in its way as Prof. James' VARIETIES OF RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCE.
Most writers of psychology have dealt with the subject from the standpoint of the religious nature alone. Dr. Steven, however, confines himself to the psychology of the Christian soul, an altogether different matter. His work is consequently of increased value in direct ratio as his subject is more specialized. The chapters which constitute this book were delivered as Cunningham Lectures at Edinburgh. They will be of incalculable value to the minister directly interested in his cure of souls. It is really a study of subconsciousness in relation to the soul.

THE TESTIMONY OF ST. PAUL TO CHRIST: By the Rev. Professor J. Knowling. A new and revised edition. Octavo. Net, $2.50

"Dr. Knowling writes with exhaustive knowledge, and with his invariable lucidity and accuracy of statement and admirable temper."—Dr. Sanday.

PREPARING TO PREACH: By David R. Breed, professor of Homiletics in the Western Theological Seminary. Octavo. Net, $2.00

A most valuable book for the minister and the student alike, in the pages of which an exceedingly successful teacher of homiletics steps down from the platform and talks or writes simply and to the point of the great subject of sermon preparation. No minister, no matter how good can fail to find much valuable suggestion here and it is precisely the kind of book that the student for the ministry can most profit by.

THE PROBLEM OF HUMAN SUFFERING: By the Rev. Buchanan Blake, D.D. 12mo. Net, $1.50

A study of the Book of Job which concerns itself with the spirit as well as the letter and passes almost immediately over into a study of the age old problem of evil. The others who besides Job have attempted to solve this are called upon for their testimony and the whole question is dealt with honestly and fearlessly and with insight.

SOCIAL ADVANCE: By the Rev. David Watson, M.A. 12mo. Net, $1.50

A book which seeks to meet the social crisis with which we are confronted. It discusses the meaning, method and goal of social advance, and points out the true lines of progress which must be in fourfold, viz.: by individual effort, legislative action, social co-operation and economic betterment. A remarkably sane and well-balanced treatise.

THE CHURCH AND THE DIVINE ORDER: By the Rev. Professor John Oman, D.D., Author of "Vision and Authority," etc. 12mo. Net, $1.50

Dr. Oman says: "This new study has been prompted not merely by the practical importance of the matter at the present time when Christians of various denominations are prepared to consider anew their mutual relations, but by the belief that no good will ever be accomplished till we recognize that our differences do not concern the Church, but the doctrines of God and salvation upon which our view of the Church rests."

THE PROBLEM OF THE WORK: By Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, D.D. Chapters on Work and Workers gathered from the author's experiences in world-wide evangelism. 12mo. Net, $. 50

Dr. Chapman's work has probably lead him in the last few years into more churches than any other public man, and given him more opportunities and wider and better knowledge of conditions than any other writer. In this book he deals with questions which are of the greatest importance to ministers who desire to make their churches really effective. As a sympathetic study of conditions in the church, Dr. Chapman's book must not be overlooked.

STUDIES IN THE HIGHEST THOUGHT: By A. T. Schofield, B.D., Author of "The Unconscious Mind," "The Knowledge of God," etc. 12mo. Net, $1.00

These studies have for their subject the relation of the finite to the infinite, of man to God. "There is no question," says the author, "that the higher mysteries of the Christian Faith transcend both in depth and height all the boasted wisdom of the East, and even in these brief studies sublime themes are treated upon that awaken our deepest feelings of reverence and of awe. There is a great loss of the mysteries about to-day, and it is hoped that some who may be thus attracted to these studies may pursue them until they reach the end of all mystery in the Divine.

IN A WONDERFUL ORDER: A Study of Angels. By the Rev. J. Howard Swinstead, M.A. With an introduction by the Bishop of Oxford. 12mo. Net, $1.00

"It almost seems," says the author, "that the study and belief in angels has been broken. Instruction on the subject has been relegated over much to the nursery. They have been painted as tender infants with immobile limbs and meaningless features. This unwarrantable treatment has had the insidious effect of dimming for us the reality and magnificent strength of the hosts of Heaven. My attempt in this little work is to restate the authority for believing they are there still. I have sought to convince none, but the sympathetic believer may find, as I do, increased support to his faith by having gathered in one focus the rays of angel-light that are dispersed through Holy Writ."—From the Preface.

MIRACLES AND CHRISTIANITY: By Professor J. Wendland. Edited by Professor H. R. Mackintosh, D.D. 12mo. Net, $1.50

CONTENTS:—THE CONCEPTION OF MIRACLE—THE BIBLICAL BELIEF IN MIRACLE—MIRACLE IN THE HISTORY OF CHRISTIAN THOUGHT—THE REVELATION, DEVELOPMENT, AND MIRACLE—SPIRITUAL MIRACLES—PROVIDENCE AND MIRACLES—MIRACLE AND THE HEARING OF PRAYER—MIRACLE AND HISTORICAL RESEARCH—MIRACLE IN RELATION TO CASUALITY AND NATURAL LAW.

A book which brings the discussion of miracles up to the hour, written with the care and study characteristic of the German scholars. The value of the work lies in its tracing of the place miracles have held in thought, philosophic and religious. It will be found to be a fortifying and reconstructive book.

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT IN HOLLAND DURING THE 19TH CENTURY: By the Rev. J. H. Mackay, M.A. (Hastie Lectures.) 12mo. Net, $1.50

CONTENTS:—THE REVOLUTION AND THE REVEIL—THE GRONINGEN SCHOOL AND THE EMPIRICAL SCHOOL—THE LEYDEN SCHOOL AND THE ETHICAL SCHOOL—MODERNISM—VARIETIES OF ETHICAL THEOLOGY AND CALVINISM REVIVED.

THE DEATH OF CHRIST: By the Rev. Professor James Denney, D.D.
Net, $1.50.

A new and revised edition of the book which on its appearance was hailed as the greatest book in a decade, and which marked its author at once as the greatest living theologian. With this is included the author's THE ATONEMENT AND THE MODERN MIND an answer to criticisms evoked by the earlier book. THE DEATH OF CHRIST has become a classic in theology and this new edition contains much that is lacking in the first.

THE INDWELLING SPIRIT: Studies in Pneumatology. By W. T. Davidson, M.A., D.D. Net, $1.50

The Principal of Richmond College, Surrey, writes on the subject of the Holy Spirit in a style at once scholarly and devout. While the importance of the subject has produced many books which have tended to obscure rather than illuminate, this volume is the reverse, and of value because it approaches the subject from a standpoint of experience rather than dogma, of Biblical exposition rather than philosophical discussions of life, and practice rather than theological speculation.

CONTENTS:—DIVINE IMMINENCE—THE HOLY SPIRIT IN THE NEW TESTAMENT—THE SPIRIT IN THE PSYCHOLOGY OF ST. PAUL—THE GIFTS OF THE SPIRIT—THE FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT—SPIRITUAL FREEDOM—PRAYER IN THE SPIRIT—THE SPIRIT OF HOLINESS—THE TIDES OF THE SPIRIT—THE HOLY SPIRIT AND CHRISTIAN MISSIONS—THE SPIRIT OF TRUTH—TEACHER OF TEACHERS—THE PLENTITUDE OF THE SPIRIT—A SPIRIT-FILLED CHURCH—THE INDWELLING CHRIST—THE HIDDEN LIFE—MYSTICAL RELIGION.

THE CARDINAL ELEMENTS OF THE CHRISTIAN FAITH: By the Rev. Professor D. S. Adam, B.D., Ormond College, Melbourne. 12mo.
Net, $1.50

"The following lectures were delivered to students of all faculties attending Melbourne University and in residence at Ormonde College during the winter of 1910. The addresses were given as talks or spoken addresses on Thursday evenings at the college, and owing to the exigencies of time had to be somewhat curtailed in the delivery. They are here printed in full in hopes that they may be found of interest and use by inquiring minds."—From the Preface.

CONTENTS:—ON THE CHRISTIAN CONCEPTION OF GOD—GOD'S RELATION TO THE UNIVERSE—MAN'S NATURE AND ORIGINAL CONSTITUTION—MAN AS SINFUL—THE PERSON OF CHRIST—THE CHRISTIAN REDEMPTION AS EFFECTED THROUGH CHRIST—THE APPROPRIATION OF REDEMPTION BY THE INDIVIDUAL.

CHRIST ON PARNASSUS: By the Rev. Principal P. T. Forsyth, D.D. Octavo. Net, $3.00

There is no greater authority on Sacred art than the Principal of Hackney College who here turns from the discussion of the beauty of holiness to the holiness of beauty. Imbued with clear conceptions and endowed with wide culture and an instinctive critical faculty Principal Forsyth leaves his impress on every subject he touches. While all his conclusions may not be accepted the clearness of his thinking and the definiteness of his statement leave his argument where it cannot be ignored. In every way a noteworthy book.

THE HISTORY AND WITNESS OF EVANGELICAL CHRISTIANITY: Edited by the Rev. Principal Selbie, D.D. 12mo. Net, $1.50

CONTENTS:—THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND—THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCHES—THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES—THE BAPTIST CHURCHES—THE SOCIETY OF FRIENDS —THE METHODIST CHURCHES.

A series of essays on the leading churches of Evangelical persuasion by some of their ablest exponents. Principal Selbie has wisely assigned the various parts to men not only distinguished within as well as without their particular denomination but marked also by a breath and liberality of spirit.

THE LATER LETTERS OF PRINCIPAL MARCUS DODS: A Second Series of these very interesting and important letters. 12mo. Net, $1.75

The earlier letters of Marcus Dods revealed an optimism and courage in the face of disappointment and discouragement which were no surprise to the few who knew him intimately, but which the world has not distinguished behind his modesty. These later letters are in every sense as significant but they reflect happier days and reveal a ripened and peaceful mind. In the earlier his perserverance is seen. In these the rich result of his perseverance.

PULPIT PRAYERS: Second Series. By the Rev. Alexander Maclaren, D.D. Octavo. Net, $2.00

The great Manchester preacher was known for the last years of his life as the prince of expository preachers. But by many his prayers were considered even more remarkable than his sermons. Those which compose this book have nothing of the studied about them. They were taken down by one of his listeners who yielded to their charm and power and spirituality as the reader will be apt to do.

AN HISTORICAL COMMENTARY ON THE PASTORAL EPISTLES: By Professor Sir William Ramsay, D.C.L. A comparison volume to "St. Paul and the Traveller and the Roman Citizen." Octavo. Cloth. Net, $3.00

Sir William Ramsay has covered the greater part of the New Testament with his commentaries and studies. This study of the Pastoral Epistles makes his comments on the New Testament practically complete. The erudition and understanding which he brings to the subject make his work of unique value.

STUDIES IN PAULINE THEOLOGY: By the Rev. Principal Garvie, D.D. A companion volume to "Studies in the Inner Life of Jesus." Octavo. Net, $2.00

Principal Garvie's STUDIES IN THE INNER LIFE OF JESUS is one of the best books ever written for the student desirous of coming at the heart of Christ's life. In the present book he has done the same thing for the apostle. It is an attempt to get at the real biography not the mere external accidents which pass for a biography. It is a sympathetic and penetrating analysis of his subject and a noteworthy book.

CHRISTIAN COUNSEL: By the Rev. Professor David Smith, D.D. 12mo. Net, $1.50

CONTENTS:—GOD—THE CHURCH—THE SACRAMENTS—THE LORD'S DAY—THE HOLY MINISTRY—THE HOLY SCRIPTURES—THE WORK OF GRACE—DOUBT—THE CHRISTIAN LIFE—THE HEREAFTER.

Professor Smith's first book THE DAYS OF HIS FLESH established his place as a writer and thinker. But his influence perhaps has been larger through his column in the "British Weekly." There he has answered week by week all manner of correspondents with such a happy faculty of understanding and sanity that this has become one of the features of the paper. Some of these discussions in the form of brief essays have been issued after much urging and they will be found highly deserving of their more permanent form.

THE WORK OF GRACE: A Volume of Sermons by the Rev. J. D. Jones, of Bournemouth. 12mo. Net, $1.50

CONTENTS:—THE WORK OF GRACE—BARNABAS—THE FEAR OF GOD—EMMANUEL—THE LAW OF INDIRECTNESS—THE MAKING OF A SOUL—THE DRAMA OF THE CHURCH—LOST AND FOUND ETC.

The author of these sermons probably shared with Dr. Jowett before the latter left England the foremost place as a preacher in the Congregational denomination. For simple but effective preaching Dr. Jones has few equals and his sermons may well be recommended as models for study.

GOD'S OATH: A Study of an Unfulfilled Promise to David. By Rev. Ford C. Ottman, D.D., Author of "Unfolding of the Ages." 12mo. Net, $1.25

A study of the development of the Messianic promises as made to David through the Prophet Nathan. It becomes in reality a spiritual history of Israel throughout the Old Testament and the New. Dr. Ottman marshalls his statements with clarity and force and this will be found a distinct and original contribution to the study of Messianic literature.

DEVOTIONAL HOURS WITH THE BIBLE: By J. R. Miller, D.D. VOL. V., THE LIFE OF CHRIST, Based chiefly on The Gospel of Mark, With Sidelights from the other Gospel Narratives. 12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.25

This volume closely follows the International Sunday School Lessons for 1912, and from the spiritual and devotional points of view is one of the most valuable aids to the study of the Lessons.

THE COMMONWEALTH OF THE REDEEMED: By the Late Rev. T. G. Selby, author of "The God of the Trail," "The Strenuous Gospel," etc. Being a new volume in the PREACHERS OF TO-DAY SERIES. Edited by Rev. J. Stuart Holden. 12mo. Net, $1.25

IN SILVER CHAINS: By the Rev. Dinsdale T. Young, author of "The Crimson Book." 12mo. Net, $1.25

Dr. Young is known as one of the most eloquent preachers in the Wesleyan Church in Great Britain. His work is thoughtful, devotional and pervaded at all times with a wide knowledge of mankind and a keen insight into their needs.

THE CREED IN THE PULPIT: By the Rev. Canon Hensley Henson. 12mo. Net, $1.50

Visitors to Westminster Abbey are familiar with the eloquence of Canon Henson. The higher Evangelical wing of the church has no abler or more daring preacher. The present volume is a work of sermons, all of which deal with the person and work of Christ and are grouped around the expressions of faith as recorded in the Apostles' Creed.

THE ROAD TO UNITY: By the Rev. Canon Hensley Henson. 12mo. Net, $ .75

Canon Henson is the leading exponent in his Church, and for that matter in Great Britain of church unity. He has the faculty of striking out new arguments which appeal alike to the devotional and logical faculties of his hearers. Some of the addresses which constitute this volume were delivered from the pulpit of Westminster Abbey—a striking evidence of the growth of the spirit of unity.

PUBLIC WORSHIP FOR NON-LITURGICAL CHURCHES: By Professor Arthur S. Hoyt, of Auburn Theological Seminary, Author of "The Preacher," "The Work of Preaching," etc. 12mo. Net, $ .75

This book is a plea for reverence and decorum in public worship. The general scheme and aim of the book is summed up by the author in this paragraph from his introduction:
"Our worship should express a comprehensive Christianity, as broad and vital as the Gospel itself. In the hymns we sing and the prayers we offer, and in the forms of church life that become the tests of discipleship and the expressions of service, we must always lay hold of the essential things of religion and minister to the variety of natures in the household of faith. We must not develop a narrow or eccentric piety. We must not shut out or fail to feed the natures of all who truly desire to serve God."

SOCIAL ASPECTS OF THE CROSS: By Rev. Henry Sloane Coffin, Pastor, Madison Avenue Church, and Associate Professor of Homiletics, Union Theological Seminary, New York. 12mo. Boards. Net, $ .60

Dr. Coffin's theme is that Socialism which ignores the Atonement is as wide of the mark as any discussion of the Cross which does not consider its demands upon us from the social standpoint. Sane, clear and to the point, it is a distinct contribution to the literature of truly Christian Socialism.

THE EDUCATION OF CHRIST: By Sir William Ramsay, D.C.L. 16mo. Cloth. Net, $ .75

No one is more qualified to speak or write of the early education of the youth of Asia Minor than this distinguished writer. This little booklet will be found of inestimable value to the teachers and students of the life of Christ, and will supply definite information in the field that has been altogether too little developed and in which there has been an embarrassing lack of information.

THE TEACHING OF THE LESSON: By G. Campbell Morgan, D.D.
Volume for 1912. 16mo. Leatherette. Net, $ .25
Interleaved, Leather. Net, $ .50

This stands in the front rank of the vest-pocket lesson helps. Its terse, crisp, packed comments stimulate thought.—Christian World.
Dr. Morgan is a conservative, but suggestive teacher of the Bible, and this little volume is compact and convenient.—Christian Century.
A succinct commentary full of side lights.—Baptist World.

THE MORAL CONDITION AND DEVELOPMENT OF THE CHILD: By Professor W. A. Wright. 12mo. Net, $ .75

A plea for a scientific course of religious influence on the child, treated in topics such as:
The Moral Origin of the Child. The Child as a Fact Given in Nature. Is There a Bias in Human Nature Toward Sin? Hereditary Sin Disproven by the Power of Recovery. Acquired Moral Traits not Transmissible by Heredity. The Birth of the Soul. The Periods of Development. The Moral Sense. The Scientific Era of Religious Instruction. How Can a Child Be Saved? Baptism of Children. The Birth from Above. Which Road: Impulse or Reason? Heredity.
A refreshingly sane and sympathetic study of the child's mind and the best way to train it in respect to spiritual things. The writer is thoroughly conversant with the literature of his subject and writes both convincingly and plainly. As the latest restatement of the subject it cannot be overlooked by anyone interested in children, and for Sunday School workers and parents it is invaluable.

NEW VOLUME FOR YOUNG MEN: In the 52 Series for Christian Workers. By the Rev. J. R. P. Sclater, (of Edinburgh). 12mo. Net, $1.50

The one thing that the New North Church in Edinburgh demands of its ministers is that they shall be able to reach young men. It was to this church that Drummond's work among students was left. And these addresses have been used and useful among the Edinburgh Arts and Medical students—the most critical and least sympathetic audience in the world.

MISSIONARY.

MY HALF CENTURY IN CHINA: By the Ven. Archdeacon Moule, B.D. Net, $2.00

This is not a history of China nor an elaborate description of her characteristics in literature, or art, or the life of the people. While such things are touched upon, it is only in the natural course of a narrative of personal experience and recollections. The author was a witness of, and describes, the closing scenes of the Taiping rebellion and the general upheaval of China half a century ago. Recollections of travel by land and water; legends and folk-lore; discussions of the literature, religion and government; chapters on the great cities, county scenes, adventures; all go to make up an intensely interesting and very valuable study of the two generations of China.

AN ENGLISHWOMAN'S TWENTY-FIVE YEARS IN TROPICAL AFRICA: Being the Biography of Gwen Elen Lewis, Missionary to the Cameroons and the Congo. By George Hawker, Minister of Camden Road Baptist Church, Author of "The Life of George Grenfell." Net, $1.50

The simple and noble story of the part a devoted woman may play in life. When little more than a girl the subject of this biography became engaged to John Hartland, one of the greatest pioneers of the Baptist Congo Mission. He died before they were married. She volunteered for service in the field for which he had sacrificed. For upwards of thirty years she poured out her life there. The absolute frankness and tireless enthusiasm of her letters and diary add greatly to the charm of the book.

CHRIST IN INDIA: A Study of Indigenous Christian Development. By the Rev. C. F. Andrews, M.A., Fellow of Pembroke College, Cambridge, and Member of the Cambridge Mission to Delhi. 12mo. Net, $1.50

This remarkable, and in some respects sensational, book is by the author of that brilliant little handbook on North China in the English Church Expansion series. It is the result of the life and work of a man who is recognized as one of the most able and fearless thinkers among the missionaries in India to-day. Incidentally it is a plea for unity in the Church. To the student of Indian problems and to all who are concerned in the expansion of Christ's Kingdom no more important or vitally interesting book has been published for many days.

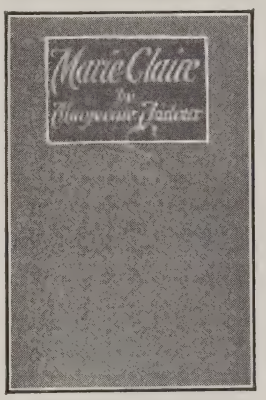
Fiction

LEILA: A Companion novel to THE SAINT. By Antonio Fogazzaro.

A passion-drama embroidered on a canvas of religious attitudes, the complement of "The Saint." Whereas Signor Fogazzaro's former novels have been so distinctly Modernist as to be placed under the ban of the Holy See, the teaching of "Leila" leads back to Rome. It is five years since "The Saint" was published. During his long silence the banned Modernist came to realize the safeguarding influences of traditional, organized religion. Without "Leila" the record of Italy's greatest contemporary novelist would have been incomplete. It is a story of two lovers caught in the whirlpool of religious controversy. Every shade of Italian thought and feeling is here represented. It is in itself a complete Fogazzaro portrait gallery.

MARIE-CLAIRE: By Marguerite Audoux. With Introduction by Arnold Bennett. 12mo. Cloth
Net $1.20



A novel which has stirred all Europe. For twenty years, the French critics declare, the world has waited for such a book. Without parallel in contemporary literature, it is, as Arnold Bennett states in his introduction, "a divine accident," written with the heart's blood of personal experience. What "Jane Eyre" did for the passion of girlhood, "Marie-Claire" does for its purity. It has the wistful tenderness of a little child, and enthralls the imagination by force of personality and sincerity. It has been awarded the prize of the "Vie Heureuse" and is already, within four months of its publication, regarded in France as a classic.

THE ROAD TO AVALON: The Road to Happiness. By Coningsby Dawson. 12mo. Cloth
Net $1.20

A lover's romance of the search for and finding of happiness; a novel full of the clash of swords, fair women, and pageant. Based on one of the oldest beliefs of the French peasant, that King Arthur will some day return to bring joy into the world, it recounts the adventures on "the road to Avalon" of one who set out to bring him back. Here is embodied in thrilling narrative, modern in its application, all the glamour of mediæval superstition and legend. Captivating in its interest, permanent in its importance, it strikes a new note in fiction, and is a book to be talked about,—truly "the road to happiness."

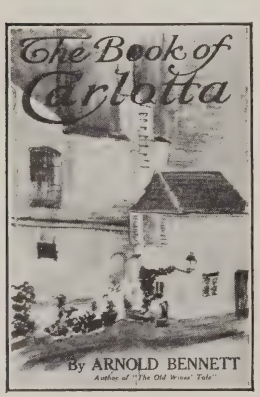
THE GIRL FROM NOWHERE: By Mrs. Baillie-Reynolds. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.20

Directly "The Girl from Nowhere" appears people begin to love her, and they continue loving her to the very last page. She makes the most unconvenional entrance of any heroine that you ever encountered in a book. All her subsequent doings are equally unconventional — that's what makes her so charming and refreshing.

JIM AND DOODY (Title Tentative): By J. J. Bell, author of "Wee MacGreegor," "Oh! Christina." Illustrated Net 60c

J. J. Bell has made himself beloved for his kindly Scottish humor. In a day when the problem novel is much in evidence and fiction writers tend more and more to deal with the tragic complications of society, he has consistently depicted the wholesome sweetness of life. His child-studies are inimitably quaint and refreshing. "Jim and Doody" takes rank with his very best. It's a book of optimism and kindness, dainty as a sprig of white heather.



THE BOOK OF CARLOTTA: Being a revised edition (with new preface) of Sacred and Profane Love. By Arnold Bennett. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.20

An autobiographical novel, supposed to have been written by Carlotta Peel. As a marvellous interpretation of a woman's heart, it is worthy to rank with George Meredith's "Diana of the Crossways."

This author has already become famous as a daring delineator of feminine character. Carlotta Peel surpasses all his previous creations in intense reality. That this intimate woman's confession should have been written by a man staggers one's credulity.

As an artistic tour de force, this book is a triumph. Tense, passionate, original in plot, quivering with the joy and agony of life, the story sweeps toward a great and unexpected climax.

BURIED ALIVE: By Arnold Bennett. A new Edition. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.20

Not since Robert Louis Stevenson broke loose in writing "The Wrong Box" have we had such a book. Arnold Bennett sets out in his holiday spirit to have a good time. He succeeds, and so does his reader. From start to finish the book is a surprise, half farce, half comedy, ludicrous and audacious, with just a touch of pathos. It concerns a famous painter, tortured with shyness, who seizes an accidental opportunity to disappear, and lives to see his pseudo-remains buried with pomp and a nation's mourning in Westminster Abbey.

A tonic for a blue day, a novel to keep by you. The New York Tribune writes, "Its second reading is as charming as its first."

SEEKERS ALL: By Kenneth Combe. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.20

THE GOLDEN GALLEON: A London Idyl of Woman's Love and Optimism. By Lucas Malet. With eight colored illustrations by C. E. Brock. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.20

The brilliant authoress of "Sir Richard Calmady" and "The Far Horizon" has given us another of her carefully wrought out pictures of life in London. Taking as her keynote the words of Marie De Nesselyrode, "There is no one so forlorn as never to have known at least one stroke of fortune," she tells how love came into a lonely woman's life and the use she made of love. Lucas Malet knows the heart of a woman, all its hopes and fears and tenderness, as very few novelists have known. "The Golden Galleon" is a brave idyl, exquisite in its delicacy and simplicity, of a woman's faith and trust.

THE PINES OF LORY: By James Ames Mitchell. Illustrated Net $1.00

Perhaps Mr. Mitchell's best work of fiction. A story of out-of-door things, written with a charm and delicacy which have made it a never-failing favorite with the American public.

DR. THORNE'S IDEA: By John Ames Mitchell. With illustrations by Balfour Ker. 12 mo. Cloth Net $1.00

The author of "Amos Judd," "Pines of Lory," etc., has written a strong and swiftly moving story in "Dr. Thorne's Idea." The theme is unusual, and is handled with a good deal of humor and subtle insight into the springs of character. It contains dramatic moments when the reader will hold his breath in suspense.
The scenes are laid in and around New York. The hero is a small boy and the plot concerns itself with how he "wins out" against heredity. "Steve Wadsworth, the hero of John Ames Mitchell's novel, is one of the most fascinating characters of recent fiction," says The Boston Globe.

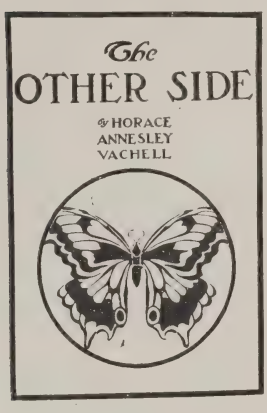
PETTICOAT RULE: A Romance of France. By Baroness Orczy. 12mo. Cloth . Net $1.20

In this latest novel Baroness Orczy returns to the period of "The Scarlet Pimpernel," where she scored her great successes. As the title indicates, the book deals in sprightly fashion with the influence of women upon the history of France. It is full of vivacity and humor, re-creating the character of Louis the Well-beloved, the Young Pretender, Madame Pompadour, and other great ladies of the court. A dashing, vivid story. such as the Baroness can write so well, such as her admirers delight in, Full of go, of picturesqueness, and of all the naughtiness, the intrigues, and whiffs of scandal of which we can well believe the Court of Louis XV. was capable.



THE OTHER SIDE: A Novel of Life and Afterwards. By Horace Annesley Vachell. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.20

Here is the life-story of a musician told with a delicacy and fineness and an intimacy of rare quality and beauty. In its power it reminds one of "The Divine Fire"; in its sweet pathos, of "The Music Master." Through struggle ending in seeming failure there is a temporary transition of the musician to the other world, from which is garnered a fresh and inspiring view-point, giving the novel a mystic touch. Among the really worth while novels this one must surely find a place.

'LIZBETH OF THE DALE: A Novel. By Marian Keith, author of "Treasure Valley," "Duncan Polite," "The Silver Maple," etc. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.20

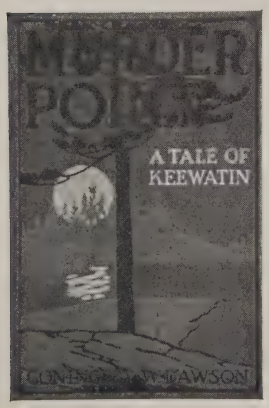
This new novel by the acknowledged interpreter of the new-old Eastern Canada life is the author's best effort to date.

Each succeeding book by this charming writer evidences marked development in story-telling power. "'Lizbeth of the Dale" is a clear-cut, clever story of the folk in an interior town of Ontario. The author's humor is deliciously subtle and engaging. Her sympathy is complete, and her character-sketching as true as a portrait. Altogether the book ranks in class with the work of Ralph Connor and Miss Montgomery.

OUT OF THE NIGHT. A Novel of Mystery. By Mrs. Baillie-Reynolds. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.20

Mystery and romance, tragedy and pathos, are interwoven into this thoroughly human and absorbing story, making it the best and most satisfying novel by this popular author. The action is laid in a British Columbia fruit-ranch, and shifts to the exile of the heroine in a South County of England. The scene which gives the title to the book is an exceedingly clever piece of work. Types of life and emotion are vividly contrasted, and the unfolding of the mystery of the story fascinates and entertains.

The Boston Globe says that of her many successes this is the most successful book by this author — a thoroughly wholesome novel.



MURDER POINT: A Tale of Keewatin. By Coningsby W. Dawson. 12mo. Cloth $1.50

The district of Keewatin is that enormous stretch of land between the Northern boundary of Ontario and Hudson's Bay on the North and East. Mr. Dawson has been remarkably successful in getting hold of the real atmosphere of Keewatin — this from actual life in the district. This is a book filled with adventure and elemental passion. A book to make a man wonder and think.

A BEAUTIFUL REBEL: A Romance of Upper Canada. By Wilfred Campbell. 12mo. Cloth $1.50

The days of Brock and 1812 were romantic days and history was made rapidly if maps were not altered. Dr. Campbell brings to his novel writing the grace of the essayist and the romance of the poet. Small wonder then that dramatic setting, excellent workmanship, and sympathetic pen should produce a splendid novel — for such is "A Beautiful Rebel."

"The book is replete with dramatic situations and daring escapades, and the action is brought to a most satisfactory conclusion. As a whole it is a well-written story, clear, simple and natural." — The Interior.

THE NOVELS OF ARNOLD BENNETT

THE OLD WIVES' TALE. A Novel of Life. By Arnold Bennett. 12mo. Net $1.50

A CRITIC'S JUDGMENT — There is no book in the fiction of recent years that I should rank as equal to it. The first part is not the best, and readers are in danger of breaking off after about a hundred pages. If they do they will lose a great deal. The story is a masterpiece, and it only lacks a touch of poetry to put it in the very front rank. The book has its proper share of color and vivacity; but the main thing is that it is a real book. I have read none like it for a very long time. — Dr. W. Robertson, in The British Weekly.

HELEN WITH THE HIGH HAND: An Idyllic Diversion. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.20

"Arnold Bennett's light comedy vein has produced nothing more masterly than this account of two obstinacies: that of hard, shrewd, narrow, self-satisfied, miserly old "Five Towns" man, and that of an educated, capable, ornamental, eminently sensible, and femininely unscrupulous woman of his own blood." — The Outlook.

ANNA OF THE FIVE TOWNS: 12mo. Cloth Net $1.20

The plot of "Anna of the Five Towns" is laid in the same scene as that of Arnold Bennett's great success "The Old Wives' Tale."

It has more of his vein of quiet humor running through it and the same whimsical turn in its character sketching. It is a love-story and a woman's soul-problem such as Arnold Bennett knows so well how to handle. Anna is the daughter of a miser, and finds herself unexpectedly wealthy on the day she comes of age. What will she do with her money? And will her father's blood tell?

A GREAT MAN: The Story of a Literary Career. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.20

THE BOOK OF CARLOTTA: Being a revised edition (with new preface) of Sacred and Profane Love. 12mo. Cloth Net 1.20

THE GLIMPSE:

An extraordinary story, — an inquiry into the meaning of our existence. This novel has the same truth, accuracy, and keenness of insight as a life's experience as brought fame to "The Old Wives' Tale." Speculative in part, vivid in its writing, it is a story full of interest and suggestion, — a remarkable psychological study and a brilliant novel.

TRAVEL BOOKS

TURKESTAN: THE HEART OF ASIA. By William Eleroy Curtis, author of "Modern India." With Illustrations from photographs, by John T. McCutcheon. Octavo. Cloth Net $2.00

Mr. Curtis opens the magic door to a forbidden country: it is this which gives especial value to his book.
Since Russia conquered Turkestan, she has jealously guarded her possession from the eyes of all the Anglo-Saxon world. Mr. Curtis, by reason of the unique introduction which his reputation as journalist and traveller afforded, gained admittance.
In vivid word-pictures, he paints the parched deserts, ancient cities, and ruined civilizations through which he journeyed. His account reads more like a rumor from fairyland than a faithful description of a land which is contemporary and actual.
Here is a book accurate, vivacious, and brimful of the adventurous enthusiasm of travel.

THE VOYAGE OF THE "WHY-NOT?" IN THE ANTARCTIC: Journal of the Second French South Polar Expedition 1908–1910. By Dr. Jean Charcot. With maps and numerous illustrations from photographs. Octavo. Cloth Net $5.00

As is already well known, Dr. Charcot's second expedition to the Antarctic regions in 1908–10 was eminently successful. The leader of the expedition tells his story principally through the medium of his personal diary. Extracts such as these never lack vividness. The events described are fresh in the writer's mind, and the great drama of polar exploration gains immensely in effect from the truthful, unstudied nature of this method of narration. This fine volume has been produced in a manner consonant with its importance. It is hoped that the book will meet with the welcome from the general public which scientists and those interested in Antarctic exploration will undoubtedly give to it.

THE NIGER AND THE WEST SUDAN: The West African's Note-Book. By Captain A. J. N. Tremearne, F.R.G.S., etc. Octavo. Cloth Net $2.00

So many people are going to the western fringe of the Sudan nowadays who require information as to the country, conditions of life, kit, provisions required, etc., that it is felt that a guide written by one who has had experience of some of the conditions will be useful. Many people who are not able to go on exploring expeditions for themselves are in the habit of taking "tarry-at-home travels" through the medium of books. To both these classes Captain Tremearne's volume will be welcome.

MOTOR TOURS IN YORKSHIRE: With 48 illustrations from photographs, and map. Octavo. Cloth Net $1.75

"This charmingly-written account of motor travels in Yorkshire has no feature in common with the ordinary dry-as-dust matter of fact guide-book. . . . The book is full of history and of appreciation of the wonderful beauty of the great country which stretches across England from Lancashire to the German Ocean. . . . The volume is one of the most fascinating books of home travel, within its own assigned limits, with which we are acquainted. . . . The volume is full of exquisitely finished photographs." — Standard.

MOTOR TOURS IN THE WEST COUNTRY: Fully illustrated. Octavo. Cloth Net $1.75

In common with Mrs. Rudolph Stawell's other books of Motor Tours, this delightful volume is specially written for those who like to know something of the history and antiquities of the places through which they pass, and for lovers of beautiful scenery. At the same time all the principal roads of Devon and Cornwall are discussed in considerable detail, and though Somerset is not fully dealt with, there are two chapters on that county. Each chapter is preceded by a summary of distances, etc. The book is illustrated by 50 photographs by R. de S. Stawell, and contains an index and maps of the routes. This is indeed a delightful travel book — a book for the open road. The pictures are exquisite and add greatly to the charm of the work.

VICENZA: The Home of "The Saint." By Mrs. Prichard Agnetti. With a Preface by Antonio Fogazzaro. With 8 illustrations in color and over 26 illustrations in half-tone. 8vo. Net $3.50

MENTONE AND ITS NEIGHBORHOOD: Past and Present. By Dr. George Müller. Edited by the Rev. J. E. Somerville, B.D. Fully illustrated. Octavo Net $4.00

This new work on "Mentone and its Neighborhood" is from the pen of the late Dr. George Müller (a cousin of Max Müller), long resident in Mentone. For many years he was engaged collecting materials for the work, but was cut off by death before he was able to give it to the public. The author was given to historical research, and explored many sources of information not accessible to English readers. In this way he collected a large amount of out-of-the-way information regarding Mentone, and also the many villages in the neighborhood. The work is not a description of the district, but is largely antiquarian and historical.

THE BOOK OF THE DOG. By A. Croxton Smith. With 82 illustrations from photographs. Large 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

An American kennel manager says of this book: "The chapters on hints to buyers, breeding, and the care of young puppies are especially good and will give pointers to the veteran, to say nothing of the novice. The illustrations are superb, and will be a revelation to the professional as well as the amateur photographer. The book embraces every breed of sporting and non-sporting dog recognized by the English Kennel Club. Every dog-owner, man or woman, amateur or professional, should possess a copy of this book."

GEORGE MEREDITH: An Introduction. By James Moffat. Net $1.25

Illumined not only by a sketch of the plot of each novel, but by the piercing criticism of Meredith as a whole contained in the Introduction to this primer, the non-Meredithian has a rare opportunity of joining the charmed circle of Meredith's admirers. Dr. Moffatt gives a masterly analysis of "the Comic spirit" of Meredith, as representing an attitude to life tending to moral sanitation and the annihilation of Despair. The great and, in some respects, Shakespearian writer could not have found a more appreciative interpreter of the deeply founded humor, sympathy, and humanity which underlie his dominating intellectuality.

THE DEVIL'S MOTOR: A Fantasy. By Marie Corelli. Illustrated with Plates in color by Arthur Severn, R. I. Quarto. Cloth Net $3.00

Every reader of Miss Marie Corelli's books knows what a strong and living interest she takes in the great social problems of her day, the life of the world about her; the high ideal she has of what should be the aim of humanity, and with what profound imaginative vision she realizes and makes her readers realize the spirit-world that environs all the earth and the spirit-people and powers that inhabit it. Her new work, "The Devil's Motor," is an impressive and haunting fantasy in which her deep human sympathies, her love of what is noble, her fierce hatred and scorn of what is unworthy and vile in men and women finds perhaps its finest and most eloquent utterance. The whole book is a brilliant and scathing indictment of the modern haste to get rich, to get pleasure, the modern fever to "get there quick" wherever you are going, and a passionate revealing of how much of what is best man loses in this hurry, a grim foreboding of the disillusion, disaster, and death in which it must all end. The glow and vividness of the author's imaginative prose is sensitively and very beautifully reflected in the color plates of Mr. Arthur Severn, R. I.

THE ROUND OF THE CLOCK: The Story of Our Lives from Year to Year. By Sir W. Robertson Nicoll. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.25

Sir W. Robertson Nicoll tells the story of man's life as indicated by the clock. Beginning at six in the morning and taking every hour marked by the hour-hand as five years, he divides life into twelve lustrums of periods of five years. Few men can compare with Sir Robertson Nicoll for width of historic and biographic knowledge. In the writing of this book he has ransacked all his sources. His purpose has been to discover from the study of other men's lives what acts are suited to what ages, and what ages are most critical in men's careers. The result is a book of rare fascination, into which has been packed all that has been most wise and entertaining in the reading of one of the world's greatest bookmen. Nothing at all like it has appeared before, and the masterly completeness of its survey makes it highly improbable that anything at all similar can ever appear again. It is a book to possess and refer to continually for the stores of philosophy and pleasure which it contains.

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF MY OFFICIAL LIFE: By Sir Robert Anderson, K. C. B. Octavo. Cloth Net $3.50

Those who have read "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" with breathless interest should not fail to read this book, in which Sir Robert Anderson, late head of the Criminal Investigation Department at Scotland Yard, for many years a Secret Service agent, tells as much of his extraordinary experiences with criminals as official convention will allow. It is very unusual for a British police official to make even guarded disclosures in print: caste spirit and red-tapism discourage it. The importance which attaches to Sir Robert Anderson's excursion into literature is proved by the fact that a full day's debate was devoted to it in Parliament soon after its appearance.

THE COMMON-SENSE COLLECTOR: A Handbook of Hints on the Collecting and the Housing of Antique Furniture. By Frank Frankfort Moore, author of "Sir Roger's Heir," etc. Illustrated Net $3.00

This is essentially a handbook for the collector of small means, who is anxious to make his rooms interesting and picturesque as well as comfortable and convenient, at as small an outlay as would be entailed by the purchase of modern furniture.

THE SHAVING OF SHAGPAT: Meredith's allegory interpreted. By James McKechnie Net $1.25

"The Shaving of Shagpat" has come to be reckoned among the greatest of English allegories. Like all allegories, it tells to every reader his own story according to his particular interpretation. Its message, however, is the same to all.—Truth.

It is well-nigh impossible for two minds to see Truth at exactly the same angle. Mr. McKechnie claims that his interpretation is the correct version. "Every man," he says, "reads life in terms of his own experience and idiosyncrasies of thought, and, if so, his interpretation will be as legitimate as mine. But my belief in regard to such other interpretations is that, while they may readily supplement and correct, they will not be antagonistic to, or even on their main lines radically different from, my own."

To all lovers of Meredith this book will be a fascination and source of enthusiasm.

A HERO OF THE SEA: The Story of thrilling experiences in life-saving by Lieutenant John O. Williams, R.N., J.P. Together with an account of the development of the Rocket Apparatus. By J. E. Patterson. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

A book which teems with adventure and acts of gallantry, every page of which is soaked in the salt of the sea. In the earlier chapters we catch glimpses of types which have now almost entirely vanished,—smugglers, wreckers, etc.

Lieutenant John O. Williams, R.N., J.P., the subject of this biography, is an unconscious hero,—a man who has become great simply through his stern adherence to duty as coast-guardsman and in the life-boat service on the most dangerous shores of England and Wales. He has won international fame as a life-saver, and was recently awarded by France the cross of the first-class merit of the Chevaliers du Devoir.

Mr. J. E. Patterson, the biographer, writes a vigorous, vivid narrative. Some of his scenes of storms, wrecks, and rescues are unforgettable. A true story of the romance of the sea.

THE COMPLETE WORKS OF EMILY BRONTE: Edited by W. Robertson Nicoll and Clement Shorter. Vol I., Poetry (now ready). Octavo. Cloth Net $2.00

This volume contains the complete poems of Emily Brontë. Of these twenty-two appeared in the poems of Currer, Ellis, and Acton Bell, published in 1846. After the death of Emily Brontë seventeen poems were published by Charlotte Brontë. These are all derived from a manuscript transcribed in February, 1844, by Emily Brontë, and written in microscopic characters. Four were left unprinted by Charlotte Brontë and are now published. In addition there was another volume of manuscripts and some poems written on small slips of paper of various sizes. All of these were unpublished till 1902, when sixty-seven were privately printed. The rest of this volume, containing seventy-one poems, is here printed for the first time and in a limited edition.

THE TROUBADOUR AND OTHER POEMS: By Dora Sigerson Shorter. Net $1.50

By those already familiar with the work of Mrs. Shorter this new volume will be welcomed not only for itself, but as a further indication of the looked-for revival of public interest in poetry. "Mrs. Shorter in her ballads shows herself not only gifted with rare imagination, but as able to tell her tale with simple dignity and with that naturalness which is the secret of the ballad's charm."—Daily Telegraph, London. "It is not an easy thing to write a good ballad. It should be direct in subject, but may be almost as elusive as you will in treatment. Amongst living artists in this primitive form, which is, however, always alluring, Mrs. Dora Sigerson Shorter occupies a very distinguished place. Her poems have magic and charm and a very true and tender pathos."—T. P.'s Weekly, London.

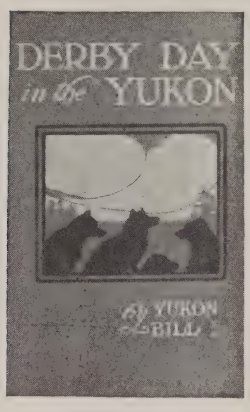
IN POET'S CORNER: By L. MacLean Watt. Small Quarto. Cloth Net $1.25

Mr. MacLean Watt sings with the strong simplicity of a born poet. His thought is steeped in beauty, and throughout his poems runs the refrain of a deep religious mysticism. His work has the sincerity and uplifting power which comes of great convictions. His volume is well named, "In Poet's Corner": through its pages we are led back into a land of ideals and quietness, where there is freedom from the press and fretfulness of the everyday world. Certain of his poems, notably that to "Kit Marlowe," have a remarkable dramatic quality. Here is a poet with a message and a group of poems of real significance.



DERBY DAY IN THE YUKON: And Other Ballads and Songs of the Northland. By "Yukon Bill." Illustrated by Griselda Marshall McClure. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.00

There is a strength and force to these poems that would be possible only from the living of the life depicted. "Yukon Bill" is a prospector with the soul of a poet, bringing the true story of the heart of the North Country into rhythm and rhyme worthy of a Bret Harte.

When opportunity permits, read the poem entitled "The Malamute." In it you will find as great a study in as fine a setting as is seldom found in contemporary verse.

AGAINST THE REFERENDUM: By Jane T. Stoddart. With an Introduction by Sir W. Robertson Nicoll. 16mo. Cloth Net $0.75

The fight against plutocracy in its excessive forms is being vigorously carried on in every quarter of the English-speaking world, but nowhere more strenuously than in England itself. The desire of the people to take a more direct part in the control of national affairs has given rise to a proposal for a Referendum, which has met with much opposition and called forth much discussion. The purpose of this book is to expose the mischief and danger of such a plan, and to demonstrate that in the end it would be subversive of representative government.

THE NEW SOCIALISM. An Impartial Review. By J. T. Stoddart. Octavo. Cloth Net $1.75

"This is by far the most thorough and scholarly history of latter-day socialism that has been written as yet; in fact it is the only completely truthful one. There are others which trace out a certain phase of the subject, or which deal with it from the point of view of some one nation or some one person, but none, to my knowledge, which is international, unpartisan, complete in its survey, and, at the same time, popular." — An American Critic's Judgment.

"It supplies the information that can be had nowhere else in English. A book to be read and re-read — a book which for its learning, its candour, its simplicity, deserves to rank with the very best of its kind." — British Weekly.

THE CALL OF LIBERALISM. By David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.00

No one man in recent years has held the responsibility of so greatly shaking up a nation as has the present Chancellor of the Exchequer in the British House of Commons. This book of Speeches serves to introduce the man to his American audience where, whether in agreement or disagreement, he is recognized as one of the great political forces of the age.

WHY I AM A SOCIALIST. By Charles Edward Russell. Large 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

This book is a most sane and tremendous indictment of the present existent capitalistic basis of society. The writer has been a reporter and journalist, travelling all the world over, Europe, America, Asia, Africa and Australia, for the past three decades. He commenced life as a contented individualist, now he is a socialist — and why? His reasons for the change are given in a series of illustrations — typical injustices which he has observed and been called upon to investigate in his capacity as a newspaper man during the last thirty years. His method of explanation is by giving the illustration, tracing the specific injustice home to its generic origin, and then sanely and convincingly pointing out how the same cruelty is of necessity practised the world over and in all walks of life. He does not limit himself to mere vague assertions: every one of his assertions is set forth with facts, figures, dates, and names — all of which are capable of being verified in the authentic sources which he indicates.

LIBERALISM AND SOCIAL PROBLEMS. By Hon. Winston S. Churchill. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

"There is not a more outstanding figure in world politics today than Winston Churchill, M. P. What he has to say, and the manner of his saying, concerning the great social problems is international in import and of intense interest to all students of sociology. This volume contains his most striking speeches thoroughly revised."

"To the American reader these addresses will afford a remarkably clear presentation of English political and social problems." — Boston Globe.

BY EDMUND DULAC

RUBÁIYÁT OF OMAR KHAYYÁM. With plates in color and decorative designs by Edmund Dulac. Quarto. Cloth Net $5.00
Special limited edition, signed by the artist, with special proof prints, bound in vellum Net $20.00

The sensations created by the exhibition of Mr. Dulac's paintings illustrating "Stories from the Arabian Nights" and "The Tempest" have been quite outdone by the profound impression created by the drawings for "Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám." Mr. Dulac could not have found a better subject for his art than in the verse of the astronomer-poet of Persia. The spirit of the East is in his pictures, and the spirit of enchantment as well. They are full of mystery and of the richest Oriental color, and their general effect is weird and exquisite and wonderful. It is safe to say that Edmund Dulac proves himself the ideal interpreter of "Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám."

Reduced from one of Dulac's drawings

THE SLEEPING BEAUTY AND OTHER FAIRY TALES FROM THE OLD FRENCH. Retold by A. T. Quiller-Couch. Illustrated in color by Edmund Dulac. Edition de luxe in vellum Net $20.00
Quarto. Leather-cloth Net $5.00

By his paintings illustrating "The Arabian Nights," "The Tempest," and "The Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám," Edmund Dulac has placed himself at the head of all living illustrators of great works of the imagination. Whenever he is illustrating the spirit of enchantment and fairyland, he is at his best, for there he has full opportunities to introduce those exquisite decorative effects, the soft blendings of blues, browns, pinks, and ivories which make his scenes appear most ancient, and stamp all that he does with genius and outstanding originality. In the paintings which accompany this volume he gives fresh proofs of his versatility. Nothing he has done has surpassed in delicacy his illustration of the Prince discovering the Sleeping Beauty. In the accumulation of small touches—the total humanity of his conceptions—the poetic genius of Edmund Dulac reveals itself. By this his latest achievement he has added brilliantly to his reputation and to the pleasure of the art-loving world.

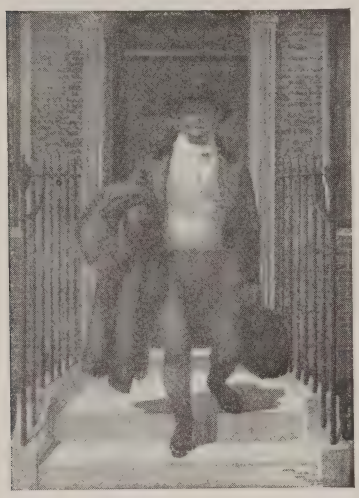
MR. PICKWICK AND HIS FRIENDS. By Charles Dickens. Illustrated with 40 plates in color by Frank Reynolds. Edition de luxe Net $20.00
Quarto. Cloth Net $5.00

To illustrate "Pickwick," an artist must bring to his task those same qualities of journalist, emotionlist, and jester which Dickens had. For some years it has been urged by Mr. Reynolds's friends that he was the man for this work. That they were right in their judgment is now proved by his paintings for "Mr. Pickwick." They are not caricatures, as were some of his predecessors', but living men accurately portrayed. Mr. Reynolds is a close observer of the oddities of mankind. His humorous contributions to Punch are among the most subtle and masterly that have ever appeared in those famous pages. He is a student of the finer shades of character, and his eyes are always kindly. Mr. A. E. Johnson writes of him, in a volume on "Frank Reynolds and his Work": "His humor but flavors, as it were, the skill and charm of his technique. One feels it to be an accident only that his vehicle of expression is pictorial rather than literary. He occupies amongst artists the place which the novelist holds among men of letters." And again, when Mr. Reynolds had only just commenced his series of "Pickwick" portraits, "One is inclined to think that, until we see that wonderful gallery of fanciful personalities by the pencil of Frank Reynolds, we shall have to wait still for the perfect edition of Dickens." Here is that perfect edition of "Mr. Pickwick" which Mr. Reynold's friends have so long expected.



SHAKESPEARE'S TRAGEDY OF HAMLET. Illustrated with 40 plates in color by Frank Simmonds, with an introductory story of the tragedy by A. T. Quiller-Couch. Edition de luxe vellum. 4to Net $15.00
Quarto. Handsomely bound in cloth Net $4.50

Mr. Simmonds is an artist with a fine eye for color and a trained instinct for that which is dramatic. He has conceived his illustrations for "Hamlet" in a spirit of largeness, and carried them out with a masterly finality of detail. He possesses just those qualities which an illustrator of "Hamlet" most requires, —the sense of tragedy, psychological insight, and historic scholarship. He has striven to see the play through Shakespeare's mind. The types which he has portrayed are typically Danish; the floors are skin or rush covered; the castle is built of wood, raised high on piles,—accuracies of detail which help to recall the historic setting of the play. He has produced an illustrated edition of "Hamlet" as strong and original as it is faithful.

THE FABLES OF ÆSOP. Illustrated by 25 plates in color by Edward Detmold. An edition strictly limited to 500 copies. Vellum. 4to
Net $20.00

Mr. Edward Detmold's work will, we are certain, give unbounded pleasure to the lovers of Æsop. The artist's mind does not work upon conventional lines, nor is he an imitator of any modern master in the field of colored illustration. As a proof of the freshness of his work, we need only say that hardly any one of his pictures is exactly what an admirer of the fables would have expected. On a close examination we almost invariably find that Mr. Detmold's drawing reproduces the spirit of Æsop infinitely better than our own vague mind drawing. We must give the artist special praise for the really wonderful expressiveness of his animals' faces. The height of his art lies in the care he gives to eyes and their expression. Never were there more eager, fiery, and brilliant eyes than those of the hare, in the fable of the hare and the tortoise. The beautiful work of Mr. Detmold will restore to public favor one of the world's gayest entertainers and greatest moral teachers.—From the British Weekly.

THE GOLDEN LEGEND. By H. W. Longfellow. Illustrated in color by Sidney H. Meteyard. Quarto. Cloth. Boxed
Net $2.50

Of all Longfellow's poems, "The Golden Legend," by reason of its mediæval pomp and pageantry, affords the poet-painter the most splendid opportunities, and at the same time, because of its historic period, gains most by illustration. Mr. Sidney H. Meteyard has wonderfully seized upon and realized in his paintings the poem's immense and fairy imaginativeness. The brooding, poignant ideality of a cloistered age is present in all his illustrations. They are at once original and interpretative. As masterpieces of composition, each is worthy to stand by itself. On their execution he has lavished the care and genius which most men reserve for their gallery paintings. He has laid hold strongly of the poem's mystery and set it forth with a master hand. As a result, this is the most sumptuous and artistic edition of "The Golden Legend" that has ever been published.

SHAKESPEARE'S COMEDY OF THE TEMPEST. Illustrated with forty plates in color. By Edmund Dulac. Introductory story of the Comedy by A. T. Quiller-Couch. Quarto. Handsomely bound in cloth. Net $4.50

Mr. Edmund Dulac is particularly well fitted to illustrate "The Tempest," for his great imaginative powers, his originality, and his ability as a colorist find splendid scope in Shakespeare's Comedy. His delicate and brilliant rendering of the play marks him out as an ideal interpreter of Shakespeare's fancy, and it is certain that no more beautiful edition of Shakespeare has ever been issued. The text is printed on specially made paper, while Mr. Dulac's drawings are reproduced in original color under the supervision of the artist. They are separately mounted and bound in the text, a method specially adopted to secure the strength and durability of a work which it is confidently expected will prove to be the standard edition of Shakespeare's Comedy.

SHAKESPEARE'S COMEDY OF TWELFTH NIGHT. Illustrated with forty plates in color. By W. Heath Robinson. Introductory story of the Comedy by A. T. Quiller-Couch. Quarto. Handsomely bound in cloth Net $4.50

"Twelfth Night" has been called Shakespeare's farewell to mirth. "Delightful to read and so much more delightful to witness — a play that is all of a piece, holding you throughout to its mood and defying you to take it more seriously than it chooses." "Twelfth Night" undoubtedly presents a very difficult task to the illustrator. The choice of Mr. Heath Robinson to illustrate the play has been eminently successful. There is imagination and color as well as good draughtsmanship and composition in his pictures. As works of art they deserve high praise; as illustrations to one of the greatest of Shakespeare's Comedies they are strikingly effective and excel in humor as in fancy.

"Mr. Robinson has got far away from tradition. He owes nothing to his contemporaries, either of the pencil or of the stage. He has treated the subject with the splendid originality of an artist with high imaginative powers and no mean gift of technical expression. . . . Mr. Robinson must be accepted henceforth as a water-color painter of high rank, with a very valuable and refreshing gift of originality and poetry." — Westminster Gazette.

The editions de luxe of Dulac's "Tempest" and Heath Robinson's "Twelfth Night" have all been sold and now command a premium.

A LEGEND OF BETHLEHEM: A Christmas Story. Illustrated with Six Original Drawings in Color. Decorated. Cloth — Net $0.50

The name of David Smith is well known in connection with that remarkable work, "The Days of His Flesh," in which the Life of Christ was set forth with a blending of scholarship and sympathy as rare as it was excellent. The story is that of Titus, a Jewish brigand, who encounters the Infant Saviour, never again to meet Him until they hang side by side upon the Cross, and the outlaw receives peace and pardon. Treated with the utmost reverence, this imaginative yet realistic tale has all the qualities which make for popularity; and the deep learning of the author, though never obtruded, is a guarantee of its inherent worth.

IF I WERE THE KING: By Happy, the King's Dog. Illustrated decorated boards Net $0.50

In this little book an old Crimean veteran in a city hospital tells how Florence Nightingale first lighted the lamp in the Crimean War, and a hospital nurse continues the story of how the old soldier watches her lamp flicker and almost die out and how at the end it shines more brightly than ever. This story is a dignified tribute to a great international figure, and worthily sums up a great national emotion and affection.

WHERE'S MASTER? By Cæsar, The King's Dog. Illustrated. Decorated boards Net $0.50

One of the most pathetic spectacles in the funeral of King Edward was Cæsar, the king's favorite fox-terrier, who, together with the royal charger, followed his master's coffin. "Where's Master?" which has stirred the heart of all England, is a tender and delicate attempt to render into human thought the reasoning which must have passed through the dog's mind as he gradually realized his loss. In this little book, Cæsar tells of the king's last days at Sandringham and in London and of the funeral procession. The critics are still guessing as to who is the real author. So far English literature has had only one great dog story, "Rab and his Friends," by Dr. John Brown. Now it possesses a second.

JUVENILE BOOKS

The distinguishing feature of these books, apart from their artistic and mechanical excellencies, is the extraordinary quality of the text matter.

It can be truthfully stated that never before in the history of juvenile book publication has greater care been taken to assure quality and wholesomeness.

The substantial guarantee of the quality lies in the fact that they are the product of the joint publishing account of the Oxford University Press and Messrs. Hodder and Stoughton.

Such well-known artists as
CECIL ALDIN
CHARLES E. BROCK
W. H. MARGETSON
W. FOSTER
and others have contributed.

ROBINSON CRUSOE. Illustrated with twenty-four plates in color by Noel Pocock, each separately mounted. Large octavo. Cloth boxed Printed on good paper in a bold type, and strongly bound in cloth, this book in its mechanical excellence is a fitting tribute to this ever-new treasure book for boy or girl, young or old.

HERBERT STRANG'S BOOKS FOR BOYS.

Herbert Strang has come to be the premier writer of really worthy books for boys. The Glasgow Herald, in reviewing a recent book by this author, says: "While reading, we find ourselves thinking of Thackeray, which suggests a standard by which very few writers of books for boys will bear being judged. Herbert Strang offers literature for boys." Another reviewer, commenting upon the wisdom of selecting some great event either of historical interest or present value as a background for satisfactory and informing books for boys, yields to Henty former prestige in this field, but awards first place to Strang for historical knowledge and narrative skill.

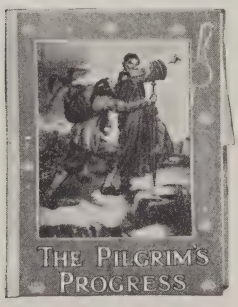
The new "Line Upon Line" has been edited in the same manner as "The New Peep of Day," and upon lines laid down by the Bishop of Durham in the Introduction to that book. Certain expressions that might be misunderstood by present-day children have been slightly modified, and the whole book somewhat condensed, so that the complete work containing Parts I and II of the original edition is now available in one volume.



THE NEW PEEP OF DAY: Being a new and revised edition of "The Peep of Day," edited by J. E. Hodder Williams, with a Preface by the Bishop of Durham. Picture boards $0.50

This familiar old classic among Bible story books needs no special introduction and yet the features of this edition may be emphasized as making the book much more acceptable to children of to-day. In some of its expressions the older editions offend the more highly cultivated child of to-day. To remedy this seeming defect has been the aim of the editor.

SOULS IN ACTION: In the Crucible of the New Life. Expanding the narrative of Twice-Born Men. By Harold Begbie. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.25

With the strong simplicity of John Bunyan, Harold Begbie tells the marvellous story of dying souls stirred into action and new life under the influence of the West London Mission. Lines of thought which were suggested in his first book, "Twice-born Men," he here expands boldly.

Each chapter states a case of conversion, a modern miracle, an evidence that God works mightily in the world to-day. The accounts of conversion given in "Souls in Action" are even more dramatic and startling, from the view-point of psychology, than those in the author's former volume. Yet all is matter of common knowledge at the West London Mission, where many of the people whose life-stories this book narrates are to be seen and heard.

As a convincing argument for God's shepherding care of the individual, no stronger book has been produced in many years. It is more than argument: it is proof.

NEW TESTAMENT EVANGELISM: By Rev. T. B. Kilpatrick, D.D. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.25

A study of Evangelism through the ages, with special reference to its bearing on the religious situation of to-day. The needs which gave rise to each one of its historic developments, the purpose of those developments, and the methods by which they were carried out are all discussed. This is a complete review of the spread of Christianity in Christian countries. Dr. Kilpatrick is a firm believer in the uses of Evangelism: he sums up his volume with wise and practical advice to those engaged in religious instruction. An invaluable book to preachers, teachers, and Bible students.

The book is supplemented by Appendices by Rev. J. G. Shearer, D.D., dealing fully and practically with methods of preparation, work during missions, and follow-up methods after the mission.

Altogether the book is a valuable handbook to Evangelistic work of the permanent and effective sort.

THE EARLY LETTERS OF MARCUS DODS. Edited by his son. Octavo. Cloth Net $1.75

Letters covering the formative period of a great life. They tell us more of the deep-down springs from which Marcus Dods drew strength than all his other writings. Here was one who yearned and strove ceaselessly to walk with God. With the letters is included a diary, —an opening chapter to a "Pilgrim's Progress" through modern life: its solemn passages of self-confession make it a human document of first importance.

A volume full of profound thoughts and ennobling enthusiasms,—one to possess and live with, not to borrow or read in haste.

THE SERVANT OF GOD: By Principal W. B. Selbie. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

A new volume of sermons, mainly theological, centering round the pulpit problems of the Christian ministry. As Principal of Mansfield College, Oxford, the greatest training school for thoughtful preachers in England, Principal Selbie has an unequalled opportunity for understanding the difficulties which confront the modern ministry. He is asked to solve many problems, chiefly of an intellectual nature. This volume embodies his answers; he builds up an ideal of what a minister should be,—"The Servant of God."

EPHEMERA ETERNITATIS: Book of Short Studies in Life Here and Hereafter, arranged for the Sundays of the Christian Year. By John Kelman, M.A., D.D. Octavo. Cloth Net $1.50

Dr. John Kelman's latest volume contains fifty-two chapters, suited to the various seasons of the year. Dr. Kelman is a preacher of wide scholarship and deep piety, with a unique faculty for applying religion to the needs of every-day life. He speaks out of a full mind and fuller heart, counselling, teaching, inspiring. His book abounds in suggestive poetic touches, which light up Scripture passages with a new intensity and give to the reader a deeper insight. He has a rare and great gift,—the power to speak with authority and at the same time to touch every passing experience of our life. The steady purpose of this volume is to build up the faith and loyalty of the Christian to his vision throughout the year.

IN THE CLOUDY AND DARK DAY: By Rev. George H. Knight. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.25

The Rev. G. H. Knight has found a very large public through his beautiful books of devotion, "The Master's Questions to His Disciples" and "In the Secret of His Presence." This present book presents with wonderful power and reality God's messages of peace to the weary, the sorrow-laden, the troubled, and the tried. Not only the warmth and glow of a devotional spirit are discernible in Mr. Knight's work, but also the richness of phrase which we associate with a poetical temperament and with a taste disciplined by a knowledge of the best literature. This is a beautiful and precious volume. Some chapters are: Is it all a Mystery? The Bow in the Cloud; The Perils of the Darkness; On the River's Brink; Beside the Grave; The Sorrow of the Hopeless; The Home Beyond, etc., etc.

THE PRIESTHOOD OF THE LAITY: Historically and Critically Considered. By A. R. Ryder, B. D., Ex-Sch. T. C. D. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

Were the ideals set forth in this book for the elevation of the laity put into practice, many of the most pressing problems of modern Christianity would find their natural solution. Moreover, these ideals are not personal and intuitive, but garnered with profound scholarship and research from ancient records which throw light on the actual constitution and methods of government of the early church.

This book was originally delivered at Trinity College, Dublin, as the Donnellan Lectures. It is an earnest protest against the divorce which has taken place between the secular and the sacred.

THE PILGRIM SHIP: An Allegory by Rev. James Black, D.D. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

This is a most unique book which might aptly be termed the "Pilgrim's Progress of the Sea." This Pilgrim tale of the good ship "Safety" starts in the Happy Isles. It tells of the Prince and how he left the Happy Isles on his fine adventure, how he fared at Port Mankind, how the ship was built and christened. It describes the ship's guns, its stores, and its charter. Then the Captain arrives, and the good ship "Safety" starts on its wonderful voyage, and we read of the adventures that befell it, of many fights on land and sea, of how at last it dropped anchor in the Bay of Waiting.
The book has two outstanding features of usefulness. It presents the Christian's journey in readable and new form for young or old. It offers an inexhaustible source of inspiration for children's services.

MISSIONARY

DR. JOHN G. PATON: LATER YEARS AND FAREWELL. By A. K. Langridge. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.25

This volume carries on the life-story of John G. Paton from where it terminates in his famous "Autobiography" down to the day of his death. It contains accounts of his friendships, family life, travels, and the history of the spread of his missionary work in the South Seas. A large portion is occupied with his heroic fight against the Kanaka labor traffic, which consisted of kidnapping islanders for use on the sugar plantations of Queensland. Throughout the book are scattered passages from his letters, prayers, addresses, and fragments from his intimate conversations which go far to re-create the man. The stirring story of the founding of the mission station at Tama is here recounted, and the narrative of his last missionary tour of farewell. The best praise that can be bestowed on this biography is that it is entirely essential to the fuller understanding of John G. Paton and worthily supplemental to his autobiography.

THE CHURCH OF CHRIST IN COREA: With Illustrations from photographs, by Malcolm C. Fenwick. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.00

Mr. Fenwick has written one of those rare books,—an autobiographical missionary record. Like John G. Paton's famous work, it is a latter-day addition to "The Acts of the Apostles," and in this case the apostles are the Coreans themselves.

While the book is primarily a history of the spread of Christianity in Corea, it is incidentally a plea for a return to the missionary methods of the early Christian Church and a convincing illustration of what may be accomplished by those methods. If Mr. Fenwick's advice were adopted in any universal manner, its effect on future missionary enterprise would be far-reaching and revolutionizing. Moreover, it would multiply many times the economic possibilities for pioneering. His record is a clarion call to Christian enthusiasm and a challenge to the apathy of the Western World.

WITH CHRIST IN RUSSIA: By Robert Sloan Latimer Net $1.00

In his two previous volumes, "Dr. Baedeker in Russia" and "Under Three Tsars," Mr. Latimer has proved himself a close and careful student of contemporary Russia. In his new book he gives a striking and vivid review of the evangelical awakening now in progress within the empire. Much has been written of Russia's struggles for political freedom; nothing on its more significant religious revolt against the tyranny of the Holy Orthodox Church.

Of most of the happenings here narrated the author was an eye-witness.

CAN THE WORLD BE WON FOR CHRIST? By the Rev. Norman Maclean. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.00

This book is the first literary result of the inspiration received from the World Missionary Conference held at Edinburgh,—a gathering which the Archbishop of Canterbury designated as "an assembly without parallel in the history of this or any other land." The matters here discussed are those which are vital to the further progress of Christianity,—those which made the calling of the Conference necessary. In answering the question, "Can the World be won for Christ?" Mr. Maclean makes use of much that was said by the specialists who were present at that discussion. The book is the worthy outcome of a great occasion, and affords a unique and powerful summary of what Christianity is doing in the world to-day and a magnificent promise of what shall be done.

WESTMINSTER SERMONS: By H. Hensley Henson, D.D. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.25

These sermons deal mainly with the difficult and much-debated subject of Christian reunion. They were all with one exception preached either in Westminster Abbey or in St. Margaret's. The opinions which they contain may therefore be taken as representative of those held by a large body of English Churchmen.

Canon Hensley Henson is perhaps the most liberal-minded Churchman in England to-day and the leader of a movement which tends toward Christian unity. He is a thinker who is keenly alive to the effects which modern social conditions are having upon theological situations. His conceptions of Christianity from various points of view as set forth in this volume are of profound significance to those who wait for the day of a more generous toleration, when sects shall forego their differences for the sake of a wider service.

CHRISTIANITY AND LABOUR: By William Muir, M.A., B.D., B.L. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

This book is a masterly inquiry into what Christianity has accomplished for the enfranchisement of labor, and a forecast of what it will yet accomplish for the reconciliation of labor to capital. Opening with a review of social conditions in the Greek and Roman world, it traces the evolution of the laborer under the influence of the Christian teaching of equality from the slave to the serf, the serf to the servant, the servant to the modern employee. It recounts the steps which have been taken by recent legislation for the advancement of the dignity of the employee, and indicates along what lines the solution to the modern labor problem may be arrived at. In view of the present economic crisis involving labor and capital and the attitude which Christianity should take towards the problem, this book is of extreme importance. Moreover, it possesses the impelling quality of a sterling optimism based on absolute knowledge of the subject under discussion.

THE ESCHATOLOGY OF THE GOSPELS: By Professor E. von Dobschutz, D. Theol. (Strasburg). 12mo. Cloth Net $1.25

"Eschatology is at the present moment a favorite subject which attracts more and more the interest of large circles. . . . It places us before the whole gospel question, reminding us of two most important points which we should never lose sight of in studying the Gospels: first, that all depends on the Gospel, i.e., on what Jesus Himself thought and said; and, secondly, that we have this only in the form of the Gospels, i.e., in the different forms of tradition." The first of these lectures on the significance of early Christian Eschatology was delivered before the Third International Congress for the History of Religions, held at Oxford, and the remainder a year later at the Summer School of Theology, also held at Oxford.

KNOWING THE SCRIPTURES: The Elaboration of Fifty Rules and Methods of Fundamental Importance in the Study of the Holy Scriptures. By Arthur T. Pierson, D.D. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

This book is the result of half a century of Bible study. It will be found instructive in all three departments: Homiletics, Hermeneutics, and Apologetics. It begins with the Bible as a whole and its claims on faith and obedience, then takes up the language and shows various peculiarities of forms of speech, words, phrases, sentences, etc. It is intended to aid in searching the Scriptures and the practical mastery of their contents. To preachers, teachers, and Bible students generally, it will be found an invaluable book of reference.

SUNDAY EVENING: Fifty-two Short Sermons for Home Reading. By Sir Williams Robertson Nicoll. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

Sir W. Robertson Nicoll is famous as a journalist, publicist, and theologian, but before any of these he was a preacher and pastor in Scotland. A preacher he still is upon occasions: his pastoral work he does through certain of his books. Here is such a book, containing a meditation for every Sunday evening in the year. After reading it, we are left wishing that we had such a book for every day, as well as every Sunday. For it is like a wise and kindly friend, who comes with the nightfall, when the rush of work is over, to counsel and guide us to the spiritual uplands where are eternal things and quiet. Few books can compare with this one for reading aloud in the home circle. It touches life at every point, ennobles life, and readjusts our standards.

ST. JOHN AND OTHER NEW TESTAMENT TEACHERS: By the Rev. A. L. Humphries, M.A. 16mo. Boards Net $0.40

This volume is a further addition to "The Century Bible Handbooks."

THE CHRISTIAN CERTAINTY AND THE MODERN PERPLEXITY: Essays, Constructive and Critical, Towards the Solution of Some Current Theological Problems. By A. E. Garvie, M.A. (Oxon), D.D., Principal of New College, London. Octavo. Cloth Net $2.00

This volume of essays deals with the varying phases of theological thought to-day. It shows that, while a theological restatement of many Christian doctrines is necessary in order to meet the intellectual demands of the age, yet some of the restatements propose to sacrifice what is essential to Christian faith. Throughout the book runs the conviction that a liberal evangelicalism can both meet the needs of the soul and answer the questions of the mind. This is the most important work Principal Garvie has written since "Studies in the Inner Life of Jesus."

BY PRINCIPAL P. T. FORSYTH, D.D.

THE WORK OF CHRIST. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

This new volume by Principal Forsyth is a further valuable contribution to the traditional view of the doctrine of the atonement. It may be regarded as supplementary to "The Cruciality of the Cross," and carries the subject a step farther by giving it a wider and more direct application. The chapters are as follows: I. The Difference between God's Sacrifice and Man's; II. The Great Moving Work is to Reconcile; III. Reconciliation, Philosophic and Christian; IV. Reconciliation and Atonement; V. The Cross the Great Confessional; VI. The Judgment Cross, the Triumphant Cross, the Creative Cross.

THE CRUCIALITY OF THE CROSS. By Principal P. T. Forsyth, D.D., author of "Modern Preaching," "Missions in Church and State," etc., etc. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

"Dr. Forsyth is one of the very few modern writers on the Atonement who is satisfying, because his teaching rings essentially true to the New Testament and to the awakened conscience of sinful man." — Rev. Principal W. H. Griffith Thomas, in The Record.

"Dr. Forsyth has made this theme very specially his own, has thought it through, and, if we may say so, found his life in it and in the reality behind it." — British Congregationalist.

ANTOINETTE BOURIGNON, Quietist, Her Life, Times, and Doctrines. By the Rev. A. R. Macewen, D.D. 12mo Net $1.25

Two hundred years ago the name of Antoinette Bourignon was well known in many parts of Northern Europe. Her writings were widely read in the Netherlands, France, Germany, and England. Her disciples were, as a rule, men of learning and piety, and her teaching seemed likely to become a factor in the religion of the modern world. In Scotland, where it was specially acceptable, some discreet observers thought that it threatened the dominance of Calvinism. A generation later, John Wesley published portions of her writings for the edification of his Societies. Her doctrines were condemned by all the Church authorities of her time. . . . Hundreds of ministers of the Church of Scotland now living have publicly disowned "Bourignianism." Yet her life and doctrine have passed out of common knowledge. "The character and adventures of Antoinette Bourignon (1616–1680) are of no little interest; and as a religious enthusiast who, in an age of dogmatism and secularism, abandoned all definite Christian dogma, she has received too little attention from the historians of mysticism. This study by the Professor of Church History, New College, Edinburgh, will be welcome to students of religious thought and history. — The Times.

THE SECRET OF THE LORD: The Self-Revelation of Christ. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

This book expounds and enforces the self-revealing teachings of Christ which immediately preceded and followed the transfiguration. It is prefaced by an opening discussion on The Law of the Secret, The Place of the Secret, The Time of the Secret. The secret itself is the fully awakened consciousness in Christ of His mission in the world. Then follows a tracing out of the manner in which the revelation was conveyed by God to Christ and by Christ to man. The chapter headings are: I. The Revelation of the Christ; II. The Disclosure of the Cross; III. The Unveiling of the Glory: IV. The Open Things of the Secret. It admirably supplements "The Day of the Cross" and "The Cross in Christian Experience," two books which have won for this author a place in the hearts and sympathies of Christian people.

THE DAY OF THE CROSS. By Rev. W. M. Clow, B.D. A companion volume to "The Cross in Christian Experience." 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

The book consists (we quote the preface) of a "series of studies of the events of the last day in the earthly life of Jesus, and is an endeavor to reconstruct its scenes, to set its personalities in a revealing light, and to enter into the significance of their words and deeds. Above all, it has kept in view the interpretation of the mind of Christ, and of the supreme act of His service and sacrifice to God."

"To say that these sermons are from the first word to the last interesting is to say too little. It is not exaggeration to say that they hold the attention in quite an unusual degree." "Here is a man," the reader says to himself, "who knows how men and women actually live, what the difficulties and temptations and vices of rich and poor really are. There is no beating the air. There are no men of straw created for the sake of effect. We are in contact with reality all through." — Dr. MARCUS DODS in the British Weekly.

"'Modern' in the best sense." — The Scottish Review.

THE CROSS IN CHRISTIAN EXPERIENCE. By W. M. Clow, B.D. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

CONTENTS: — I. FOREWORD — II. THE LOVE AND GIFT OF GOD — III. THE PASSION AND WORK OF CHRIST — IV. THE CHRISTIAN EXPERIENCE — V. THE CROSS AND THE EVANGEL — VI. AN AFTERWARD.

The president of one of the leading theological colleges in England, whose name we are obliged to withhold, has written as follows: "Will you permit me to express my most grateful thanks for 'The Cross in Christian Experience'? I have read it with unfeigned pleasure and I trust with not a little spiritual profit. It is one of the freshest and most helpful presentations of the Old, Old Story that I have read for many a day. In a paper which we issue to all former students I have already called attention to this book and recommended it to over five hundred men. I have also had other opportunities of mentioning it to friends. It is so seldom, nowadays, that one is able to find the old objective and substitutionary view of the Atonement presented, that my joy and satisfaction are all the greater. I hope we shall soon have some more work from this pen. HENCEFORWARD THIS BOOK WILL BE PLACED SIDE BY SIDE ON MY SHELF AND IN MY MIND WITH DENNY'S 'DEATH OF CHRIST.'"

"The writer goes at once to the centre of things, and in each chapter sets forth the meaning and message of the Cross in relation to human sin and need. The atmosphere of the book is sacramental, the language homely and simple, and the evangelical earnestness of the man who loses himself in his message is apparent on every page." — Methodist Times.

BY PROFESSOR JAMES ORR, D.D.

SIN AS A PROBLEM OF TO-DAY. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

"What we name sin is, from the religious point of view, the tragedy of God's universe." So, in the opening sentence, the problem is stated: "In its very conception sin is that which ought not to be; which ought never to have been." Then what is sin? How did it come? Why is it permitted? These are the questions which Professor Orr answers in this volume. His discussion of the problem is divided under three headings: I. Sin, its Nature and Magnitude; II. Sin as a Moral Transgression—the Primary Certainties; III. Sin and Divine Holiness—the Moral End.

THE FAITH OF A MODERN CHRISTIAN. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

Professor Orr lays down as his foundation stone of modern faith that "in Scripture we have a revelation divine, historical, progressive, given in divers portions and divers manners." Commencing with "The Problem of the Old Testament," he traces God's progressive revelation of Himself up to the birth of Christ, after which the book deals in detail with the problems of the New Testament: The Gospels and Modern Criticism, Miracles, The Incarnation, The Faith of the Modern Christian, etc.

BY PROFESSOR DAVID SMITH, D.D.

THE DAYS OF HIS FLESH: The Earthly Life of Our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. New and cheaper edition. 8vo. Cloth Net $2.00

This "Life of our Lord," by Dr. Smith, has come to be reckoned among the really great books on its subject. It has its own distinctive place in that it happily and successfully combines accuracy of statement, scholarship in a rare degree, beauty and imagination in the telling of the life-story, and a popular, readable style. The late Principal Dods said of this book: "Happily, Mr. Smith possesses, over and above these necessary qualifications, imagination enough to see the various scenes and incidents which he describes, as well as ability to reproduce them in graphic and vigorous language. It is not going too far to say that there is no Life of Christ in which the whole gospel narrative is reproduced in so readable and intelligible a form."

MAN'S NEED OF GOD AND OTHER SERMONS. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

The great interest attaching to the splendid work of Principal Smith has made a demand for more of his work. This volume reflects his style of work and thought.

THE MAN IN THE STREET: And Other Bible Types of Modern Men. By Rev. W. Mackintosh Mackay, D.D., of Sherbrooke Church, Glasgow. 12mo Net $1.50

A very striking series of talks to men. A partial list of subjects is as follows: The Man who loses his Past; The Man in the Street; The Man with the Secret Care; The Man who disappoints his Future; The Man who makes the Best of himself; The Man of Generosity; The Man with the Secret Foe; The Man who makes no Mistakes; The Cynic; The Sunday Sleeper; The Man who is too Busy, etc., etc.

THE EXPANSION OF CHRISTENDOM: A Study in Religious History. By Mrs. Ashley Carus-Wilson, B.A., Author of "Clews to Holy Writ," "Irene Petrie," etc. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

For over twenty years the title and general idea of this volume have been in the writer's mind, and its subject-matter has provided themes for many lectures and addresses. It is neither a text-book of missionary information for students nor a general exhortation to those who generally read religious books, enjoy missionary meetings, and subscribe regularly to societies for evangelizing the world. It appeals, rather, to the average church-goer who regards Christian missions as uninteresting, and gives casual aid and yet more casual thought to them. Dealing with a subject that should concern all Christendom, and emphasizing the points of agreement rather than of difference between different communions, it sets aside as irrelevant most ecclesiastical and many doctrinal questions, but indicates how preachers of the gospel abroad rise above petty distrusts and suspicions between Christian and Christian at home.

BY PROFESSOR SIR W. M. RAMSAY, D.C.L.,

Author of "St. Paul the Traveller," "The Letters to the Seven Churches of Asia," etc., etc.

THE THOUSAND AND ONE CHURCHES. By Prof. Sir W. M. Ramsay and Miss Gertrude L. Bell. With over 400 illustrations, diagrams, and charts, over 580 pages. Octavo. Cloth Net $5.00

"The Thousand and One Churches" of the Kara Dargh, the "Black Mountain" near Iconium, have aroused considerable interest in recent years. This book is the outcome of a careful examination of the whole site, which resulted in the discovery of many unknown monuments, together with important Hittite inscriptions. Professor Sir W. M. Ramsay, D.C.L., LL.D., describes the history of society and religion during seven successive centuries in the "Black Mountain," from the Hittite period down to the time when Turks and Christians divided the whole city between them, and also, by churches in the mountain. Miss Gertrude L. Bell describes the churches and monasteries, and discusses the evolution of architecture in the "Black Mountain."

THE REVOLUTION IN CONSTANTINOPLE AND TURKEY IN 1909. By Prof. Sir W. M. Ramsay. With many illustrations from photographs especially taken for this volume. Octavo. Cloth Net $3.75

"It is a fortunate circumstance for English readers that the task of reporting faithfully, minutely, and vividly the events in Constantinople which marked the final triumph of the Young Turks over the party of reaction, has been undertaken by one so familiar with the Near East, and so unprejudiced a witness, as Sir William Ramsay. To read this volume is to be brought very near to the marvellous developments of the Turkish Revolution, and to be stirred as one can only be by a narrative which reflects the constant movements and quiverings of a palpitating expectancy and uncertainty, such as possessed the Turkish capital when the Army of Liberty was on the march, and no man knew whether order or anarchy would prevail. The diary form in which the narrative is cast enhances rather than detracts from its powerful dramatic interest. A set treatise, composed when the hurly-burly had become a mere memory, could not atone in its methodical precision for the freshness and vivacity native to the pages of a diary in which every passing phase of emotion, every thrilling story of excitement and alarm, was dutifully recorded. Even the inaccuracies have their charm." — Glasgow Herald.

CHRIST AND THE NATIONS: An Examination of Old and New Testament Teaching. By the Rev. Arthur J. Tait, M.A., Principal of Ridley Hall. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

The aim of this book is twofold. In the first place it is to show that the evangelization of the nations of the world in these latter days is part of the counsel of God, which was revealed with growing clearness through the Old Testament prophets, and was declared anew by Christ, and embodied in the final commission which he gave to the Church. In the second place, it is to trace the steps by which the exclusiveness of Judaism was made to give way to the Catholicism of Christianity. The content of the evangel is only incidentally referred to. The ways and means by which the Church of post-Apostolic days has sought to fulfil her obligation and the progress which has been made are not touched upon. Attention has been concentrated upon the obligation itself and the gradual unfolding of the Divine plan.

The latest volume by the author of "The Evangelistic Note," "The Empire of Love," etc., etc.

ONE NIGHT IN BETHLEHEM: A Christmas Story. With six original illustrations in color. Decorated boards. 12mo. Net $0.75

Dr. Dawson tells the story of some of the unnamed travellers who were sheltering in the inn on the night of the birth at Bethlehem. With the sure knowledge of one who has been in the East, he re-creates the scene, sketching his characters vividly with strokes of power and tenderness: the tired mother; the innkeeper and his reception of the travellers; the kindly helpfulness of the broken gladiator. The story is full of the spirit of Christmas,—the first Christmas, that night at Bethlehem.

HEROES AND MARTYRS OF FAITH: An exposition of the Eleventh Chapter of the Epistle to the Hebrews. By Prof. A. S. Peake, M.A., D.D., Author of "Christianity: Its Nature and its Truth," "A Guide to Biblical Study," etc. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

This volume, by the brilliant author of "Christianity: Its Nature and its Truth," contains a devotional and practical study on the eleventh chapter of the Epistle of the Hebrews. While the book is mainly concerned with the Old Testament narratives and personalities mentioned in that chapter, these are discussed from the standpoint of the epistle rather than from that of modern criticism. It has been the author's aim to be faithful to the meaning of the epistle, but also to bring out the significance of its teaching on the insight and victories of faith for the practical and speculative problems of our own day.

ST. PAUL THE ORATOR: A Critical Historical and Explanatory Commentary on the Speeches of St. Paul. By Rev. Maurice Jones, B.D. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

No work has heretofore been published in English dealing with the speeches of St. Paul as a whole. They have been dealt with separately in all the commentaries on The Acts and in the extensive literature which has grown out of the study of the great apostle's life and labors, but never as a whole. In this volume the biographical and historical materials of most recent scholarship and research are made explanatory of the speeches. They are grouped under three main headings: I. St. Paul's Missionary Sermons; II. St. Paul's Addresses to Christian Assemblies; III. The Speeches of the Trial.

RESPECTABLE SINS: A volume of addresses by Rev. John Watson, D.D. (Ian Maclaren). 12mo. Cloth Net $1.25

This book professes to be a volume of essays on religion addressed to young men. It is much more than that: it is a final and intimate revelation of the sources of nobleness and strength of one of the wisest practical Christians of our day and generation.

SOME OF THE SUBJECTS ARE: Evil Temper — A False Tongue — Jealousy — Egotism — Bigotry — Discontentment — Why a young man is not a Christian, etc., etc. Ian Maclaren, the novelist, represented but one side, and many think the smaller side, of John Watson. Of late he has been coming more and more into his own as a preacher of unusual power and originality. This present volume is strikingly attractive and thoroughly modern.

BY THE LATE PRINCIPAL MARCUS DODS, D.D.

CHRIST AND MAN and other Sermons. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

This volume contains some of the best sermons of a great preacher and a greater man. "As you listened to one of his spacious, massive sermons—in which there was not a single unreal phrase—you felt shut up to accept his conclusions by an irresistible cumulative impression alike on conscience and mind. . . . But at least this may be affirmed, that as a continuous expositor of Scripture Dr. Dods had no living equal. . . . His manhood was behind every word. Those who knew him well will understand me when I say that Dr. Dods' face, as he stood in the pulpit, was an argument for the truth of Christianity. It had in it a calm and wholesome power that enabled men to give him their trust. He held men to religion by character." — Rev. Prof. H. R. Mackintosh.

FOOTSTEPS IN THE PATH OF LIFE: Meditations and Prayers for every Sunday for a Year. 12mo. Cloth. Gilt top Net $1.25

This beautiful volume of meditations reveals the secret of a great man's joyful confidence in Christ. Dr. Marcus Dods was in his daily work and conversation a living evidence of Christianity. "He was a Christian," wrote Sir William Robertson Nicoll, "in the full sense of the word, and all that was pure and high in him was reinforced by faith, by prayer, by the practice of the presence of God, by the imitation of Christ." Dr. Dods, who often dwelt on his favorite subject of St. Augustine's Confessions, once remarked that "St. Augustine was one of the few who really loved God." Dr. Dods was another. "I am the Almighty God; walk before Me and be perfect," was an injunction ever in his mind. "He was a friend of God." These meditations have not a little of the fragrance of St. Augustine; they are rich in spiritual experience, and together they form a devotional book of rare beauty and of great value.

ASPECTS OF CHRIST. By the Rev. W. B. Selbie, M.A., Principal of Mansfield College, Oxford. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

The general subject of Principal Selbie's book, which is his first of importance, is the Christ of history and experience.

From the author's very interesting introduction on "Historic Fact and Christian Doctrine," the following is quoted: "Christianity is a historical religion. It arose at a certain period in time, and as the outcome of certain definite events. It has a historical Person as the centre of its thought and devotion. Christian theology is the interpretation of this Person — the attempt to relate Him to our idea of God on the one hand, and of human life and conduct on the other. It is obvious, therefore, that this process of interpretation must be profoundly modified by the view we take of history. When the world was young and men naïve and simple in their ideas, facts were facts, and the acceptance and explanation of them presented no difficulty. Credulity was a virtue. But in these latter days, when more critical and philosophical conceptions of history are in vogue, when the idea of development dominates every department of thought, and environment is a factor to be taken into account, the position is very different."

THE MIND OF CHRIST IN ST. PAUL. By Rev. J. G. Greenhough, M.A., author of "The Cross in Modern Life," etc. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

Dr. Greenhough's books are marked by mature thought, reverent reflection, and unpretentious scholarship framed in the most lucid and graceful English, for refined and picturesque style and felicitous expression. His work is firm in Gospel truth, with ample treasures of mature Christian experience.
"It will not be in vain that preachers and teachers will turn for stimulating thought and practical helpfulness to Rev. J. G. Greenhough's useful work. . . . Truths precious to the Christian heart are elegantly and poetically expressed, and the reader is reminded again and again of the incalculable debt the Church owes to the great Apostle of the Gentiles for his application of Christ's teaching to the relationships and concerns of our common life." — Christian.

LIGHT FROM THE ANCIENT EAST (Light from Anatolia). The New Testament and the new and recently discovered manuscripts of the Græco-Roman world. By Prof. Adolf Deissmann, D.D. With illustrations. Octavo. Cloth Net $4.00

The last decades of the Nineteenth Century have opened up to Science, in the numerous Ancient Inscriptions and the quantities of newly-discovered Papyri and Fragments of the Græco-Roman world, a source which is of the greatest importance for the many different branches of research. In his new book, "Light from Anatolia," Professor Deissmann came to the fore with a number of fresh observations concerning the language, literature, and religious history of the Early Christian Church, deepening former research, and availing himself of the results of his studies on a tour to the Centres of the Early Christianity in Asia Minor and Greece. After a short résumé about the discovery and publication of the new manuscripts, there follows in the three chief divisions a demonstration of their language and results as to the history of religion, for the acquisition of knowledge of the New Testament and Early Christianity. A great number of the more important manuscripts are reproduced in facsimile, many of them for the first time in print. Professor Deissmann has decided to write the book popularly, so that it can be understood by everybody, and not only by theologians, but by the laity. The New Testament appears in a new light through the discoveries which help us to recognize the simplicity and creative-religious power of Early Christianity.

HEART TO HEART LETTERS. Extracts from the correspondence of Margaret Bottome with her oldest son. By Margaret Bottome. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.00

During a lifetime of extraordinary service and activity, Margaret Bottome (best remembered, perhaps, as the founder of the King's Daughters) wrote much and exerted a unique influence upon the women of her day. This book recalls, as nothing else that has yet been published concerning her, the hidden motif of her life, and deals with intimate thoughts and inspirations and aspirations.
Though the letters were personal to a son, there is everywhere manifest the broad sympathy of the devoted leader.

MEN IN THE MAKING. Addresses to Young Men. By Ambrose Shepherd, D.D., author of " The Gospel and Social Questions," etc. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.25

Dr. Robertson Nicoll in The British Weekly says: "Dr. Ambrose Shepherd's new volume to young men is one of the freshest, most original, most interesting books of the kind I have ever read. Others may be more eloquent and passionate; few, if any, are more reasonable, more lucid, more persuasive. Dr. Shepherd's point of view gives originality to all he says. He is one whom life has deeply interested. His own life and the lives of others he has watched with attentive eyes. He has remembered them and pondered them. . . . The number of suggestive and true thoughts and records of human life in these pages is wonderful. . . . We do not find a needless word or a superfluous sentence. . . . It is one of the books for young men that young men will read, and I can imagine no higher praise."
"Robust manliness, sound common sense, and intimate acquaintance with human life, are revealed on every page; and for 'Men in the Making,' no wiser or healthier guide could be desired." — Scotsman.

Even such subjects as sexual sense and sin are treated in so refined a manner as not to give the slightest offence to anyone. — Chicago Medical Record.

THE PRIMITIVE CHURCH AND THE PRIMACY OF ROME. By Prof. Giorgio Bartoli. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

The author of this striking work was until quite recently a member of the Society of Jesus, teaching science, literature, and languages in the Society's colleges in Europe and in India. But he was accused of defections in doctrine, and his superiors forbade him to live in large cities and centres of culture or to preach, and finally commanded him never to go out of the house without one of his brethren, who was to keep a watch upon his private conversation and report upon it. So he left the Jesuits, and by the publication of this book set himself in open opposition to the Church of Rome. "The work" (we quote from the Scotsman) "sets out, with a learning and open-mindedness which any candid theologian must recognize, why he has come to the conclusion that the Roman Church and the true Church are different things, and how many matters, touching both doctrines and church government, are held unquestionable by Roman Catholics which have no warranty in the Scriptures or in the Fathers."

THE REFORMATION IN SCOTLAND: Its Causes, Characteristics, and Consequences. The Stone Lectures at Princeton Theological Seminary for 1907–1908. By D. Hay Fleming, LL.D. Octavo. Net $3.00

These lectures were delivered in Princeton Theological Seminary, and have now been greatly enlarged. In the opening one the Scottish Reformation is traced from its early beginnings down through the Lollards to the period of Patrick Hamilton. Of the secondary causes special attention is devoted to the corruption of morals, ignorance, irreverence, credulity, imposture, and rapacity which prevailed among the clergy, the abuses connected with the conferring of benefices, and the ineffective remedial legislation of the Provincial Councils. The primary causes are shown to have been books and pamphlets, ballads and plays, the teaching and influence of the martyrs and reformers, and the circulation of the Scriptures in English. Proof is given that so early as the second decade of the sixteenth century it was seriously proposed to renounce the supremacy of Rome in civil and ecclesiastical matters. The leading characteristic of the Scottish Reformation was its thoroughness, and the keynote was sounded by Knox in 1547. This thoroughness is apparent in the First Book of Discipline, the Book of Common Order, and the Confession of Faith of 1560, and in the completeness of the overthrow of the Papal jurisdiction by Parliament. Great importance is shown to have been attached to preaching, to the right administration of the Sacraments, to simplicity of worship, and to ecclesiastical discipline. In discussing the consequences, the destruction of altars, images, vestments, and works of art, and especially of ecclesiastical buildings, is fully considered; and attention is directed to the freeing of legitimate traders from clerical opposition, to the extinguishing of the fires of persecution, to the removal of unscriptural and pernicious bars to marriage, to the revived interest in education, to the introduction of the lay element in the government of the Church, to the high moral ideal set before the nation, and to the heritage and the heirs.

LIFE ON GOD'S PLAN: Sermons by Rev. Prof. Hugh Ross Mackintosh of New College, Edinburgh. 12mo. Cloth Net $1.50

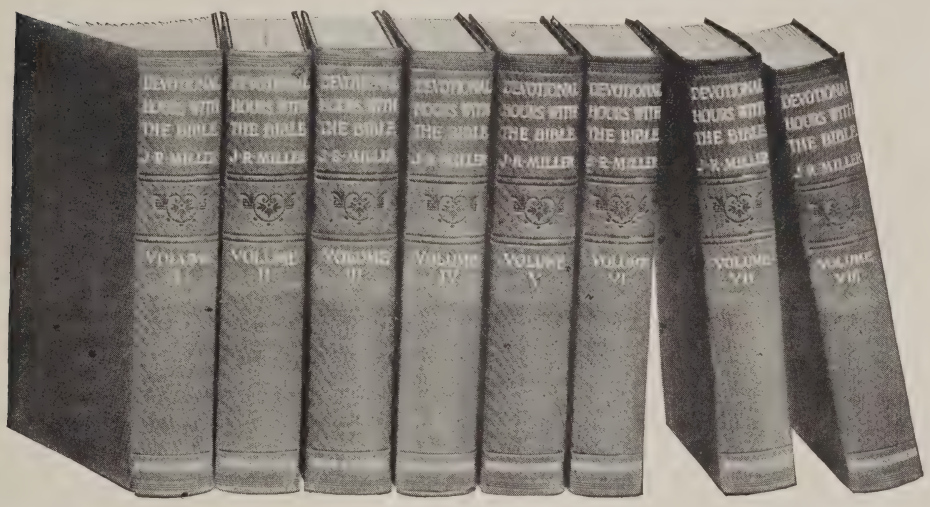
"Life on God's Plan" is the striking title of this volume of sermons by the Rev. Professor Hugh R. Mackintosh, Ph.D. They are mainly the fruit of Dr. Mackintosh's ministry in Aberdeen, where he preached to a congregation composed in an unusual degree of school teachers. In their latter form, however, the discourses date from his years at New College, Edinburgh. It should be said, however, that the sermons comprising this volume are quite unacademic in tone, and are addressed to the plain man, even those which partake of a theological character being practical in their issues.

DR. J. R. MILLER'S MOST IMPORTANT WORK

DEVOTIONAL HOURS WITH THE BIBLE. By Rev. J. R Miller, D.D. In eight volumes Each, Net $1.25

Now ready, Volume I. From the Creation to the Crossing of the Red Sea.
Volume II. From the Crossing of the Red Sea to the Close of the Life of David.
Volume III. The Gospel of Matthew.
Volume IV. The Historical Books from Solomon to Malachi.

Covering the period of the International S. S. Lessons for 1911.



This is really the most imposing and important work undertaken by Dr. Miller. In his preface he briefly states his method as follows: ". . . Then another way of studying the Bible is in order to get from it practical lessons for our own daily common life. What does the passage teach us? What Divine instruction have we in it for ourselves? It is this purpose that is in mind in this work. It is not a commentary in the usual sense. It is not an exegetical study of the Scriptures that is proposed. No textual criticism is given. There is no discussion of questions of dates, of localities, of authorships, or archæological researches. Its single aim is to suggest some of the spiritual and practical lessons which may be gathered from great passages.

"The book does not attempt to cover every chapter; to do this would make it altogether too long — it deals only with what appears to be leading and representative portions of the Bible.

"It is a book for use in the inner chamber where life receives its impulses for conduct, for duty, for service, and for devotion. The Bible is a very ancient book, but it is also a book for to-day. It brings us face to face with God, and its teachings are meant to guide us in all our ways.

"Dr. Miller never fails to manifest a genuine sympathy with the average man in his struggle and aspiration; he is pre-eminently an encourager. After all, this is one of the prime secrets of his power. These reflections, and a good many more like them, are suggested by this book of devotional hours. It is the first of a series of volumes designed to gather up the spiritual and practical lessons of the great passages of the Bible in so far as these passages bear on the common life of the passing day."—British Congregational.

THE EXPOSITOR'S BIBLE

Edited by Sir W. Robertson Nicoll, M.D., LL.D.

The Rev. (recently knighted) Sir William Robertson Nicoll, D.D., LL.D., is a brilliant scholar and editor, whose genius conceived this work and whose fertile mind arranged the schedule whereby each of the books of the Bible should have adequate exposition by a master mind specially trained for the task at hand.

This accomplished, there remained the equally important duty of absolute accuracy in text translation and quotation.

This was possible only through the agency of a master-editor: hence this Authorized Edition of "The Expositor's Bible" represents the very acme of ripened scholarship, accurately prepared.

"H. & S." DOLLAR BOOKS

Reprints of standard books on various subjects of extraordinary interest to ministers and teachers. The former price of these books ranged from $2.00 to $3.50. These present editions are printed from the original plates on excellent paper, and tastefully and substantially bound in cloth with gold title.

RELIGIONS OF AUTHORITY AND THE RELIGION OF THE SPIRIT. By Auguste Sabatier. Translated by Louise Seymour Houghton. Fourth Edition. Octavo. Cloth Net $1.00

Is religion an inner inspiration upspringing in the human consciousness or is it an external, supernatural institution devised and operated by a higher power to guide and educate our minds? It is to this question, upon which religious thinkers of the day differ widely, that "Religions of Authority" devotes itself. M. Sabatier treats his subject from a purely modern scientific standpoint. He considers it psychologically and historically, letting the facts tell the story themselves and point their own conclusions. His book divides itself into three sections. In the first he traces the rise of the Roman Catholic dogma; in the second, the rise of the Protestant dogma; and in the third he shows that the religion of the spirit is the religion of the future. The book is a searching inquiry into the ground upon which our accepted forms of religion stand and of the claim that they have to our consideration.

THE LIFE OF HENRY DRUMMOND. By Professor George Adam Smith. 548 pages. Octavo. Cloth Net $1.00

This is one of the great religious biographies, for it is not alone the story of a man, but it is the history of the beginnings and methods of a movement that is world-wide. "What makes his biography admirable is his fairness in dealing with Drummond's intellectual product and his loving appreciation of the man. We lay down the book with the feeling that nothing that Drummond wrote is so morally inspiring as his character, and especially the simplicity with which he met more than once the temptations of a great and sudden fame."—The Nation.

LECTURES ON THE HISTORY OF PREACHING. By the late Rev. John Ker, D.D. With Introduction by the late Rev. William M. Taylor, D.D., L.L.D. 408 pages. Octavo. Cloth Net $1.00

"It is not, strictly speaking, a work on Homiletics, but the purpose of the professor is never once lost sight of, and his criticisms on the men who come up before him for review are often more valuable than direct disquisitions on the making of sermons would have been, while his obiter dicta are always both incisive and suggestive; so that, as a recent critic has said, 'For thoughtful preachers, this volume would prove more helpful than most helps for the pulpit.' To the careful study of all such, we heartily commend the work."—From Dr. Taylor's Introduction.

SUPLEE, THOMAS D.

SUPLEE'S TRENCH ON WORDS. From the latest English edition. Revised by Rev. A. L. Mayhew, Oxford. With an exhaustive analysis, additional words for illustration, and questions for examination by Thomas D. Suplee. Trench "On the Study of Words," originally in the shape of lectures, and retaining that form in publication, was but poorly adapted for use in the school-room as a text-book. The editor has long deplored this, in common with many other teachers, hence no apology is necessary for the appearance of the present volume. The advantages claimed for it over all other editions are self-evident. 400 pp. 12mo. Cloth. Net $1.00

THERE is probably no newspaper reader in the United States who hasn't heard of the "Abernathy Kids" and their horseback ride from Oklahoma to New York, a distance of 2218 miles, culminating in the gala reception as these two mites of six and ten years rode up Broadway on their cow ponies. But this sensational performance was only one item in the adventures which have been packed into these boys' lives through the training given them by their father, Marshal John Abernathy (the man whose favorite diversion is catching wolves with his bare hands!); and few fiction writers have ever dared to invent such a tale of boy's adventure as the true story here chronicled, mostly in the youngsters' own language. They are now appearing with great success in a lecture tour, with moving pictures of this famous ride.

Tobogganing on Parnassus

By Franklin P. Adams

Size, $4\frac{5}{8} \times 7\frac{1}{2}$; pages, about 250; binding, cloth, decorated.

*Net, 50 cents

SHORTLY before the publication of Mr. Adams's volume of verse, he published in his "Always in Good Humor" column in "The Evening Mail" the following characteristic announcement:

> In the matter of nomenclature our readers have great aptitude. They have, at various times, suggested entitlements for many things. And now ye editor wants help. Despite our arguments, a publishing house, prodigal and altruistic, is going to launch a collection of our Deathless Lyrics. Only the matter of the title is delaying publication. Will some one please oblige? An autographed copy of any book the winner desires is the prize.

What happened can be better imagined than described. Literally hundreds of readers rushed to the rescue with more or less printable suggestions. Many are worth preservation; we give a few:

Adams' Apples	Parnassics
Adams' Ale	Wild Odes
Inverse Verse	Pomes de Terre
Non Fit	Earthquakes on Parnassus
Columnies	Buckings of Pegasus

Tobogganing on Parnassus

The title of the present volume, therefore, comes from one of the loyal constituents of "The Gotham Weekly Gazette," presided over obstinately by Mr. Adams. We believe, however, that though it has been named, as it were, in the inner circle, "Tobogganing on Parnassus" will prove to be one of the most popular pastimes (summer or winter) among an ever-widening circle of enthusiasts.

Margery

By
E. F. Benson

Author of
"Account Rendered"
"The Osbornes,"
"The Fascinating Mrs. Halton,"
"The Climber,"
"Sheaves,"
"A Reaping," etc.

Size, $5\frac{1}{2} \times 8$;
pages, about 350*;*
binding, cloth, decorated

Fixed price, $1.20

MARGERY was one of those rare women who make you know instantly that it's good to be alive. As her chronicler says:

> "It was always the same with her — much as she enjoyed the frolic of life, she seemed to get a far deeper satisfaction from befriending the 'poor dears'; and all those who were bores, who were tiresome, who were unsuccessful, earned from her the warmest welcome. And the motive was always the same: she was having a delightful time herself, and wanted everybody else to have a delightful time too."

Picture this joyous creature of impulse falling whole-heartedly in love with Arnold Leveson, rich, a scholar, full of refined subtleties, absorbed in special investigations of Egyptian and Greek antiquity — and marrying this self-centered precisian instead of her former outdoor playfellow, Walter Morrison. With this combination of personalities, Mr. Benson has drawn one of the best and most convincing pictures of modern life that has yet come from his pen. There is probably not another writer living who could put before one with such quiet lifelikeness a figure like Walter's mother, Mrs. Morrison, a creature whose whole gospel was the conventions, utterly without imagination or impulse or affection — except for her son.

> "'One may carry kindness too far,' said Mrs. Morrison. 'It is years since Blundell was worth his wages. I cannot see why one should pay for work that is not properly done. Pauperization, is it not called, like giving to beggars in the street? I remember reading an article which put it all most clearly.'
> "Olive considered this. 'I don't know if you mean pensions or pauperization, mother,' she said. 'I think the article you read was about pensions."
> "'I have read several articles lately,' said her mother."

The Composer

By Agnes and

Author of

"The Pride of Jennico,"
"Heart of Lady Anne,"
etc., etc.

Size, $5\frac{1}{4} \times 8$;
pages, about 350;

Fixed price, $1.20

LIKE "Panther's Cub" this is a study of "temperament"; but in this case the bewildering personality that makes the stormy course of the story is a famous musician, the composer Lothnar. The heroine is a young girl with a wonderful voice, full of musical ambition and emotion, who is utterly swept off her feet when the awe-inspiring Master discovers that she is the only person who can successfully create the part of "Iphigenia" in his darling masterpiece. This musical rapture is blown into another flame by the great musician's ardor; and then comes the terrible shock of finding out that he has made love to her simply because he has thought in that way he might arouse (in her rendering of "Iphigenia") the particular dramatic fervor which was the only thing she lacked! The climax and dénouement are full of dramatic surprise.

The Boss of Wind River

By
A. M. Chisholm

Size, 5¼ x 8;
pages, about 350;
illustrated by Frank Tenney Johnson.
binding, cloth, decorated

Fixed price, $1.20

COMPARISONS are odorous, as Mrs. Malaprop observed; but it's hard in describing this fine tale of young, vigorous manhood in the Big Woods not to say that it has a lot of the flavor of "The Blazed Trail" and "The Rules of the Game." Given a big, husky, youngster just out of college who finds himself suddenly heir to his father's heavily involved lumber business, with a lot of crooked rivals and a trust striving to ruin him in order to gobble him up; add a nice outdoor girl, the daughter of an old friend in the same business; and you have a group of circumstances apt to produce interesting results. Nor does Mr. Chisholm fail to take advantage of his chance; you follow the course of events into the fierce rough life of the lumber drive, where a man depends on his muscle and his mother-wit for his ability to handle his crew; and the happenings on Wind River, as well as in the tortuous underground channels of "crooked business," make the best kind of reading.

A Venture in Identity

By
Mrs. Lucile Houghton

Size, 5¼ x 7¾;
pages, about 150;
illustrated;
binding, cloth, decorated.

*Fixed price 90 cents.

IT IS on shipboard that Justine meets Adrian Farwell. A mutual attraction develops but Justine demands a period of four years in which to work out certain theories about woman's mental development. Farwell agrees and returns to Montana to wait for the expiration of the time set.

Meanwhile, Justine, recovering from a severe attack of typhoid, finds that her only memory of her lover remains in a portrait by Laurence which she purchased for its likeness to Adrian. She therefore determines to test critically the old affection by meeting him without other identification than his presumed power to attract her.

But at this juncture a unique and fascinating complication takes place. A girl friend and rival of Justine contrives to send not Adrian Farwell, but another likeness of Laurence's portrait as a venture in identity. And the result of this strange experiment is enough to make even the seasoned reader sit up with a gasp of astonishment and delight.

AS IF to prove that the knack of spinning a downright fascinating yarn were still secure in his finger tips, there comes a fresh book of short stories from Conan Doyle. There's the story of "The Silver Mirror" which is decidedly not the thing to read before going to bed. It is the record of what one man, in certain mental conditions, saw in an ancient mirror that later proved to have belonged to Mary Queen of Scots and to have been upon the scene of the murder of Rizzio by the Scottish nobles. Another weird bit of writing, entitled "Through the Veil," is the story of a woman who remembers dimly the tragedies of a previous life and finds in the excavations of an old Roman fort, on British soil, the links which bind her to the massacre of the Roman garrison.

The first portion of the book is entitled "Impressions," being glimpses of history as interpreted by the author. Among these is "The Last Galley," a tale of Carthage and Rome from which the volume takes its title. Among the "Tales" in the latter half of the book is "The Terror of Blue John Gap," which may, with "The Silver Mirror," be labelled: Not to be Read Before Retiring.

A SHEAF of poems which will win serious attention for their simplicity and their inspiration.

The author has ranged over a wide field, from a "Hymn of Empire," dedicated to the Coronation in 1911, to translations from the German of Heine; and from army verses to more serious efforts under such captions as "Compensation," "Religio Medici," "Man's Limitation," and other lines upon love and nature.

Altogether the title of the volume is quite expressive of its spirit and its contents.

Reminiscences of General Basil W. Duke

Size, 6 x 9¼; pages, about 400; illustrated from photographs and portraits; binding, cloth.

*Net, $2.50

PROBABLY no man alive to-day saw as much cavalry service during the Civil War or had a more varied military career than General Basil W. Duke of the Confederate Army. Morgan's Cavalry, or Morgan's Raiders, as they were sometimes called, were the most picturesque figures in the border warfare which was waged in Ohio, Virginia, Kentucky, and Missouri. General Duke was Morgan's right-hand man and mainstay, and after the latter's tragic death, he commanded this cavalry until the close of the war. His services were not limited to this command, however. At the outbreak of the war he played a prominent part in the struggle against General Lyon and his "Wide-Awakes," leading the minute men in the attempt to hold St. Louis and Missouri for the Confederacy.

General Duke describes the last council of war of the doomed Confederacy at which he was present, and his custodianship of the Confederate Treasury when it was carried South from Richmond in carts, shortly before Jefferson Davis was taken prisoner. The work is not merely another addition to the already monumental mass of Civil War history, but is a series of amusing and entertaining autobiographical reminiscences of a cavalry leader's active service in the field. It is full of humor, and anecdotes of famous persons and events. To those who have read General John B. Gordon's "Recollections" or Lord Wolseley's "Story of a Soldier's Life" we can say that General Duke's book is fully as enthralling. To many readers there will be the added interest of relationship or personal acquaintance with many of the persons of whom he speaks.

The Richer Life

By
Walter A. Dyer

Author of "The Lure of the Antique."

Size $5\frac{1}{4} \times 8$; pages, about 250*; decorated; binding, cloth.*

Net, $1.00

MR. DYER has set out to tell the ordinary average person — you, me, the man or woman in the next subway seat — some homely truths about getting the most out of life. Using a story allegory for the main part of each chapter, he drives home a lot of facts (which we all know, perhaps, but which few act on), concerning the art of living. It is all very real, very human, very inspiring, because of its practicability and its application to nine people out of ten whom you know. The strong appeal of the whole thing has already been proved by the quick and wide response which a portion of the book met when published serially in The Craftsman.

The Prince, The Pauper, and the Golden Mean
The Doctor and the Cobbler's Son

THIS is a new and popular edition of Filippini's standard work on cooking. It is printed from the same plates as the $4.80 edition with the difference that it is here brought down to a very handy and convenient size. While Mr. Filippini was formerly chef of Delmonico's, his work is planned on simple lines and meets the requirements of the average table. There are nearly 3500 recipes arranged in diary form drawn from every country in the civilized world.

The popularity of the more expensive edition should insure wide sale for this work in its new form.

> "Here are full and rare menus for every day in the year. The culinary riches of this big collection are stupendous. . . . Moderate in tone and requirements, well planned, a mine of interesting kitchen lore, this volume is as valuable for the housewife as for the caterer." — Chicago Record-Herald.

The Garden and Farm Almanac for 1912

Size, $6 \times 9\frac{1}{2}$;
pages, about 300;
illustrated;
cover in colors.

*Net, 25 cents.

IN THE five years since the Garden and Farm Almanac was first issued it has become an institution. The 1911 issue was reprinted twice and hundreds of orders finally went unfilled because the last printing was exhausted almost as soon as received. For 1912, it contains many new features, among them a thirty-two page "Who's Who in Bugs" which is the simplest and most helpful guide to the identification and destruction of insect pests ever devised. The same "Who's Who" idea has been extended to horses, cows, etc. You might spend twenty times the quarter it costs and not get nearly so much live information about all those matters that interest everybody with a piece of ground. From "First Aid to the Injured" down to the "Care of the Woodlot" and the "Signs of the Zodiac," its alphabetical index is a mine of up-to-date facts.

Abe and Mawruss

By Montague Glass

Author of "Potash and Perlmutter,"

Size, $5\frac{1}{4} \times 8$; pages, about 350*; illustrated; binding, cloth; decorated.*

Fixed price, $1.20

OUR old and valued friends of the clothing trade here reappear in a series of business adventures which will still further endear them and their chronicler to every reader with a sense of humor. When a new "Potash story" by Mr. Glass appears serially, the magazine containing it generally "sells out" in a few hours at the news-stands in the Jewish quarter of New York — remarkable testimony to the truth and fairness of the author's searching yet delightful fun. The world is just a brighter place to live in by reason of Mr. Glass's books — and one can't ask much more than that!

POTASH AND PERLMUTTERINGS

When you fire a feller, never part friends, Mawruss, otherwise he would come around regular every week and touch you for a dollar.

Some people is so suspicious, Mawruss, they claim a shortage before they unpack the goods.

Don't worry if you lose once in a while a customer, Mawruss. There's just as good fish swimming in the sea as they sell by fish markets — better even.

B. Rashkin's brother is a millionaire, Mawruss. If he's worth a cent, he's worth a hundred thousand dollars.

Greenhorns which they couldn't speak it the English language correct, Mawruss, I ain't got no confidence in at all.

The way it is lately, Mawruss, no sooner do you sell a retailer goods, than one of his relations gets married on you, and the least they expect from you is a piece of cut glass which costs, by wholesale yet, ten dollars.

Don't be scared of a customer because he looks like a slob, Mawruss. It's the faker with the four carat diamond pin which is out to do his creditors, Mawruss, but the yokel with the soup on his coat pays a hundred cents on the dollar every time.

If an out-of-town customer don't show up just before lunch time, Mawruss, either he has bought his goods somewheres else, or he's got stomach trouble.

IF ONE were asked to select the ideal man of all actors or experts in our generation to edit Shakespeare for the young of all ages there could hardly be any choice but Mr. Ben Greet. Himself a most distinguished impersonator of "Bully Bottom" and other Shakespearean rôles; a really wonderful stage manager and producer; an enthusiast on Shakespeare, on outdoor plays, on inexpensively staged home and amateur productions of good plays by young people — he has every qualification necessary to produce a classic. And that is what we firmly believe these books will become. Not only is there a continuous reading-text suitable for children on the right hand-pages, but on the left hand ones Mr. Greet has poured out his wealth of knowledge and novel ideas on how to stage the plays, the action and "business," the conceptions of different parts — the whole intricate and fascinating art of stage-craft applied to the greatest dramatist, as Mr. Greet has developed it in a lifetime of practical experience and study. There couldn't be a better book for young people than this.

Outdoor Plays. Probable Contents: "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "The Tempest," "As You Like It," "Twelfth Night," "Two Gentlemen of Verona," "A Comedy of Errors."

The Gift of the Wise Men

"Heart of the West,"
"Cabbages and Kings,"
etc., etc.

Uniform with
"On Christmas Day in the Morning,"
"On Christmas Day in the Evening."

pages, about 75*;*
illustrated in color and decorated by Charles M. Relyea.

Fixed price, 50 *cents

One dollar and eighty-seven cents. That was all. And sixty cents of it in pennies. Pennies saved one and two at a time by bulldozing the grocer and the vegetable man and the butcher until one's cheeks burned with the silent imputation of parsimony that such close dealing implied. Three times Della counted it. One dollar and eighty-seven cents. And the next day would be Christmas.

YOU remember, perhaps, Relyea's illustrations for Mrs. Richmond's "On Christmas Day in the Morning" and you surely remember Dickens's "Christmas Carol." "The Gift of the Wise Men" is like Dickens's masterpiece, a Christmas classic and Relyea's illustrations for it are wonderfully sympathetic. People who have never heard of O. Henry are going to read and reread "The Gift of the Wise Men."

The magi were wise men — wonderfully wise men — who brought gifts to the Babe in the manger. They invented the art of giving Christmas presents. Being wise, their gifts were no doubt wise ones, possibly bearing the privilege of exchange in case of duplication.

UNDER this typically O. Henryish title is issued a new collection of short stories to be added to this writer's published volumes. As may be guessed in a minute from its whimsicality, the title is O. Henry's. He chose it as a possible name for a future volume, but never lived to make the final selection himself.

In these pages one moves in the same world which he loved so well to draw in all his books — the every-day world of you and me. He laughs at you, but always with you as well — and there is a saving quality in this. His fun is always found in the humor of your plight, never in the misfortune of it; and when he laughs loudest he is nearest to tears.

"Sixes and Sevens" is a gathering of fresh O. Henry material worthy of permanent addition to his nine published volumes. Among the tales one finds "The Greater Coney," reminiscent of old days at the Island; "October and June," a love story as he knew how to tell it; "The Adventures of Shamrock Jolnes," a burlesque upon the famous detective; "At Arms with Morpheus," the ludicrous results of an over-dose of morphine; "Witches' Loaves," a charming bit of humor with all the O. Henry touches; and "Let Me Feel Your Pulse," the ridiculous experiences of the author in the land of neurasthenia, a story of adventures with specialists into which he has put a whole world of laughter and of pathos.

O. Henry readers will be glad to learn that we are getting ready for publication within a year a collection of O. Henry's letters, sketches and other documents. This volume will be, as far as it can, an autobiography.

It is our intention ultimately to publish all of the O. Henry volumes in leather, bringing them out one at a time. We now have, in leather, "The Four Million," "The Voice of the City" and "The Trimmed Lamp."

A postal card will bring you free a little booklet entitled, "O. Henry: Who He Was and How He Worked."

An Enemy to Society

By
George F. B. Howard

Size, 5¼ x 8; pages, about 400; Illustrated; binding, cloth, decorated

Fixed price, $1.20

"OLD Stephen Janissary" stands for the typical selfish strong man of the last generation — the generation which produced the public feeling against Trusts and Combinations. His one idol is his child, Stephen. An old half-witted tradesman, whom Janissary's operations have ruined, steals the child. The boy is brought up by Axtell and his band of thieves with the one purpose of making him an ideal tool for their operations. He becomes a superb physical specimen of manhood, full of altruistic ideals — with just one cunning twist of mind carefully prepared by Axtell: he believes firmly that it is God's work to steal from the rich in order to help the poor — and his teacher makes him think the money thus obtained does go for charity. With the entry of love into young Stephen's life the situation becomes complex indeed; and the two climacteric scenes — where he is captured red-handed robbing his own father's safe, and where the One Woman's instinct reveals to him the truth about his old master — would be hard to surpass in genuine dramatic "thrill."

A NEW AMERICAN HUMORIST

"SOME girls are born with big feet and others wear white shoes" says Abe Martin. You'll see how true that is if you begin keeping tabs. Abe Martin is full of homely truth and lives down in Brown County, where there's nubbin' corn and persimmons and 'possums and paw paws. Abe Martin's creator is Kin Hubbard, as quaint and droll a man as Josh Billings and Artemus Ward ever aspired to be in their time. Abe Martin, however, is up to the minute. The people who live in small towns, or used to live in small towns, make up a great part of our population. To all these (and through their instincts to the others as well who have never known the small town or the country) Abe Martin is a real human, in the flesh. Did you know that "Ez Pash's son-in-law has written from South Dakota for a homeseeker's ticket"?

Dr. Hutchinson is a practitioner of wide experience, clear thought and an extraordinary faculty of epigrammatic expression. If you are confronted by any of the problems of bringing up a child, mental, moral and physical, you will discover in these chapters just the sort of inspired commonsense with which an old family physician, in whom you had utter confidence, might relieve your perplexity if you had time to talk things all over with him.

AN EXCITING and romantic story of the Civil War, by the author of the popular Revolutionary novel, "Joscelyn Cheshire." The story is laid along the line of Sherman's March through Georgia, from Atlanta to Savannah — a notable piece of war-fiction fifty years after. The story moves rapidly, and there is no better description either of the ruthless side of war or of the tender individual qualities that great stress brings out, and even of social gayety in time of overwhelming sorrow and privation.

BY A score of wonderful poems in this book, Mr. Kipling has, in collaboration with Professor Fletcher, created as distinctive a form in the writing of history as is the opera form on the stage. At many different periods in this tale of the past centuries in England, the reader is thrilled through and through by a poetic flash of insight into that particular time and the character of the men who made it significant; and the result is a succession of revelations of the human heart beating beneath the dry casing of historical fact such as exists in no other book we can cite.

And for a culminating point there is a "Song of the Machines" which sums up our own time with a penetration and insight and hopefulness of clear vision that leave the reader breathless.

It's a lucky generation that will get its knowledge of the past from this unique volume!

"After the Revolution"

The snow lies thick on Valley Forge
The ice on the Delaware,
But the old dead soldiers of King George
They neither know nor care —

* * * * * * * *

They will not stir when the drifts are gone
Or the ice melts out of the bay,
And the men that served with Washington
Lie all as still as they.

* * * * * * * *

Each for his land, in a fair fight,
Encountered, strove, and died,
And the kindly earth that knows no spite
Covers them side by side.

She is too busy to think of war
She has all the world to make gay,
And, behold, the yearly flowers are
Where they were in our fathers' day.

Golden rod by the pasture-wall
When the columbine is dead,
And the sumach leaves that turn, in fall,
Red as the blood they shed."

THERE are many charming bits of work in "Rewards and Fairies," by Rudyard Kipling, but the thing which struck an immediate and responsive chord was the poem "If —".

To satisfy a great demand this has been issued separately in several very attractive forms: the "If —" card, plain and illuminated, and the "If —" booklet in boards and in leather. Any of these makes a very unusual souvenir.

THIS is one of three important books which Mr. La Farge completed and revised shortly before his death, in November, 1910, an event which brought to a close the fruitful life-work of one of our foremost critics and our most authoritative and inspiring art critic. The other works are an impressive volume of "Recollections of the South Seas," and a unique work in a field never before treated adequately, "The Christian Story in Art." They will both be issued before the close of 1912.

MR. JOHN LA FARGE has given a key to the art beauties of all time in this splendid volume; a work which holds open to the average reader the door to the storehouse of the ages — the gallery of immortal paintings. In the present volume he treats not of a group or school, but of those imperishable achievements of the greatest painters of the world. Enforcing his words with exquisite illustrations, Mr. La Farge has made his pages quick with the very spirit of the masters and has interpreted to us their finest works in a manner which is not only understandable but truly inspiring.

The book is, indeed, a veritable treasure-house of all that is worth while in the history of painting, wholly free from technical criticism, and discovering the artist only in its illumination of those finer touches which would otherwise be lost to your eyes.

THIS announcement of a second volume of "The Wonderful Adventures of Nils" will be welcome news to many, for the author's first collection was hailed as the best thing "since the days of Hans Christian Andersen." Indeed, no child's story book has had higher praise bestowed upon it, and in this new volume Miss Lagerlöf has told tales of the further adventures of Nils which are full of the wonder and enchantment of the fairy world. As one critic remarks: "She can speak all languages: the language of animals, and the language of flowers; but first and last, childhood's language."

Miss Lagerlöf is recognized as Sweden's greatest writer of fiction, and since the publication of her first stories of Nils she has been awarded the Nobel Prize, an honor which she shares with Mr. Kipling, with whom she has been compared.

The illustrations, by a Swedish artist, are full of characteristic charm.

A SENSITIVE, high-spirited, elemental boy, Jimmy Krag (who has made his own place among his fellows) is cut to the heart by the public taunt of his mother's poverty from the arrogant father of Maisie Hacklette, who is the One Girl for Krag. This wound becomes a festering sore, until the man's whole life centres about his determination to become rich himself by finding the fabulously wealthy Lost Mine, the Vita Negra, and thus be able to revenge himself on Hacklette.

Through a surprising series of happenings which make up a novel of most exciting and adventurous interest, Krag, finds himself leaving his wife Maisie (who does not at all understand him, but fears this secret purpose which she instinctively recognizes) and going out among the fierce Yaqui Indians, who held as a tribal secret the whereabouts of the Lost Mine. He is a doctor and a man of iron nerve; he becomes their good angel, healing the sick and the wounded, caring for them like the children they are — always with the obsessing purpose of surprising some day the secret of the Mine.

This goes on for years. And then, one day, everything Krag has worked for comes to him in one full sweep of fortune's wheel: the Mine, the chance for fullest revenge on Hacklette. And right here is the unique and "big" side of the novel: for at this climax the effect of his enforced habit of doing good appears with surprising force, leading to a culmination of dramatic effect and of tremendous moral significance.

This is a splendid, swift moving story. But it's also far more: it is a novel of as searching purpose as Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

THE enormous success of the Boy Scout movement has led to the preparation of this revised and enlarged manual, which represents the work of all the foremost experts in the organization, in the light of the experience gained since the Scouts were organized in this country.

A WHOLESOME and touching Christmas story. By his naif activity a mountain boy carries a Christmas tree around to all the poor and sick folks of the neighborhood and brings a whole neighborhood, which had kept up a war of religious sects, to work together at Christmas — and ever afterwards. "Grover Cleveland" is as original and winning a character as you will find in recent fiction, genuine to the very heart of him; and no better description of Southern mountain life has ever been written — those fundamental people who have been aptly called "our contemporary ancestors." Miss Morgan has fathomed their natures and caught the humor and the pathos of their lives.

The Taming of John Blunt

By
Alfred Ollivant

Author of
"Bob, Son of Battle,"

Size, $5\frac{1}{4} \times 8$;
pages, about 375*;*
binding, cloth, decorated;

Fixed price, $1.20

MR. OLLIVANT'S new novel is very different from the dog classic which made him famous, but it has much of the same power. It is a story of the awakening of love between an elemental, radical, uncouth, tremendous man of the people, and a girl brought up in all the traditions of that aristocracy which John Blunt has loved to declare is "rotten to the core." The working out of this strange situation throws into high relief the unique character of Blunt; and his rough humor, and sturdy, almost boyishly simple strength, are profoundly impressive. Needless to say, the man who kept you breathless over the adventures of the doughty "Bob" and "Red Wull" knows how to tell a story so that there's no chance of putting it down till finished.

ONE would need an ossified heart not to be moved by this tale of little Joey, and his life in the Clay Court slum. As one reader put it: "The book would be impossible unless one got that glimpse of blue sky for Joey at the end: it would simply tear one's heart out otherwise." It's a simple narrative, by a man who knows and feels, of a City slum: of the men and women and children who toil in the great factory and what "the day's work" means to the particular main characters Freddy and Della, who have just discovered the Secret of Life, and Little Joey, and all the other wonderfully vivid men and women depicted. Mr. Oyen has made you live the lives of these submerged ones for a little while, and he makes you ask yourself hotly "What are we going to do about it?" Fortunately, he has been sane enough, and far seeing enough, to leave some hopeful suggestion with the reader who finds himself thus stirred. It is a book for every human being who ever ventures to think of the welfare of his fellows.

MR. RACKHAM here completes, in a book uniform with his first one, the wonderful series of full-color drawings in which he has expressed in pictorial form the great story of the Niebelungs' Ring. In his earlier volume the Rheingold and Valkyrie furnished the scenes which his art bodied forth with a weird splendor. The same distinctive interpretation of the legend is to be found in these new drawings.

Wagner's music has made this great Cycle a heritage of all time; and similarly, in his own field of expression, Mr. Rackham has done an unequalled thing. His work is bold and individual; his color of a piece with the heights of the gods, mist-hung and sun-lit; and his conception instinct with the mystery of the overworld and the futility of human struggle against charmed power.

WHEN the Lanes lost their father and mother within a year's time, many were the changes of plans among the four boys and their sister. From a beautiful home they removed to a tiny flat, college courses were abandoned, and Sally set about making a home for "her men," as she called them. Then came the unexpected: Uncle Maxwell died and left them forty-two acres and a shabby old homestead, long neglected, five miles out.

How this little family is eventually transplanted to "Strawberry Acres," as Sally names the country place, and how the scientific cultivation of strawberries is taken up by Jarvis Burnside and the Lane Boys (who, one by one, give up their city positions) is a charming story with the breath of the outdoors blowing through it. Nor has Mrs. Richmond neglected the romance. There is a very happy love story told in the author's delicate and graceful way. The home-like appeal in "Strawberry Acres" goes straight to the heart.

Many Celebrities and a Few Others

A Bundle of Reminiscences

By William H. Rideing

Size, 6 x 9¼; pages, about 400; illustrated; binding, cloth, decorated.

*Net, $2.50

MR. RIDEING has made it his business as well as his pleasure to know most of the celebrities in public and in literary life both in the United States and in England. He has been equally at home in London, New York and Boston.

Besides an entertaining description of old days in New York that his contemporaries and his successors will alike revel in, Mr. Rideing has much of an intimate and personal nature to tell about a large number of the prominent men of his time, on both sides of the Atlantic: — his fellow-workers under Horace Greeley of The Tribune; Sir Edwin Arnold, W. M. Laffan, Frank Stockton, Mark Twain, Richard Watson Gilder, Edgar Fawcett, C. W. Stoddard, Maurice Barrymore, H. F. Bunner, Thomas Bailey Aldrich, E. C. Stedman, Francis Parkman, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Henry M. Stanley, Paul du Chaillu, George H. Boughton, Lord Dufferin, Lord Randolph Churchill, Harold Frederic, Mr. Gladstone, Lord Leighton, Sarah Bernhardt, Ada Rehan, Ellen Terry, Lord Kelvin, Charles Read, Mrs. Oliphant, Thomas Hardy, Walter Besant, Wilkie Collins, James Payn, Lord Wolseley, Lady St. Helier, and the author of "Lorna Doone."

About these and many more there are amusing anecdotes in the book, pen pictures that will preserve the outlines of the passing generation long after more conventional history gathers dust on the shelves.

These reminiscences have a genuine distinction of style, a kindly tone, a quality of shrewd observation, and not a little humor. Among books that make contributions to the personal history of the last thirty years and of many of the most interesting people of this period, Mr. Rideing's volume will have a permanent place, both because of its matter and of its manner.

The "Every Child Should Know" Books

THE "Every Child Should Know" series, of which some of our foremost literary people are acting as the editors, has been accepted everywhere as a standard collection of children's classics. Many of our schools have indorsed it, and no effort is being spared to make it in fact—as in name—a garnering of all that "Every Child Should Know."

Net, $1.20

WILD Animals Every Child Should Know groups together by families the big, fierce, beautiful relatives of our domestic animals. What a menagerie passes before young readers! The Zoo and the circus collection of animals they see as often as possible, but at best it is seldom. They haven't time to make acquaintance of a neighborly kind. And alas! these changeling beasts have lost their wildness, and much of their charm, by their humdrum life in cages. The average child is quite as likely to see an elephant as a weasel running wild. It is the field naturalist and the hunter who bring news of the life of animals in their native wilds. From them we learn how the tiger and elephant live their lives in the jungle — what they do when the springs go dry, and when men hunt them for their ivory and striped pelt, or to save the crops and the lives of people. And the common everyday creatures, which every child can know, are also introduced to the young folks as real neighbors of the woods and fields. All the stories retold in this book are true; all the doings of the beasts, great and small, are vouched for by naturalists.

THIS is a guide to the trees of Eastern North America which gives three things: First, the identification of the tree, made absolutely easy by drawings and descriptions; second, where each tree is to be found—with actual maps of the range of the species; Third, it tells the properties and uses of the different trees from the point of view of a scout or woodsman—a unique feature which makes the book of exceptional interest. It would be hard indeed to find elsewhere such points as the weight of each kind of wood; the dyes made from bark or leaves; the method of using spruce roots, for instance, to make baskets or for lacing material—these and a thousand other items of woodcraft drawn from Mr. Seton's long study and experience will be found in this invaluable manual.

MR. SETON has here made the first handbook of sign language — a language used to some extent by every one of us, but capable of great extension, and often an absolute necessity in the woods. With great pains and care he has gathered the signs in everyday use by ordinary people, by the Indians, by the deaf mutes, by all expert woodsmen; and he has sorted out several hundred of real value to-day. It is a fascinating subject, and while the woods-lore section is indispensable to boy scouts, the grown-ups will find plenty to interest them throughout.

Size, 5½ x 8 ; illustrated ; pages, about 450 ; binding, cloth, decorated

Fixed price, $1.35 **

MRS. PORTER has lavished upon this unique story all the wealth of nature lore and nature love from her years of patient, enthusiastic study. "The Harvester," David Langston, is a man of the woods and fields, who draws his living from the prodigal hand of Mother Nature herself —selling the medicinal roots and herbs and barks, the wild mushrooms and so on, which are his for the gathering. If the book had nothing in it but the splendid figure of this man, with his sure grip on life, his superb optimism, and his almost miraculous knowledge of nature secrets, it would be notable. But when the Girl comes to his "Medicine Woods," and the Harvester's whole sound, healthy, large outdoor being realizes that this is the highest point of life which has come to him — there begins a romance, troubled and interrupted, yet of the rarest idyllic quality. And the tale of how happiness finally evolved from the tangle, because of the very qualities which made David a man in a thousand, will prove even more absorbing than the author's former stories.

When the Harvester Brought His Bride to His Woods Home

"They were at the foot of a little levee that ran to the bridge crossing Singing Water. . . . Everywhere flamed foxfire and cardinal flower, thousands of wild tiger lilies lifted gorgeous orange-red trumpets beside pearl-white turtle-head and moon daisies, while all the creek bank was a coral line with the first opening bloom of big pink mallows. Rank jewel-flower poured gold from dainty cornucopias, and lavender beard-tongue offered honey to a million bumbling bees, water smartweed spread a glowing pink background, and twining amber dodder topped the marsh in lacy mist with its delicate white bloom. . . .

"High around the blue water of the lake waved heads of wild rice, lower cat-tails, bulrushes, marsh grasses, arrowhead lilies lifting spines of pearly bloom, yellow water lilies, and blue water-hyacinths intermingled. . . . Over the water bordering the edge, starry faces of white pond lilies floated. Blue flags waved graceful leaves, willows grew in clumps, and vines clambered everywhere.

"'Why didn't you tell me it would be like this?' she demanded in awed tones."

THIS book is a new interpretation of the life of Jesus — an interpretation reverent yet most daring and revolutionary. It is also an impeachment of certain shortcomings in the Church, and a trumpet call to the leaders of Christianity to study anew the life and words of the Carpenter of Nazareth.

Jesus, says Mr. White, appeared as the leader of a great popular movement against the capitalistic class. Mr. White pictures the Roman Empire not as a military and legal institution, but as a world-wide confederacy of aristocracies. Christianity was an economic upheaval — a rebellion of the proletariat against the seignorial class. The work of Jesus was to awaken class-consciousness in the down-trodden. He was a labor leader. He was not rejected by his nation but was crucified by Roman authority as an enemy to the "System" of the day.

Christianity was overcome by the Roman Empire almost in the instant of its birth, and it has continued to lie under defeat, a distorted and misrepresented institution, supporting the social and political ideas which its founder intended it to fight.

The great democratic movement of to-day is in part due to the rediscovery of the figure of the Nazarene Carpenter, and it is his still-living influence which will lead the triumphant advance of democracy.

THIS is Mr. White's first book for younger readers, and the hundreds of thousands who delighted in "The Blazed Trail," "The Riverman," etc., can easily imagine what an ideal boy's tale he makes of the outdoor experiences of Bobby, the son of Orde "The Riverman." Bobby's first lesson in walking the logs of a lumber boom; his awakening to the difference between Celia Carleton and other despised "girls" — and the manner in which she obtruded herself into his initial experiments with the new printing press; the shooting match which brought the youngster the coveted Flobert rifle, and the unforgetable expeditions wherein he learned the thrilling joys of hunting ducks, squirrels, and partridges; the dramatic use of his newly acquired sportsman's knowledge in clearing his old friend from a murder charge; and the final passing of "Little Boyhood" with the exchange of his "Flobert" for a "sure enough" 16-gauge shotgun — all these and many more healthful outdoor adventures make a most absorbing volume.

Fixed price, $1.50

WE IMAGINE that this will be delightful news to those who have found a land of heart's-ease first in "Adventures in Contentment" and later in that friendly rival for one's affections, "Adventures in Friendship."

The two books are to be uniformly bound in flexible leather, similar in point of style to the leather Kipling. There are two charming frontispieces in colors by Thomas F. Fogarty and many black and white drawings.

These two volumes are so many vignettes of things rustic; they are as sweet as a chestnut with sound philosophy, and full of little insights into the heart of man and nature. They are the adventures in spirit and in body of a man who has got right down to life — and loves it and his fellowman.

> "Here is a book so delightful in its literary style, so simple, so sound in its philosophy, so full of genuine content and with such a sunny outlook upon life that one almost hesitates to write about it lest its charms shall be clouded, as it were by overmuch handling." The Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

> "'Adventures in Friendship' is an attractive book, rich in insight into character and alive also with the charm which comes to a man who keeps his eyes open to the magic appeal of Nature." London Standard.

Maxfield Parrish.

"A GOLDEN TREASURY OF SONGS AND LYRICS."

Palgrave's well-known collection, with pictures in color by Maxfield Parrish. The whole volume is in the style of "The Wonder Book" issued last year, with striking cover inlay, and altogether it should be one of the most attractive gift books of the Autumn season. $2.25 net.

Jessie Willcox Smith.

"A CHILD'S BOOK OF STORIES."

A volume containing stories selected and prepared by Penrhyn Wingfield Coussens for children from four to eight years of age, including many that are not found in other collections. The stories selected are ones which are most inquired for but which cannot be found readily in any one volume. Full page illustrations in color by Jessie Willcox Smith make the book practically a companion volume to "A Child's Book of Old Verses," so popular last year. $2.25 net.

Edward Lear.

"THE COMPLETE NONSENSE BOOK." Edited by Lady Strachey. Introduction by Lord Cromer. Illustrated.

The Owl and the Pussy Cat—and new verses just as good; The Yonghi-Bonghy-Bo and other new verses from the immortal Lear make this volume entirely unique among the Autumn's offerings. It includes new material and illustrations never before published, as well as all former verses and pictures, and is thus the only complete edition of Lear's Book of Nonsense extant. Lady Strachey's editorial efforts have uncovered many rich veins in the possession of Lear's relatives, or friends, among whom her own family are numbered. The book is fully illustrated, and has an introduction by Lord Cromer, the famous Egyptian viceroy. $2.00 net.

Art and Letters Library.—"STORIES FROM THE GERMAN ARTISTS."

Illustrated with colored plates and half tone photographs collected and arranged by Professor Dr. Hans W. Singer. $3.50 net.

Martin Shaw Briggs, A.R.I.B.A.

"IN THE HEEL OF ITALY. A Study of an Unknown City."

A delightful study, dealing with a fascinating baroque town, by an Associate of the British School at Rome and Extension Lecturer to the Universities of Oxford and Leeds. Twenty-six drawings by the author and nineteen photographs embellish the volume. 8vo. $3.50 net.

Georges Cain.

"BY-WAYS OF PARIS." Illustrated.

A work of strong appeal to all who have experienced any of the fascination of Paris. M. Cain himself is thoroughly steeped not only in the traditions but in the essential spirit of the city. His enthusiasm and his lightness of touch make the book very different from the ordinary ponderous guide. The translation by Mrs. Louise Seymour Houghton is an excellent and sympathetic piece of work. $3.00 net. Profusely illustrated.

Esther Singleton.

"FURNITURE." Illustrated.

A complete book on furniture in which Miss Singleton takes up an aspect of the subject which has been much, if not entirely, neglected. The history of furniture is her real topic, and in tracing it the author shows how one style after another has been evolved from its predecessors, how in the art of the present is found all the art of the past. This narrative of the evolution of furniture will cause the reader to look at his everyday surroundings with fresh interest and bring new knowledge to the world of home-making. $7.50 net.

Charles W. Collins.

"GREAT LOVE STORIES OF THE THEATRE." Illustrated.

A volume of famous love stories, important from the romantic and especially the historical point of view, in which great ladies of the theatre have figured. Nell Gwyn and Charles II. lead off, and the other romances include Madame Dorval and Alfred de Vigny, Napoleon and Mlle. Veimer, Adrienne Lecouvreur and several interesting others. The book is fully illustrated and Mr. Collins' text is not only eminently readable but historically correct, as well. $3.50 net.

Kellogg Durland.

"ROYAL ROMANCES OF TO-DAY." Illustrated.

In these chapters Mr. Durland gives us intimate personal sketches of the Czarina of Russia, Queen Elena of Italy and Queen Victoria of Spain. Written in a gossipy, entertaining style, they are illustrated largely by pictures taken by Mr. Durland himself in the various palaces of his heroines. $2.00 net.

George Bird Grinnell.

"INDIANS OF TO-DAY." Illustrated.

A new library edition of this well-known work, which has never before been issued at a popular price. The text has been thoroughly revised and brought down to date, and all the original illustrations have been retained. $1.50 net.

New Mediæval Library—"TROBADOR POETS."

A new volume in this attractive series which now contains eleven volumes. "Trobador Poets" contains selections from eight Provencal writers, translated with an introduction and notes, by Barbara Smythe. $2.00 net.

H. de Vere Stacpole.
"THE SHIP OF CORAL." Illustrated by Martin Lewis.

In this, his latest work, Dr. Stacpoole returns to the tropics, which have been the scene of much of his best work. The story deals with the adventures of a French sailor wrecked in the Caribbean, and with his love for a girl of Martinique. In telling this story of a simple man's love and his unconscious delight in beauty, Dr. Stacpoole shows once more that he possesses the very spirit of romance. The breath of the tropics, and the charm of old St. Pierre, pervade the entire book, and surround with their atmosphere the adventures of Gaspard the hero. These have the true ring to them, for Dr. Stacpoole is well able to tell a brisk story. A peculiar charm of his work lies in his ability to give to his stories a reality and color beyond the reach of all but a few masters of romance. $1.20 net.

Anonymous.
"CHILDREN OF THE NIGHT."

A remarkable work of humor and pathos. The quiet courage and self-restraint of the chief character give an atmosphere to the book quite unusual in fiction—if indeed, "Children of the Night" is fiction. $1.00 net.

Alfred Tennyson.
"A PORTENTOUS HISTORY."

A novel by a new author bearing the familiar name of Alfred Tennyson. The author is the grandson of the poet, the stepson of Augustine Birrell and the nephew of the present Baron Tennyson, who has written several works of his own in addition to the memoir of his father. If heredity and environment count in literature, the present Alfred Tennyson should attain to fame of his own. The title of the forthcoming novel is "A Portentous History," and the scene is largely laid in the country districts of Scotland. $1.30 net.

David Gray.
"SMITH." Illustrated.

A novelization of W. Somerset Maugham's clever play in which Mr. John Drew enjoyed one of the greatest successes of his career. The dramatic possibilities of the piece, the character drawing, together with the clever satire and love interest make the play peculiarly adaptable for novel purposes. The work of novelization has been undertaken by David Gray, author of "Gallops," "Mr. Carteret," etc., and is on a plane far above that of the ordinary converted theatre piece. The pictures are taken from the scenes of the play as performed at the Empire Theatre in New York. $1.30 net.

Charles Belmont Davis.
"TALES OF THE TOWN." Illustrated by David Robinson and others.

A volume of short stories, dealing with various phases of New York life done with Mr. Davis' familiar skill. The Gray Mouse, the story of the little Quaker girl who takes so kindly to Broadway, is humorously characteristic of the contents of the volume. $1.30 net.

Katharine Holland Brown.
"UNCERTAIN IRENE."

A new novel by the author of "White Roses." An interesting love story, with a quaintly humorous theme. $1.20 net.

David A. Curtis.
"OLD MAN GREENHUT AND HIS FRIENDS." Illustrated by Gordon Grant.

"Old Man Greenhut," the Arkansas Sage, is a figure that certain daily newspapers have already made dear to many thousands throughout the country. His creator, David Curtis, has collected the best of his adventures in a volume issued under the title of "Old Man Greenhut." As a distinctly American type the "old man" is worthy of being presented in a more permanent form than the newspaper columns in which he has hitherto appeared. $1.20 net.

Mary MacLane.
"THE STORY OF MARY MACLANE." Illustrated.

Nine years ago a young girl of Butte, Montana, hardly out of school at the time, astonished the reading public with "The Story of Mary MacLane." In its frank egotism, its power, and its defiance of convention, the "story" was an amazing work of self-revelation—it can hardly be called an autobiography, for Miss MacLane's life was then but just beginning. In the period which has since elapsed, the author has continued to live with the intensity that marked her earlier years, and she has described her life during this time in a fresh chapter which she has added to the new edition. $1.10 net.

William Sharp.
"SONGS AND POEMS."

The first volume in a new edition of the works signed by William Sharp under his own name. This edition is uniform with the recently completed edition of the works by Fiona Macleod. Before he entered the strange phase which gave to the world the remarkable Gallic works of Fiona Macleod, Sharp was in his own person a well known and esteemed critic, poet and miscellaneous writer. The collected edition of these works will, by supplementing the Fiona Macleod volumes, complete the available material for the study of one of the most interesting phenomena in the history of literature. $1.50 net.

"LA LYRE D'AMOUR."

An anthology of French love poems from the earliest times down to 1866. Selected and annotated by Charles B. Lewis, Lès L., with a photogravure frontispiece. Paper boards. $1.25 net.

Augustus Thomas.
"AS A MAN THINKS." Frontispiece.

One of the significant and forceful plays of the past season in New York. Mr. Thomas has selected one of the biggest themes in the world for his play, and has handled it with the skill and vigor of an experienced playwright. Although the work is primarily an acting play, it is too significant not to be placed within reach of those who had no opportunity to see it on the stage. $1.25 net.

Rudolf Besier.

"LADY PATRICIA."

A new work by the author of "Don," which, when produced at the New Theatre, was one of the season's striking dramatic successes. In "Lady Patricia" Mrs. Patrick Campbell had a pronounced London triumph. The followers of the contemporary drama will be glad to have the play in book form. $1.00 net.

Mrs. Jane Ellis Joy.

"WHAT OF THE HAPPY NEW YEAR."

An attractive little book filled with the spirit of the New Year and the happiness that we all hope it will bring our friends. Since the beginning of civilization the world has celebrated the coming of the New Year, and Mrs. Joy finds in the customs of the past and the present indications of one of the fundamental sentiments of mankind. 30c. net.

"WHAT OF THE MERRY CHRISTMAS."

A companion volume to "What of the Happy New Year," in which Mrs. Joy writes of the greatest of all Christian festivals. Much has been written about Christmas, but a new note is struck in this little volume. 30c. net.

"THE RUBRIC BIRTHDAY BOOK."

A new volume in the Rubric Series, which now contains thirteen titles. In this volume varied decorations make the book especially pleasing to all who wish to keep a record of the birthdays of their friends. 60c. net.

"GRIMM'S ANIMAL STORIES: Second Series." Translated by Lucy Crane. Illustrated by John Rae.

Another book of stories by the brothers Grimm which contain animals, with pictures in color, and decorations, by John Rae. The success of Mr. Rae's first book has inspired the present volume, which contains the animal stories not included in the first series. Small quarto. $1.50.

Elsa Barker.

"STORIES FROM THE NEW TESTAMENT FOR CHILDREN." Illustrated by Herbert Moore.

A companion volume to "Old Testament Stories" by Harriet S. Blaine Beale, written by Elsa Barker, author of "The Son of Mary Bethel," that remarkable human and sympathetic story of Christ. Pictures by Herbert Moore, whose illustrations for Mrs. Beale's book were so successful, add to the attractiveness and usefulness of the volume, easily one of the best books in its class. $2.00.

Olive Hyde Foster.

"SEWING FOR LITTLE GIRLS." Illustrated.

A companion volume to "Cookery for Little Girls," by the same author. 75c. net.

H. de Vere Stacpoole.

"THE CRUISE OF THE KINGFISHER. A Tale of Deep Sea Adventure.

One of the best boy's stories in many years. Two lads, Teddy O'Brien and Dick Marley, playing with a kite tied to their dory, get pulled away out of sight of land, and are picked up by the cable-laying cruising ship "Kingfisher." The crew of the "Kingfisher," the picturesque and instructive object of her voyaging, the monkey mascot, the mysterious Spanish passenger, fill the volume with excitement and interest from cover to cover. $1.50.

S. M. Barrett.

"MOCCO: AN INDIAN BOY." Illustrated.

The stories and myths that make up an Indian boy's life, retold by the chronicler of Geronimo. Mocco is shown us in successive stages and pictures from babyhood to young warriorhood, with always increasing sympathy. The story is fully illustrated. $1.25.

Marguerite Merington.

"PICTURE PLAYS." Illustrated.

Uniform with "Holiday Plays," "Cranford, a Play," etc., this new volume is equally attractive for reading or for junior theatricals. Following the volume of "Holiday Plays," which was so successful, it consists of half a dozen short one-act pieces and combines the merit of tableau as well as drama. The curtain in each case discloses a well-known picture—"The Princes in the Tower," "Charles I and his Children," etc., etc., the figures in which come to life and form the dramatis personæ. Each play is accompanied by a half-tone reproduction of the picture, showing the poses, etc. $1.25 net.

William O. Stoddard.

"THE FIRST CRUISER OUT." New edition. "RUNNING THE CUBAN BLOCKADE." New edition. Illustrated.

Two very popular books for boys by a well-known author, now brought out in new editions. Both deal with the Spanish War or with the Cuban troubles that brought on the conflict. Few authors have such a wide following among American boys as Mr. Stoddard. $1.25.

Oliver Clay.

"THE TREASURE FINDERS; or How the Adventurers of Four Centuries Found a New Land."

Tales of the men who explored and conquered the new world Columbus gave them. French, English, Spanish, Norse and Dutch, are all represented in this roll of honor, from Lief Ericson and his Vikings down to Henry Hudson. The romance and story of the discovery of America are brought out in relief and the whole book makes an alluring introduction to history. $1.25.

TONY'S WHITE ROOM

AND HOW THE WHITE ROSE OF LOVE BLOOMED AND FLOURISHED THERE.

"'Say, dat's de dope 'bout de room all right, but ain't never heerd of love any; wisht I knowed if it is for—eat.'

He walked thoughtfully into the tumbled-down building and through a labyrinth of halls and stairways, past dirty babies, quarreling children, and slatternly women.

Before a door at the end of the hall he paused to listen. Hearing no sound, he entered the room and closed the door gently behind him.

Owing to the coat of dirt and cobwebs upon the narrow window, the light was dim. Tony's sharp eyes glanced anxiously toward a tiny bundle lying on one of the broken beds. All was quiet."

Was it not Emerson who said that "We are measured by our effect on others' lives"? The paragraph quoted above is from a story of the ennobling influence of one beautiful nature on many others, the story of a seed of truth sown in fertile ground and watered and tended with loving care.

The conditions surrounding the little hero seem almost unreally terrible, but Miss Rich says that she has not overdrawn the picture,—that she has seen just such things. The beauty of the story lies in the wonderful growth of Tony's real nature when he has come to see the light and to know "What Love Is."

Bound in delicate opal boards, this volume bears a suggestion of spring flowers and other beautiful, evanescent things,—the suggestion of a perfect moment seized out of the maze of nature's changes. It is an ideal gift-book and the many delightful illustrations in colors from Elizabeth Ferrea's bas-reliefs enhance its charm. Price, $1.00 net; by mail, $1.10.

GOOD THINGS

ETHICAL RECIPES FOR FEAST DAYS AND OTHER DAYS, WITH GRACES FOR ALL THE DAYS.

These ethical recipes of Isabel Goodhue's suggest the fancy of a divine Receipt Book in which might be set down the elements that go to make up the universe and its creatures and the variations of human nature. They remind one of the hyacinths of which the Greek poet sings,—they are food for the soul.

We quote one as a "taster":

"One and one-half cups of meditation; one and one-half cups of work; three-fourths cup of recreation, daily experiences well beaten. Stir through all the care-away seeds of cheerful suggestions and cheerful points of view.

Roll this dough out and form into cookies with your love-of-beauty cutter."

For "A Flapjack" the suggestion is,—

"Take almost any self-assured lover, brown him over the fire of uncertainty first on one side of his nature, then give him a sudden turn and brown him on the other."

For a very pleasing icing,—

"To a large measure of conventional good breeding add the sugar of friendliness; flavor with the extract of charm, beat well together. It is noted that this will grace the home cake as well as the company cake."

For Butter,—

"Take the cream that rises on the milk of human kindness; place it in the churn of every-day life, keep it in motion with the dasher of experience."

The pages on which these recipes appear are decorated by Walter Francis with a delicate border and quaint illustrations in old-time style head each page. The cover is dainty and attractive, with linen back and Suisse boards decorated in tint and gold.

Price, $1.00 net; by mail, $1.08.

Books and Booklets

Art has grown careless, the trend of the day is toward effect. "The gods see everywhere" was the thought of the old-time worker; "The gods are dead" men mistakenly cry today, and only occasionally do we find the craftsman who is working to perfect each detail that he may, himself, feel the satisfaction of work well done. But it is this rare, honest, intelligent workman who tends the sacred flame of the ideal, keeps it burning from age to age and passes on the trust to who is fitted to receive it.

The products of our presses, books and booklets are the result of earnest, careful work. No pains are spared to make them the best of which we are capable, and the fruits of our endeavor have not been wanting. The public has proven with enthusiastic appreciation, in spite of much that has been said in depreciation of the public's taste, that true beauty and real worth DO receive the welcome which they merit.

Calendars 1912

With pictured leaves and words of cheer—
The golden milestones of the year.

Pages from the Book of Father Time. Richly simple,—for while every leaf is beautifully illustrated in color, great care has been exercised to avoid that over-elaboration which gradually palls upon the eye. Both words and decorations have been chosen in view of the fact that the calendars we send to our friends should not be things of a day, but works of art and thought to be looked upon with pleasure through all the coming year and even treasured when that year is with the past.

Greetings

A thought to speak the giver's heart,
A motto wrought with graceful art.

On how many occasions when we wish to send a message of congratulation, greeting or good cheer, do we find ordinary pen and ink inadequate. Then it is that a tasteful leaflet, with well-chosen words and beautifully colored decorations, devised with the care that makes it a thing to be kept and treasured, proves a boon indeed. All the resources of color printing and fine paper making have been taxed to make these mottoes, wall cards, leaflets and favors more beautiful, more varied than ever. Added to this, the variety and individuality of hand work is present in a large assortment of cards and favors that have been illustrated or decorated in water-colors by skilled artists.

SQUARE BEASTS AND CURVED

THE LINE OF BEAUTY

AS DEPICTED IN THE ANIMAL WORLD

" Of all the beasts that I have found
Most all of them go round and round."
So starts our author. Then he tries
To show why straight lines are not wise,
Nor beautiful, nor really ART,
For Art and Nature do not part—
(In spite of all that Oscar preaches).
What excellence this genius reaches!
His argument with artful rhymes
He makes and drawings fair he limns.
We note the anatomical waste
In bumps and bulges. Such poor taste!—
When things are planned so gaunt and square
But in the curved what beauty rare,
What grace!—what charm!—what elegance!
It really would make Noah dance.
You'll find the children all will pine
If fed with aught but beauty's line;
When once they learn its appealing curves
The other sort will hurt their nerves.
So parents here are warned to 'WARE
And read this book with studious care
With laughter and with wisdom true
It will repay you if you do.

Rebus Books for Little Folks

Each of the little books possesses the attractions of a story, game, picture-book, and puzzle, all in one. The short narratives are related by means of words and rebus illustrations, which alternate cleverly on the page and attract and please the eye of the child, as well as impart valuable information. The charming little pictures are numerous and extremely well drawn. They form a delightful commentary on the text, and aid mother or governess in teaching the little ones to read. The stories themselves deal with pet animals in their relation to children, and to inculcate lessons of kindness and gentleness to the brute creation. Printed on heavy paper, oblong quarto. Cloth.

A NATURE BOOK, FOR CHILDREN OF ALL AGES

A Book of Nimble Beasts

By DOUGLAS ENGLISH, F.R.P.S.

With over 200 illustrations and six full-page colored plates from photographs of living animals, taken by the author, comprising the most remarkable series of nature pictures ever published.

4to, cloth, boxed $2.00 net

The text is arranged in two forms — explanatory articles, and stories; an article for every month, and a story for each of seven special days of the year.

The inventive imagination with which the author weaves his stories around the characteristic habits of the animals combined with the impressive simplicity of his style, gives the book a captivating and irresistible quality — a quality which will appeal to children of all ages.

It is safe to say that the photographs which illustrate this book form the most remarkable series of nature pictures ever offered to the public. We have in these illustrations a wonderful gallery of expressions and attitudes; a brilliant portrayal of animal activities, taken unawares. The Squirrel in his tree; the Rabbit at his toilet; the slinking Stoat; the nimble Natterjack. The Water Rat in the reeds; the elusive Bat; Sandwasps busy; Fire Toads playing and Shrew Mice fighting. These, and many others, all bristling with personality.

They are thoroughly representative of Mr. English's best work, which differs from that of other nature photographers for two reasons.

Firstly by reason of its artistic quality, and secondly by the fact that many of the pictures (reproduced in this book) are absolutely unique, both because of the rarity of the subject and because they are the only photographs of the subjects in existence, e. g. the Pigmy Shrew Mice, the Field and Wood Crickets, many of the Butterflies, Beetles, etc. — and Spinipes the Sandwasp. The pictures of Spinipes, owing to the smallness and quickness of the subject, are the most extraordinary nature photographs ever accomplished. There is one of the Spinipes actually stinging a Jewel Fly, and the chances of it ever being repeated are a thousand to one!

Animals of Æsop, as Pictured by J. J. Mora.

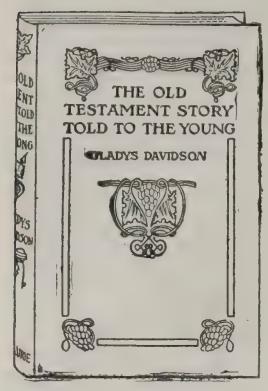
The Old Testament Story: Told to the Young



By Gladys Davidson, author of "Stories from the Operas." Fully illustrated in double tone from old masterpieces.

8vo, cloth. $2.00 net

The outstanding feature of this volume which catches and delights the eye at once is the manner in which it is illustrated. Instead of introducing the ordinary modern drawings, perhaps extremely correct as to technical detail, but too often lacking in dignity and imagination, Miss Davidson has gone to the Old Masters, or, rather she has let Mr. F. Hanfstaengl choose her illustrations for her from the enormous number of which he has published such first-rate reproductions.

But the illustrations, after all, are of minor importance in books of this type. The author says in her preface, "I have endeavored to present the stories and incidents in accordance with the views of those modern scholars who regard and teach the Bible from a wide and reasonable standpoint; and at the same time . . . to preserve the religious character and beauty of these wonderful stories of old time, and to set them forth with love and reverence." To do this is no easy task, for such stories as that of Lot and the Cities of the Plain, of Samson and his deeds of strength, of Jonah, and Daniel, and Nebuchadnezzar, have to be very carefully dealt with, if told by the light of modern science, and yet as part of the inspired writs in "the most wonderful Book in the world."

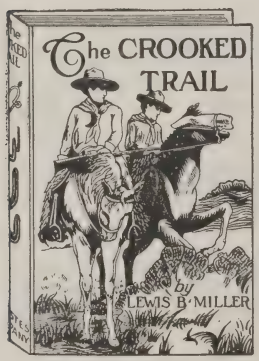
The Crooked Trail



By Lewis B. Miller, author of "The White River Raft." Illustrated by J. W. F. Kennedy.

A thrilling narrative of the vigorous stirring life in that period of the history of Texas which immediately followed that of the pioneers. The Rangers, aided by hunger after the buffalo had been destroyed, had driven the savages on to reservations. Next in this immense wild region the few hardy settlers struggled with outlaws and cattle thieves. It was a time filled with excitement and adventure which the author neglects no opportunity to portray in this tale. Illustrated by J. W. F. Kennedy. Cloth. Large 12mo. $1.50

The White River Raft.

By Lewis B. Miller.

The scene of this stirring tale is laid in the Mississippi Valley more than half a century ago, when the river steamer, flatboats and rafts were the principal means of communication throughout that section. The country was new and scantily settled and the mighty river was not only the main highway through which people had to travel, but also sheltered swarms of pirates and other lawless folk whose activities, together with the perils of storm and flood, often tried the courage and endurance of the voyager. The author does not depend upon superhuman feats or improbable events, finding the stern realities of the time replete with excitement and adventure. It is as described the largely true story of a logging trip into the flooded forests of Arkansas, followed by an eventful raft voyage down the great river to New Orleans. Illustrated by J. W. F. Kennedy. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50

Amy Blanchard's Books for Girls

Talbot's Angles

A charming romance of Southern life. TALBOT'S ANGLES is a beautiful old estate located on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. The death of the owner and the ensuing legal troubles render it necessary for our heroine, the present owner, to leave the place which has been in her family for hundreds of years and endeavor to earn her own living. Another claimant for the property appearing on the scene complicates matters still more. The untangling of this mixed-up condition of affairs, together with the description of this extremely interesting country with its quaint houses filled with beautiful old furniture and silver, its hospitable hostesses, and genuine old mammies, make an extremely interesting story and when once the book is taken up it will be found difficult to lay it down. The story of course ends with a charming romance in which the property is restored to the rightful owner and "everybody lives happy ever after."

With colored frontispiece and black-and-white illustrations by L. J. Bridgman. 12mo, cloth. $1.50

Merrill.

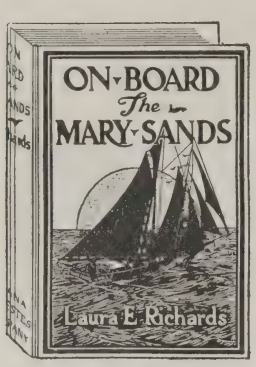
Calvin Park's Series

By LAURA E. RICHARDS



On Board the Mary Sands

By Laura E. Richards. Illustrated by Frank T. Merrill.

In this volume the admirers of Calvin and his Down East neighbors are treated to an account of what he himself describes as the " best part of my life." He says — " We had great times Mary and me! Let alone to home here on the farm; there was the trips we made, times when I'd get restless like and smell blue water; and Mary would say, ' Let's we give the door-key to Mercy Lovely and tell Al to sleep in the stable a spell and we go off somewhere! ' and we'd go! Gorry, we had great times, — that voyage we made to Floridy aboard the Mary Sands." Uniform with " The Wooing of Calvin Parks " and " Up to Calvin's." Cloth, 12mo. $1.25

Up to Calvin's.

While not necessarily a sequel to " Calvin Parks," " Up to Calvin's " chronicles the further adventures of Calvin Parks, Mittie May, Ivory Cheeseman and many of the other lovable Down East characters who proved so entertaining in the previous book. Many new and some extremely interesting ones appear, and Mrs. Richards, who has no equal in ability to portray the shrewd and kindly intelligence, the homely characteristics and the quaint speech of the Down East Yankee, has done both herself and her subject, or perhaps we should say subjects, full justice in this her latest book. Cloth, 12mo. Illustrated by Frank T. Merrill. $1.25

The Wooing of Calvin Parks.

In this story, Mrs. Richards reverts to one of the happiest of her many phases of activity. With loving touch and without the suspicion of exaggeration or unkindly caricature, she acquaints us with the homely virtues, droll conceits, and pithy saws of the fast vanishing New England types. It is a book with a laugh on every page, a surprise in every chapter, and not a tear from beginning to end.

Cloth, 12mo. Illustrated. $1.25

His first book completed, they become engaged, and his second is written under her influence. Through Lady Letty Lancaster he meets an American heiress, Ida Dexter, who now enters London Society. Ida resolves to marry Francis, and being a woman of great will-power, becomes his wife a few weeks after their first meeting. Though deserted and alone, Silence has the good fortune to inherit an old house and a small income, and is thus able to live in quiet and develop her imaginative gifts. The story deals with the problem of these three, and how through tragedy a way of escape is found.

Madam Mystery:

A Romance of Touraine

By May Crommelin, author of "Lovers on the Green," etc.

A young heroine living in a manor house among Devon moorlands is failing under family cares and is ordered abroad for a change. Next she is one of a gay young party enjoying sightseeing among the castles of the Loire where they fall in love — fall out; puzzled all the while by a personage calling herself by the heroine's name. This will-o'-the-wisp double constantly precedes or follows them, refusing to explain her existence or to be met. In the end this hide and seek game ends by the lady being caught after she is becoming dangerous. Who is she? the novel might be called. Who she is brings the merry hunt among the Touraine castles to a satisfactory end.

Cloth, 12mo. $1.25 net

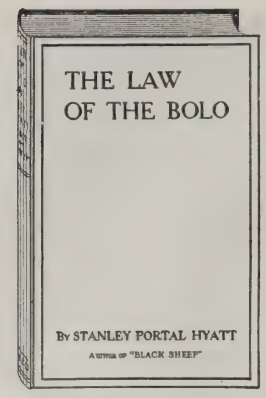
The Law of the Bolo



A Romance of the Philippines under Spanish and American Rule. By Stanley Portal Hyatt, author of "Black Sheep," "A Soldier of Fortune," etc.

The Bolo is the terrible two-foot knife of the Filipino, with which he can cleave his enemy from collar bone to waist. The Law of the Bolo, which is and always has been, is that the spoil shall go to the man with the longest reach. This code of elemental directness and simplicity is the only one suited to the conditions there. In this thrilling romance we see the workings of this savage law on white man and brown alike; and how all difficulties of life, love, war, or trade, are adjusted by its swift decree. White officials, commissioners and politicians fail to understand or sympathize with it, but soldiers or ladrone chiefs have learned that they are under its sway. The love and revenge of Felizardo, and devotion of Captain Hayle, form a romance of breathless interest. To both, the Law of the Bolo wrought solution of their difficulties.

Wayward Anne.

By Curtis Yorke, author of the "Other Sara," etc.

The plot of "Wayward Anne" is simplicity itself — but it is the simplicity of the art which conceals art. An unconventional friendship of a man, who is under a cloud, with a girl who believes in him, forms its basis; and surrounding this initial episode are a series of events and incidents and happenings which lead up to an inevitable climax, and which are related with all that enchanting purity of thought and style and method which are characteristic of this author's work. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50

Hilary Thornton.

By Hubert Wales, author of "Cynthia in the Wilderness," "The Old Allegiance."

In "Hilary Thornton," the originality of the theme is not less apparent than the splendid courage and consistency with which the author carries it to an inevitable termination. Superadded to a story of piercing emotion are conceptions of public life and private duty, which, though they touch upon matters of opinion, do not tend to lessen the power and interest of the story. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50

The Sands of Pleasure.

By Filson Young, author of "The Happy Motorist," "Christopher Columbus."

The author has proved himself master of his subject. The descriptions of the lighthouse building are intensely interesting, and the atmosphere of the surroundings is in perfect accord. In the pictures of gay Parisian life — the Bohemia of to-day — no modern English author has been so successful. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50

Captain Cartwright and His Labrador Journal

EDITED BY DR. C. W. TOWNSEND, author of "A Labrador Spring," "Along the Labrador Coast."

These Journals, detailing the experience during nearly 16 years of this pioneer settler and trader on the inhospitable but interesting Labrador coast, are a mine of valuable information. They reveal his tact and justice in dealing with the natives; his accurate and painstaking studies at first hand of the furbearing animals, waterbirds and botanical species of the then new and unknown country; likewise in experiences of the labor difficulties of the day and adventures with American privateers during the Revolution. Dr. Townsend has skilfully edited the work and supplied modern equivalents for the original biological data. An Introduction is contributed by Dr. W. T. Grenfell.

With illustrations and map. Large 12mo, cloth. $2.00

A Labrador Spring.

By Charles Wendell Townsend, M. D., author of "Along the Labrador Coast." An instructive account of a vacation trip to Labrador and a study of the brief northern spring with its melting snow-banks, its bursting buds and procession of flowers, its migrating birds and Indians and the varied spring activities of its white settlers.

It describes not only a cruise along a portion of the southern Labrador coast beset with islands and abounding in salmon rivers, but the human atmosphere of Acadian fishermen, fur traders and Montagnais Indians, and it gives one many glimpses of the picturesque life in these little known regions.

Illustrated by numerous photographs taken on the trip. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50

Along the Labrador Coast.

By Charles Wendell Townsend, M. D., author of "The Birds of Essex County."

A most readable and timely account of a trip to the Labrador coast, giving full description of the scenery, climate, people, flora and fauna, history and tradition; likewise routes of travel and accommodation for intending visitors. The author, who is a well-known physician and ornithologist, treats with great interest this nearest Arctic land, which is receiving world-wide attention through the philanthropic endeavors of Doctor Grenfell, and the romantic writings of Norman Duncan and others. The work is fully illustrated and contains a sketch map of the whole region.
